MUSICIANS AND MUSIC

1 STARTING POINT

Taste in music

A Read the statements expressing different views on music. Which ones do you agree with?

Overheard on the Streets

1 "I think the more you like to dance, the more you appreciate music with a Latin beat."

2 "At first, I didn't like rap music. But the more I listened to the lyrics, the more I understood its powerful social message."

3 "Some of the greatest music is in movie soundtracks. The more exciting the soundtrack, the better the movie seems."

4 "Radio stations kill music sales by overplaying songs. The more I hear a pop song on the radio, the less I feel like buying it."

5 "I'm interested in how a band plays, not how it looks. The more a band focuses on its appearance, the less interesting the music is."

6 "Classical music has many layers of complexity. The more knowledgeable you are about it, the more you'll be able to enjoy it."

7 "TV commercials often feature a catchy tune – and the catchier the tune, the more likely you are to remember the name of the product."

8 "A lot of my friends like to go to clubs with really loud music, but not me. The louder the music gets, the sooner I feel like leaving."

B Pair work What kinds of things do you look for in new songs or artists? What makes certain songs more successful than others?

"I love sampling. You know, when artists mix older songs with new music and lyrics."

"Me, too. I like recognizable tunes, but with a new twist."

2 LISTENING

Awesome tunes

A Listen to Adam and Lisa talk about music. What are they doing?

B Listen again. What are the three types of music Adam and Lisa listen to? What do they think about the types of music they hear? Complete the chart.

	Type of music	Lisa's opinion	Adam's opinion is explored in context and builds on previously encountered structures.

GRAMMAR

Grammar Plus:

3 GRAMMAR

Verbs in the subjunctive

Certain expressions and verbs such as demand, insist, propose, recommend, request, and suggest are followed by the subjunctive. The subjunctive uses the base form of the verb. It is generally used in formal language to express a wish or necessity.

I think consumers need to insist (that) advertisements be truthful in every respect. Some ads seem to demand (that) the customer buy the product.

These expressions are frequently followed by the subjunctive:

it is crucial	it is imperative	it is important
it is essential	it is vital	it is critical

GRAMMAR PLUS see page T21

A Look at the Starting Point on page 66 again. Which opinion does not use the subjunctive?

B Use verbs followed by the subjunctive instead of should or must to rewrite these sentences without changing the meaning.

- Companies should advertise more to increase sales. (I / suggest)
I suggest that companies advertise more to increase sales.
- Advertising agencies should use humor in their ads. (It is important)
- Cities should tear down billboards that obstruct city views. (I / demand)
- The government must regulate ads on the Internet. (It is essential)
- Viewers should skip the ads that precede online video clips. (I / recommend)
- The advertising of harmful products must stop. (It is crucial)
- False advertising should be treated as a serious crime. (I / propose)
- Public television should remain commercial free. (It is vital)

C Group work Use the verbs and expressions in the box below to give these people advice on their problems. Do you ever have similar problems? Ask your group for advice.

insist	it is crucial	it is essential
propose	recommend	suggest

Useful expressions

Asking for advice

What do you think I should do?
What would you do if you were me?
What would you do if you were in my position?

1 "The fast food in commercials and posters always looks great. It looks so good I can't resist buying some, but what they actually give me looks pretty bad and really unappetizing."

2 "I saw a clothing store with a big 'Going Out of Business' sign in the window last year, so I went in and bought a lot of clothes. Now, it's a year later, and the sign is still there."

3 "Several friends told me they have received spam emails from me offering to sell them diet pills. The thing is, I didn't send the emails. Someone must have hacked my email account!"

LESSON B Consumer awareness 67

5 DISCUSSION

Tech savvy?

A Are you a technophile or a technophobe? Complete the survey to find out.

TECHNOPHILE or TECHNOPHOBE?

Agree (2 pts.) Not Sure (1 pt.) Disagree (0 pts.)

- If technology permits it, I would favor the development of machines that surpass humans in intelligence.
- Governments need to generously fund research and development in technology.
- Everyone should try to stay informed about the latest innovations in technology.
- Genetic technologies should be used to gradually improve the human body over the course of generations.
- Science and technology will someday solve the world's problems of famine, war, disease, and overcrowding.
- It's important to acquire new technological devices short after they come out.
- Social media has a positive effect on people's social lives.
- Being connected to the Internet is a human right.

SCORE
0-4 You are a technophobe, a person who has a strong mistrust of technology.
5-8 While not in love with technology, you see the need for it in our world.

B Group work Discuss your answers to the survey. Talk your choices and whether or not you agree with your

6 WRITING

Compare-and-contrast essays

A compare-and-contrast essay presents the similarities and differences of two or more things. The thesis statement expresses your position on the subject, and it is followed by supporting paragraphs that discuss similarities and differences.

A Read the essay and circle the thesis statement. Then match each paragraph to the headings below. Underline the words that show introduction differences conclusion

THE BEATLES

- Although the Beatles and the Rolling Stones have both been called the "greatest rock 'n' roll band of all time," the prize should go to the Rolling Stones. While both bands have had a huge influence on popular music, the Beatles broke up in 1970, and the Rolling Stones went on recording and performing for over 50 years.
- Both the Beatles and the Rolling Stones began as four-member British bands that first became popular in the 1960s. The two bands released their first records within a year of each other, and both featured a pair of talented songwriters: Paul McCartney and John Lennon for the Beatles, and Mick Jagger and Keith Richards for the Rolling Stones. Like the Rolling Stones, the Beatles were famous for their cutting-edge style at the time of their debut, and both bands were known for their energetic stage performances.

B Choose two bands, singers, or musical styles to compare. Make a list of similarities and differences. Then choose that expresses your view.

C Write a four-paragraph essay. Make sure it has an thesis statement, two paragraphs describing similarities, and an effective conclusion.

D Pair work Take turns reading your essays. Do not Can your partner guess your point of view?

WRITING
tasks build academic writing skills through step-by-step activities.

24 SPEAKING
activities spark lively discussions focusing on interesting and relevant situations.

Passages Third Edition is a two-level course that will open the door to communicating with greater fluency and proficiency, with:

- more sophisticated real-world grammar and vocabulary,
- thought-provoking discussions and academic writing activities,
- more challenging listening and reading comprehension topics.

READING
passages drawn from authentic sources promote critical thinking and analysis.

6 READING

Technology and friendship

A Pair work Discuss these questions. Then read the article to compare your ideas with the author's.

- What are some ways that interacting online might encourage people to connect in real life?
- How could social media help shy students participate more in class?

HOW SOCIAL MEDIA "FRIENDS" TRANSLATE INTO REAL-LIFE FRIENDSHIPS

When social media first gained attention, I heard many people say online connections couldn't possibly be real friends. Some even feared people might trade face-to-face interaction for a virtual life online. But now the majority of the people I know consider at least some of their online friends to be like extended family. Which made me wonder – does social media actually encourage people to connect "in real life"?

One example of online life translating into real-life interaction happens on Mashable's Social Media Day, when thousands of people attend in-person meet-ups to celebrate the power of online connections. Another example is location-based apps that help users connect face-to-face by allowing them to see who else has checked in at the same store, restaurant, or party – or even who is living in a city they plan to visit. They might then decide to seek each other out "in real life."

A Pew Internet and American Life Project report found that people using social networking sites have more close relationships and receive more support than others. They are also more likely to reconnect with old friends and use social networking to keep up with those they are already close to.

Other research shows that social media may also deepen what could otherwise be passing relationships. A study by Dr. Rey Junco found that college students who interacted with each other and their professors on Twitter were more likely to meet outside class to study. They also developed unexpected real-life connections and were also more likely to ask questions in class.

"What I find most fascinating is that I've consistently seen that students who start a course being more introverted and not speaking up during class discussions become more extroverted and participate more when encouraged to communicate through social media with their professors and their classmates," Junco said.

However, if social media does increase the likelihood of real-life interaction, it can also sometimes complicate it. When fans of social media meet face-to-face, their computers and mobile devices may actually make the meeting less productive. Instead of looking at each other, they may be glued to their screens!

B Group work Discuss these questions. Then share your answers with the class.

- In what ways are virtual friendships similar to and different from real-life friendships?
- Would you be more or less willing to share ideas on social media than you would in class? Why?
- What other issues and complications might come up when online friends meet face-to-face?

RELATIONSHIPS

LESSON A ► The best of friends

STARTING POINT

The nature of friendship

- A Read these statements about friendship. Can you explain what they mean?
What other statements would you add to the list?

WHAT IS A Friend?

1. A friend is someone who brings out the best in you.
2. Good friends are always happy to help when you run into a problem.
3. A friend is someone who cheers you up when you're feeling bad.
4. True friends don't drift apart even after many years of separation.
5. A real friend will always stand up for you when others are putting you down.
6. Never be afraid to open up and ask a friend for advice.
A true friend will never turn you down.
7. Make new friends, but hang on to the old ones.
8. Good friends are hard to come by, harder to leave, and impossible to do without.

"The first statement means a friend inspires you to show all your positive qualities."

- B Group work Consider the statements in part A.
What makes a good friend? Discuss with your group.

"In my opinion, a good friend is someone who makes you a better person. It's someone who brings out the best in you."

Useful expressions

Expressing opinions

In my opinion, . . .
I have to say that . . .
The way I see it, . . .
Personally, I (don't) think . . .

LISTENING & SPEAKING

Friendship among women and men

- A Listen to a professor talk about author Deborah Tannen's ideas. In Tannen's opinion, what is the main difference between friendship among men and friendship among women?
- B Listen again. According to Tannen, which of these things do male friends often do (M) and which do female friends often do (F)? Write the correct letter.
- | | |
|-------------------------------------|---|
| ___ 1. are direct and to the point | ___ 4. prefer to share factual information |
| ___ 2. discuss daily life at length | ___ 5. value activities over talk |
| ___ 3. reveal private thoughts | ___ 6. talk as a way to better understand their lives |

- C Group work Do you agree or disagree with Tannen's ideas about friendship?
Why or why not?

"I have to say that I think some of her ideas seem to be accurate . . ."

3 GRAMMAR

Phrasal verbs

A phrasal verb is a verb plus a particle, such as down, into, out, or up.

The meaning of a phrasal verb is usually different from the meaning of its parts.

Separable phrasal verbs can take objects before or after the particle.

If the object is a pronoun, it always appears before the particle.

A friend is someone who brings out the best in you.

A friend is someone who brings the best out in you.

A friend is someone who cheers you up when you're feeling bad.

With inseparable phrasal verbs, the object cannot go between the verb and the particle.

Good friends are always happy to help when you run into a problem.

Three-word phrasal verbs have a particle and a preposition.

Make new friends, but hang on to the old ones.

Intransitive phrasal verbs don't take objects.

True friends don't drift apart.

GRAMMAR PLUS see page 106

- A Look at the Starting Point on page 2 again. Can you find the phrasal verbs? Which are separable, inseparable, and/or three-word verbs? Which are also intransitive? Write them in the chart.

Separable	Inseparable	Three-word verbs	Intransitive

- B Complete the questions with the phrasal verbs and objects in parentheses. Sometimes more than one answer is possible.

- Have you ever had a friend who brought out the worst / brought the worst out (bring out / the worst) in you?
- Have you ever _____ (run into / a friend) that you hadn't seen in a long time?
- Do you usually _____ (stand up for / your friends) when other people criticize them?
- Can you _____ (do without / a cell phone) and still keep in touch with friends?
- When friends ask you for a favor, do you usually say yes, or do you _____ (turn down / them)?
- Do you _____ (hang on to / your old friends) or do you drift apart as time goes by?
- Some people like to _____ (put down / their friends) by insulting them. How would you feel if a friend did that to you?

- C Pair work Discuss the questions in part B.

"Have you ever had a friend who brought out the worst in you?"

"Yeah, I once had a really messy roommate. She made me so angry."

VOCABULARY

Describing friendship

A Pair work Complete the chart with the correct parts of speech.

	Verb	Adjective		Verb	Adjective
1.	admire		4.	empathize
2.		beneficial	5.	endure
3.	clash		6.		harmonious

B Choose the word from the chart in part A that best replaces the boldfaced words. Compare answers with a partner.

- Ryan and Tina work to keep their friendship free of conflict. harmonious
- Sometimes their opinions are very different, but they still get along.
- They work to make their friendship valuable and constructive.
- Having the same background helps them understand and identify with each other.
- Ryan and Tina think very highly of each other's accomplishments.
- Their friendship will certainly last a long time.

VOCABULARY PLUS see page 130

DISCUSSION

What should friends have in common?

A Look at the statements about friendship below. Do you agree with the statements? Add a statement of your own.

>> PEOPLE ...		Agree	Disagree
1.	who are close in age empathize with each other better.	<input type="checkbox"/>	<input type="checkbox"/>
2.	with similar social backgrounds have more harmonious friendships.	<input type="checkbox"/>	<input type="checkbox"/>
3.	who have similar values and beliefs have stronger connections.	<input type="checkbox"/>	<input type="checkbox"/>
4.	with similar personalities have the most enduring friendships.	<input type="checkbox"/>	<input type="checkbox"/>
5.	benefit from having friends with the same educational background.	<input type="checkbox"/>	<input type="checkbox"/>
6.	should only mingle with friends who have the same interests.	<input type="checkbox"/>	<input type="checkbox"/>
7.	from different cultures often clash with each other.	<input type="checkbox"/>	<input type="checkbox"/>
8.	_____.	<input type="checkbox"/>	<input type="checkbox"/>

B Group work Share your opinions and explain your reasons.

"The way I see it, people who are close in age can empathize better with each other. They share many of the same experiences and understand each other."

"I see your point, but I don't think age is that important. If people like doing similar things, they can be good friends."

C Group work How many people agreed or disagreed with each statement? Report your findings to the class.

"Three of us agreed that friends who are close in age empathize with each other better . . ."

Useful expressions

Disagreeing politely

I see your point, but . . .

I see what you mean, but . . .

I'm not sure I agree.

Do you think so?

6 WRITING

Developing a thesis statement

The first paragraph of a composition contains a thesis statement, which presents the main idea. The remaining paragraphs each have a single focus expressed in a topic sentence that develops the thesis statement.

A Read the composition. Underline the thesis statement in the first paragraph.

B Match each of the other paragraphs with the phrase below that best summarizes its focus.

___ why we have a close friendship

___ what we have in common

___ how we are different

1 My best friend, Eva, and I are different in many ways, but we have one important thing in common – we love to travel. Whenever I have the urge to explore a new place, I can always count on Eva to go with me. Our friendship shows that people who are very different can still have similar interests.

2 The differences between Eva and me are significant. Eva is an artist who loves to take photographs and draw pictures of the interesting things she sees. I am a marketing representative for a pharmaceutical company and spend a lot of my time estimating sales figures. Eva is a very impulsive person, and I'm very organized. She's very quiet, but I'm a very talkative person who enjoys telling stories.

3 Eva and I are both adventurous and love traveling. We discovered this shortly after we met several years ago. One day we were talking about vacations, and we found we had both visited many of the same places. We immediately made a plan to go to a nearby historical city the following weekend.

4 Although we are quite different in many ways, Eva and I have become close over the years, and we now have a very special and enduring friendship. Every time we get together, we always have so much to talk about and have the best time. One reason for this is that we share a love of travel and adventure. The other reason is that our differences complement each other, so we always get along well whenever we travel together.

C Write a composition about a close friend. Then exchange your composition with a partner, and answer these questions.

1. What is the thesis statement? Underline it.
2. Does each paragraph have a single focus? Write the focus for each in the margin of the text.
3. What else would you like to know about your partner's friend? Ask at least two questions.

LESSON B ► Make new friends, but keep the old . . .

STARTING POINT

Meeting new people

A Read about how Yuan Lin, Brandon, and Jacob met new people. Which way of meeting people do you think is best?

Yuan Lin

"I decided to move to England last year. I felt really lonely at first. In fact, I regretted moving here. But I never gave up trying new things. Then, I saw an ad for a Chinese-English language exchange. It was a great way to meet cool people!"

Brandon

"I'd been planning to take a class, but was putting off enrolling. Well, last month I started taking a cooking class. I never expected to meet so many nice people! Some of us get together at each other's homes and practice what we learn. We've become really good friends!"

Jacob

"I didn't know many people at my new job, but I kept being invited by my co-workers to a lunchtime yoga class. I'm so glad I finally said yes! A couple of my colleagues play soccer, too, and they're considering starting a company team!"

"A language exchange is a great idea. You can meet people who are interested in languages and culture, so everyone already has something in common."

B Group work What other ways of meeting new people can you suggest to someone in these situations? Add another situation to the list.

Someone who . . .

- moved to a new neighborhood
- started a new job
- is over 65 years old
- has little free time
- is very shy
- _____

LISTENING

A chance meeting

A Pair work When was the last time you unexpectedly ran into someone you know? Tell your partner about your experience.

 B Listen to Dena talk about how she met her friend Kate. Where were they when they first met? Where did they meet again?

 C Listen again. Then answer the following questions.

1. Why were Dena and Kate going to Los Angeles?
2. What did Dena regret after she said good-bye to Kate?
3. How much time passed between their first and second meetings?
4. How did Samantha, the guest at the party, know Kate?

3 GRAMMAR

Gerund and infinitive constructions

These verbs are normally followed by a gerund: appreciate, consider, enjoy, give up, keep, put off, suggest.

They're considering starting a company team!

These verbs are normally followed by an infinitive: ask, decide, expect, intend, need, refuse, seem, tend.

I never expected to meet so many nice people!

These verbs are followed by either a gerund or an infinitive: begin, bother, continue, hate, prefer, start.

Last month I started taking / to take a cooking class.

Infinitives and gerunds can also occur in the passive voice. They follow the pattern subject + verb + being / to be + past participle.

I kept being invited by my co-workers to a lunchtime yoga class.

She asked to be chosen for the job.

GRAMMAR PLUS see page 107

A Look at the Starting Point on page 6 again. Can you find another verb followed by a gerund and another verb followed by an infinitive?

B Choose the correct form of the verbs. Sometimes both answers are possible.

Monday, March 18

I've never been a really popular guy. I'm the type of person who tends 1 to have / having one or two good friends rather than lots of acquaintances. Well, when I moved away from my hometown after getting a job in Denver, I really needed 2 to make / making some new friends. Because I'm shy, I considered 3 to change / changing my personality to become more outgoing. But that was very difficult for me. Just the same, I didn't give up 4 to try / trying. I decided 5 to create / creating a new image for myself. I bought myself some new shoes, new clothes, and I even got a new haircut and started 6 to wear / wearing contact lenses. However, it didn't seem 7 to change / changing anything. I was beginning to regret 8 to leave / leaving my hometown when, all of a sudden, I got a call from my old friend Jim. He was planning 9 to move / moving here pretty soon. He wanted some advice about finding an apartment in the city, and I suggested 10 to share / sharing an apartment with me. Well, he agreed! I really enjoy 11 to have / having someone to spend time with, and together we've made a lot of new friends.

5 DISCUSSION

Friendship maintenance

A Look at these ideas for maintaining friendships. Choose three that you think are the most important.

Advice for Maintaining FRIENDSHIPS

|--|---|
| <ul style="list-style-type: none"> ▶ Praise your friends often and keep a positive, optimistic attitude when you're around them. ▶ Never betray a friend's trust – it can cause real resentment. ▶ Try to be completely honest with your friends at all times. ▶ Don't hold unkind words against a friend. Consider any problems he or she has that might be the cause of the hurtful words. | <ul style="list-style-type: none"> ▶ Use social media to help you feel connected to friends but not to replace face time. ▶ Be a good listener and try to empathize with your friends. ▶ Respect your friends' point of view even when you disagree. Don't rehash old arguments. ▶ Watch out for "unhealthy" friendships. Sometimes it's better to end a friendship and move on with your life. |

B Group work Tell your group which three pieces of advice you chose, and explain why. Then share any other ideas you have about maintaining friendships.

"Well, I think it's important to always be completely honest with your friends. If you aren't honest with your friends, they might not be honest with you."

Useful expressions

Agreeing on importance

Well, I think it's important . . .
 Yeah, that's true, but even more important is . . .
 And let's not forget . . .
 You're right . . . is also quite important.

Technology and friendship

A Pair work Discuss these questions. Then read the article to compare your ideas with the author's.

1. What are some ways that interacting online might encourage people to connect in real life?
2. How could social media help shy students participate more in class?

HOW SOCIAL MEDIA “FRIENDS” TRANSLATE INTO REAL-LIFE FRIENDSHIPS

When social media first gained attention, I heard many people say online connections couldn't possibly be real friends. Some even feared people might trade face-to-face interaction for a virtual life online. But now the majority of the people I know consider at least some of their online friends to be like extended family. Which made me wonder – does social media actually encourage people to connect “in real life”?

One example of online life translating into real-life interaction happens on Mashable's Social Media Day, when thousands of people attend in-person meet-ups to celebrate the power of online connections. Another example is location-based apps that help users connect face-to-face by allowing them to see who else has checked in at the same store, restaurant, or party – or even who is living in a city they plan to visit. They might then decide to seek each other out “in real life.”

A Pew Internet and American Life Project report found that people using social networking sites have more close relationships and receive more support than others. They are also more likely to reconnect with old friends and use social networking to keep up with those they are already close to.

Other research shows that social media may also deepen what could otherwise be passing relationships. A study by Dr. Rey Junco found that college students who interacted with each other and their professors on Twitter were more likely to meet outside class to study. They also developed unexpected real-life connections and were also more likely to ask questions in class.

“What I find most fascinating is that I’ve consistently seen that students who start a course being more introverted and not speaking up during class discussions become more extroverted and participate more when encouraged to communicate through social media with their professors and their classmates,” Junco said.

However, if social media does increase the likelihood of real-life interaction, it can also sometimes complicate it. When fans of social media meet face-to-face, their computers and mobile devices may actually make the meeting less productive. Instead of looking at each other, they may be glued to their screens!

B Group work Discuss these questions. Then share your answers with the class.

1. In what ways are virtual friendships similar to and different from real-life friendships?
2. Would you be more or less willing to share ideas on social media than you would in class? Why?
3. What other issues and complications might come up when online friends meet face-to-face?

CLOTHES AND APPEARANCE

LESSON A ► The way we dress

1 STARTING POINT Fashion sense

A What's your approach to fashion? Complete this survey.

Clothing Survey		Agree	Disagree
	1 When I choose clothes, I tend to think of comfort first and appearance second.	<input type="checkbox"/>	<input type="checkbox"/>
	2 I hate choosing my outfits in the morning. I just put on anything I can find.	<input type="checkbox"/>	<input type="checkbox"/>
	3 Celebrities sometimes inspire me to change the way I look.	<input type="checkbox"/>	<input type="checkbox"/>
	4 Companies should discourage employees from wearing casual clothes to work.	<input type="checkbox"/>	<input type="checkbox"/>
	5 I don't like to draw attention to myself, so I wear pretty conventional clothes.	<input type="checkbox"/>	<input type="checkbox"/>
	6 I enjoy shopping for clothes. I don't mind spending hours in clothing stores.	<input type="checkbox"/>	<input type="checkbox"/>
	7 High prices rarely prevent me from buying quality clothing.	<input type="checkbox"/>	<input type="checkbox"/>
	8 Peer pressure sometimes compels me to wear brand-name clothing.	<input type="checkbox"/>	<input type="checkbox"/>

B Group work Discuss your answers to the survey.

"I tend to think of comfort first when I choose clothes. When I'm comfortable, I feel good, and that's more important to me than looking good."

2 DISCUSSION Judging by appearances

A Pair work Read these famous quotations. In your own words, explain to a partner what they mean. Do you agree with the quotations?

It's always the badly dressed people who are the most interesting.

– Jean Paul Gaultier

You're never fully dressed without a smile.

– Martin Charnin

Three-tenths of good looks are due to nature; seven-tenths to dress.

– Chinese proverb

"I think the first one means interesting people focus on more meaningful things than clothes. I think it's often true. For example, scientists and inventors don't always dress very well."

B Group work Discuss these questions. Explain your answers.

1. Do you think it's fair for people to judge you by the way you dress?
2. If you had an unlimited clothing budget, would you change your style?
3. Would you change the way you dress to please someone else?

GRAMMAR

Review of verb patterns

Study the following common verb patterns.

a. verb + infinitive

When I choose clothes, I tend to think of comfort first and appearance second.

b. verb + object + infinitive

Celebrities sometimes inspire me to change the way I look.

c. verb + gerund

I hate choosing my outfits in the morning.

d. verb + object + preposition + gerund

High prices rarely prevent me from buying quality clothing.

A Look at the Starting Point on page 10 again. Can you find another example of each verb pattern above?

B Pair work Which verb patterns from the box do these sentences follow? Write a, b, c, or d.

- ___ 1. I enjoy making a statement with my clothes.
- ___ 2. I like to wear unusual color combinations.
- ___ 3. I refuse to shop with my friends.
- ___ 4. I can't help being critical of what others wear.
- ___ 5. Parents should allow their children to wear whatever they want.
- ___ 6. My friends usually advise me against spending too much on clothes.
- ___ 7. My parents have always discouraged me from wearing sloppy clothes.
- ___ 8. Advertising definitely convinces me to buy certain articles of clothing.

C Pair work Which statements above are true for you? Explain and give examples.

D Pair work Complete each sentence with a verb from the box and your own ideas. Then add a follow-up comment, and compare with a partner.

advise	discourage	encourage	require	tend allow	don't mind	permit	seem	try

1. Some schools require students to wear school uniforms.
They think that students will spend more time studying and less time thinking about clothes.
2. Parents often _____ their children from _____.
3. Some restaurants don't _____ customers to _____.
4. I _____ to wear clothes that _____.
5. Experts _____ people against wearing _____.
6. My clothes always _____ to make me look _____.
7. I _____ buying expensive _____.
8. Young people _____ to be concerned about _____.

VOCABULARY

Your taste in clothes

A Look at the words below. Do some have similar meanings? Which ones would you use to describe your own style?

chic	conservative	fashionable	formal	functional	quirky	sloppy	stylish classic	elegant	flashy	frumpy	funky	retro	stuffy	trendy

B Pair work What do you think of these styles? Describe the people in the picture.

"Erica's outfit is pretty functional. She's probably going to the gym."

"Yes, but I'd say it's fashionable, too. The colors and design are stylish, and it fits her well."

LISTENING

Fashion developments

A Pair work Was your style the same five years ago? In what ways has your style changed? In what ways has it remained the same?

B Listen to Mark, Shelby, and Carlos describe how their tastes in fashion have changed. What was their style, and what is their style now?

	Then	Now
1. Mark
2. Shelby
3. Carlos

C Listen again. Write the items of clothing or accessories you hear for each of the looks below.

grunge _____ urban _____ goth _____

bohemian _____ sporty _____ preppy _____

Writing about personal beliefs

In a composition about a personal belief, clearly state that belief in a thesis statement in the first paragraph. In the following paragraphs, give examples to support your thesis.

- A Look at these fashion mottos. Which motto best reflects your opinion about fashion? Why? Share your ideas with a partner.

Don't just get dressed.
Make a statement.

Why look like everyone else?

Feel comfortable.
That's all that matters.

Don't live in the past.
Wear today's styles!

- B Use the motto you chose as the basis for a thesis statement about your personal belief about fashion. Compare your ideas with a partner.

Your clothes should make a statement about who you are.

- C Use your thesis statement to develop a composition of about 200 words in three paragraphs that describes your approach to clothes.

I believe that clothes should be more than functional. They should make a statement about who you are. Before you get dressed or go shopping for clothing, it's important to think about what kind of message your clothes will send to others.

I think of my clothes as a reflection of my personality. When people look at me and my clothes, they can get an idea of the kind of person I am. I'm interested in the arts, and I'm concerned about environmental issues. Therefore, I not only wear colorful clothes that are a bit unusual, but I also wear natural fabrics that are made locally. This is important to me.

I don't follow trends because I don't like to look like everyone else. I'm unique, and I want my clothes to show it.

- D Pair work Exchange compositions and answer these questions.

1. Does the thesis statement in the first paragraph clearly state the writer's point of view?
2. Do the examples given in the other paragraphs support the thesis statement and clarify the writer's point of view?
3. What else do you want to know about your partner's attitude toward clothes?

LESSON B ► How we appear to others

1 STARTING POINT

Forming an impression

A Look at the statements about how people form a first impression of someone. Choose the statements that are true for you.

First Impressions

What People Notice First When They Meet Someone New

<input type="checkbox"/> What I notice is the other person's eyes.	<input type="checkbox"/> What I notice is a person's figure (or physique).
<input type="checkbox"/> What's really important to me is a person's smile.	<input type="checkbox"/> What strikes me first is the way people wear their hair.
<input type="checkbox"/> What I always notice is a person's hands.	<input type="checkbox"/> I always appreciate a nice pair of shoes.
<input type="checkbox"/> I look at people's clothes first.	<input type="checkbox"/> I have no idea what I notice first.

B Group work What other traits help you form an impression of a person? What are the three most important traits for the people in your group? Are they the same for men and women?

2 LISTENING

Important traits

A Listen to Gabriela, Joon, and Alice talk about what is important to them when forming an impression. Complete the chart.

	What is important
1. Gabriela
2. Joon
3. Alice

B Listen again. Which speakers mention what is not very important to them? What do they mention? Complete the chart.

	What is not very important
1. Gabriela
2. Joon
3. Alice

C Pair work Which speaker thinks the most like you? Share your reasons with a partner.

3 GRAMMAR

Cleft sentences with what

You can add what and a form of be to a sentence when you want to emphasize information. The resulting sentence is called a cleft sentence.

A person's smile is really important to me. What's really important to me is a person's smile.

For sentences with verbs other than be, insert what at the beginning of the sentence and a form of be after the main verb.

I always notice a person's hands. What I always notice is a person's hands.

GRAMMAR PLUS see page 109

A Look at the Starting Point on page 14 again. Can you find more cleft sentences? Try to change them into declarative sentences.

B Rewrite these sentences to add emphasis by beginning them with what. Which statements are true for you? Compare answers with a partner.

1. I appreciate a person with a good sense of humor.
What I appreciate is a person with a good sense of humor.
2. I always notice the way people look at me.
3. A person's fashion sense is important to me.
4. I pay attention to people's manners.
5. I really dislike sarcasm.
6. I'm interested in the subjects people talk about.
7. A kind face is appealing to me.

4 DISCUSSION

Good first impressions

A Pair work Read these tips on making a good first impression. Choose the tip you think is the most useful. Then explain your choice to a partner.

QUICK TIPS for Making a Lasting Impression

1	Appearance matters. Dress a little nicer than you need to when meeting new people.	3	Break the silence with small talk about a topic that you think will interest others.	5	Everyone likes compliments, so give plenty of them. Just make sure you are sincere.
2	Occasionally, use the names of the people you are talking to, for example: Amy, have you seen that movie yet?	4	When it's in good taste, use humor. A joke can be a nice way to break the ice, but what you should avoid is sarcasm.	6	Be yourself, and be sure to smile. A friendly smile can make other people feel at ease.

B Group work What's the best way to make a good first impression in these situations? Discuss and add some tips of your own.

- a dinner party at a new friend's home
- the first day in a fitness class
- an initial interview for a job you want
- the first time you meet new neighbors

"At a dinner party with new friends, what's really important is good table manners."

"That's true. Also, what I always do is compliment my hosts on the food."

DISCUSSION

Faces matter

Gisele Bündchen

John Cho

Psychologist Leslie Zebrowitz found that people are usually categorized by their faces. She gave résumés of equally qualified people to groups of business students, with photos attached. It was discovered that the students recommended baby-faced people for jobs that required more sympathetic and submissive people, while people with mature faces were seen as more dignified or intense and were recommended for high-powered jobs, like lawyers. "We found that the more baby-faced people had baby-faced jobs," Zebrowitz said. "People seemed to be chosen for jobs, or to select themselves into jobs, to match their appearance."

Group work Answer these questions.

- Which of the people above do you think have "baby faces"? What makes a baby face different from a mature face?
- In what ways can having a baby face be useful? In what situations is it better to have a mature face?
- In some countries, job applications sometimes require a recent photo of the candidate. Do you agree with this practice? Why or why not?

Changing a negative perception

A Pair work In what ways could someone make a bad first impression? Once a bad impression is made, what can be done to change the negative perception? Discuss with a partner. Then read the article.

OVERCOMING A BAD FIRST IMPRESSION

Have any of these situations happened to you? Forgetting someone's name after you've just met, spilling coffee on your potential boss during an interview, or unintentionally insulting a co-worker on your first day? Ouch! You never have a second chance to make a first impression, so what happens when that first impression is a negative one? Here is how you can recover.

Apologize immediately. As soon as you realize that you may have offended someone, address it. The more time that passes, the more the story can become blown out of proportion. While first impressions stick, so do last impressions. Take control of the situation by making your last impression a positive one.

Avoid over-apologizing. Saying you're sorry is important, but overdoing it can create another uncomfortable situation. Your goal is to acknowledge your mistake and reposition yourself as being responsible and sensitive. If you repeatedly bring up the past, groveling and begging for forgiveness, you're defeating your purpose. It puts the other person in the uncomfortable position of having to constantly reassure you.

Make no assumptions. It's easy to assume that others think the worst of you, but usually what we imagine is far worse than reality. So, don't start out with, "You must think I'm a total idiot." Say something like, "I'm uncomfortable with how I behaved yesterday because I realized I might have offended you. Did you feel the same way?" The other person may think it was no big deal.

Be sincere. A sincere apology requires three steps. First, don't blame what happened on other people or circumstances. Second, acknowledge how your actions affected the other person – which means listening without defending yourself. Third, explain what you will do differently in the future to avoid making the same mistake. Such an apology might sound like, "I want to apologize for what I said yesterday. After speaking with you, I can hear how much my comments offended you and caused embarrassment. I want you to know that in the future I will be more sensitive."

Humor works. A little self-deprecating humor can save you, but make sure it is really only directed at yourself and does not increase anybody else's level of discomfort. Sometimes humor breaks the tension and provides an opening for you to recover.

Monitor future behavior. Communication has a cumulative effect. Every impression you make builds on the previous one. Overcoming a bad impression requires that all future behavior be consistent with how you want to be perceived. It will take time and trust to change perceptions, but it can be done!

SCIENCE AND TECHNOLOGY

LESSON A ► Good science, bad science

STARTING POINT

What's new?

A Read about these advances in science. What are the possible benefits and dangers?

DNA for Information Storage

Incredibly, scientists can now synthesize DNA to hold digital information, such as a video or text. The information can later be read by machines called DNA sequencers. DNA offers the longest duration for digital storage, keeping data safe for tens of thousands of years.

Thought Identification

Technology can already identify thoughts from scans of activity patterns in the human brain. The first attempts identified simple thoughts, but researchers are finding ways to reveal more complex thoughts and intentions.

Animal Cloning

With just one cell from a live or dead animal, an exact copy of the animal can be created with a technique known as cloning. The technique has been used to clone various pets, and cloned horses can even take part in the Olympics now.

B Pair work Read more about the scientific advances in part A. Do you think each statement is a good idea (G) or a bad idea (B)? Discuss each statement with a partner.

| ___ 1. DNA storage could one day provide so much storage space that no data would ever need to be erased again. | ___ 4. An application of thought-identification technology allows a person to type on a computer just by thinking. |
| ___ 2. Instead of questionnaires, marketers have used brain scans to check customer responses to products. | ___ 5. To avoid taking any more animals from the wild, some scientists hope to clone endangered animals for use in zoos. |
| ___ 3. Scientists have successfully stored a song in the DNA of living bacteria. | ___ 6. Scientists want to create a clone from the frozen remains of an extinct mammoth. |

LISTENING & SPEAKING

The effects of technology

A Listen to a show about driverless car technology. Choose the areas in which the impact of the technology would be mostly positive according to the speakers.

- | | | |
|--|---|-------------------------------------|
| <input type="checkbox"/> accidents | <input type="checkbox"/> fuel consumption | <input type="checkbox"/> car repair |
| <input type="checkbox"/> road construction | <input type="checkbox"/> parking | <input type="checkbox"/> traffic |

B Listen again and take notes about the impact of driverless car technology on the areas in part A. Then take turns describing the impact with a partner.

C Pair work Give an example of a new technology that has reshaped your daily life. What are the positive effects? What are the negative consequences?

3 GRAMMAR

Indefinite and definite articles

Review these rules for the indefinite articles a and an and the definite article the.

Use an indefinite article (a or an) when you mention a singular countable noun for the first time, or no article for plural countable and uncountable nouns. When you refer to the same item again, use the.

With just one cell from a live or dead animal, an exact copy of the animal can be created.

If you use a plural noun to make a general statement, do not use an article. However, if you make the same statement using a singular noun, use the or a / an.

Technology can already identify thoughts from scans of activity patterns in human brains.

Technology can already identify thoughts from scans of activity patterns in the / a human brain.

When making a general statement, do not use an article with uncountable nouns (technology, education, shopping, love, etc.).

DNA offers the longest duration for digital storage.

Use the with superlatives and with sequence markers such as first, last, next, etc., but don't use the with time expressions such as last night or next month.

The first attempts identified simple thoughts.

ANIMAL CLONING

BENEFITS AND CONCERNS

Animal cloning is the technique of creating an exact genetic copy of an animal from a single cell. It has previously been used to create copies of, for example, sheep, cows, and cats. While animal cloning is an amazing and powerful technology with possible benefits to science and humanity, many people are voicing concerns about the ethics and wisdom of this scientific innovation.

On the surface, animal cloning simply seems to be the “copying” of an animal, and it is difficult to see the benefits. However, the potential benefits of animal cloning are many. Cloned animals can be useful in the production of certain drugs to treat human illnesses. Through cloning, scientists can modify animal organs, such as heart valves, so that they can be safely transplanted into the human body. Cloning could also be very useful in saving endangered species. Two types of Asian cattle, the gaur and the banteng, have been helped in this way. Furthermore, cloning can be used to produce animals that are unable to reproduce naturally, such as mules.

Those who argue against cloning warn of its dangers. Organs transplanted from animals to humans might not always be safe, and there is a risk of disease. Additionally, for every animal that is successfully cloned, there are frequently a number of others that are not healthy enough to live. Cloned animals can also be weaker than those born by normal reproduction. When it comes to saving endangered animals, critics argue that cloning is too expensive and takes the attention and resources away from the real problem – the destruction of animal habitat.

In conclusion, it is unlikely that people on the two sides of the animal cloning issue will arrive at an agreement any time soon. But, as scientific progress presents us with new technologies such as animal cloning, it is important to discuss their benefits and voice our concerns about their use.

B Read the summary. Some main points from the article are not included. What are they?

Summary

Animal cloning is a technique for creating a copy of an animal from a single cell. People who support animal cloning argue that it can be useful in the production of drugs and transplant organs for humans. They also point out its value in preserving endangered species. Those who are against animal cloning argue that its medical uses are actually unsafe, that it produces unhealthy animals, and that it distracts us from the real problems that endangered animals face.

LESSON B ► Technology and you

STARTING POINT

Technology troubles

A Read about three people who had trouble with technology. How would you have felt in their situation? What would you have done?

Stan, 36

"Working from home one Friday, I opened my company network login page. Unfortunately, I'd forgotten the password my boss had given me, and he had taken the day off. Being too embarrassed to call him at home, I had to go to work after all to access the network."

Peter, 18

"I had dinner plans with my parents, but I was still out hiking when I was supposed to meet them at the restaurant. I kept trying to call them, but the calls were dropped before I could even say hello. Having gotten several calls from me, my parents became really worried. They were relieved when I finally got through an hour later."

Vera, 24

"I had a great presentation ready for the business class I'm taking. Being a perfectionist, I had prepared it in detail on my laptop. The next day in class, my laptop crashed opening the file. Trying to stay calm, I gave the presentation as best I could from memory."

B Pair work What technology gives you the most trouble? Tell your partner a story of a time you had trouble with technology.

-ing clauses

To express two actions performed by the same person or thing in a single sentence, we can include an -ing clause. An -ing clause contains an -ing participle.

The two actions happen at the same time or one action happens during another action.

The next day in class, my laptop crashed opening the file.

(My laptop crashed while / when it was opening the file.)

Trying to stay calm, I gave the presentation as best I could from memory.

(I was trying to stay calm while I gave the presentation.)

She is at her desk typing a paper.

(She is at her desk, and she is typing a paper.)

When one action happens before another action, use having + past participle.

Having gotten several calls from me, my parents became really worried.

(My parents got several calls from me, and then they became really worried.)

Reasons and explanations for actions can also be expressed with -ing clauses.

Being too embarrassed to call him at home, I had to go to work after all to access the network.

(Because I was too embarrassed to call him at home, I had to go to work.)

A holiday from technology

A Pair work Scan the article. Which of the technologies mentioned do you use? How would your life change if you stopped using them for six months? Discuss with a partner. Then read the article.

I Took My Kids Offline

Susan Maushart was fed up. All she usually saw of her 15-year-old son, Bill, was the back of his head as he played video games. Her elder daughter, Anni, 18, had become overly reliant on social networking sites, and 14-year-old Sussy seemed physically attached to her laptop, often staying logged on to the Internet through the night.

"My concern," she says, "was that we had ceased to function as a family. We were just a collection of individuals who were very connected outwards – to friends, business, school, and sources of entertainment and information. But we simply weren't connecting with one another in real space and time in any sort of authentic way."

Having decided to take action, Maushart came up with a plan. She initiated an "experiment in living" and banned all technology at home for six months. Her kids really didn't believe her at first, but once they realized their mother was serious, they adapted well to an offline world.

Anni, Bill, and Sussy confronted boredom – something that they were previously unfamiliar with because of their endless access to online entertainment. They found out that it made them resourceful. Indeed, their mother thinks boredom is fundamentally important in terms of creativity: "If nothing's wrong, you're never motivated to change, to move out of that comfort zone."

Maushart had high expectations for her experiment: "I hoped that it would transform our lives – that we would become a closer family, read more, sit around the table to eat and play more music . . . that we would feel closer to one another." To her delight, many of these expectations were met.

During their half-year of technological deprivation, the family did eat together more regularly. They talked more. They played board games. They went on outings to the cinema and restaurants. Anni started studying in the university library. Bill rediscovered his saxophone and got into reading novels. Sussy, as the youngest and most technologically literate, struggled more, but eventually succumbed.

The family hasn't remained app-free, but there have been permanent changes. Because they'd come to understand how it was interfering with their social life, her older two teenagers have both taken holidays from Facebook. Bill sold his game console to buy a new saxophone, and Anni still prefers to study in the library, in a social-networking-free zone.

Maushart's children have all expressed a willingness to go offline again. It is something she too would love to do. "I'd look forward to a technology vacation," she says, "just like I look forward to going on a yoga retreat. I see it as an intermittent thing that straightens your head out, not a way of life."

Fashion statements

A Which of these statements about clothing do you agree with most?

- What you wear is who you are.
- People often discriminate against others because of the way they dress.
- Buying new clothes all the time is unethical.
- Clothes are like art that you wear.
- People who are interested in fashion are shallow and superficial.

B Group work Compare and explain your answers to part A. Try to find two statements that you all agree with.

3 DISCUSSION

Technological advances

A Which of these advances in technology has had the most positive or negative impact on our lives?

social media

internal combustion engine

genetically modified food large-scale farming

medical technology

renewable energy technology

B Pair work Compare your answers with a partner.

"I think social media has had the most positive impact on our lives. We are so much more connected than we were a few years ago."

"Well, that's true, but medical technology has had more of a positive influence on people around the world."

4 DISCUSSION

Is technology good or bad?

A Read these opinions about technology. What are the main issues they raise? What's your own point of view on these issues?

When you are ready to invest in a new technology, there are a few questions you should ask yourself. First, is the new item cheaper than what it replaces? Does it save space? Will it make your life easier? Is it energy efficient? Will you be able to recycle it or at least dispose of it properly? If not, don't buy it.

— Kwang-hyun Lee, Busan, Korea

How we think about technology is flawed. We are overeager to have the newest gadget. We are too impressed by speed, noise, compactness, and general flashiness. We need a more mature and cautious way of thinking about technology. New is not always better.

— Inés Candia, Asunción, Paraguay

Beliefs Across Cultures

In Turkey, many people agree that when someone goes on a journey, you should pour water on the ground behind him or her to bring the person back safely.

In Brazil, people claim you should enter a place using your right foot to have good fortune.

In Russia, looking into a broken mirror will bring bad luck.

In Italy, many people believe that if visitors toss a coin into the Trevi Fountain in Rome, they will return to that city in the future.

In Japan, it is very bad luck to give a present that consists of four pieces.

In Venezuela, some people say that if someone passes a broom over your feet, you will never get married.

In Greece, you should place your shoes with the soles on the floor when you take them off because overturned shoes are considered unlucky.

3 GRAMMAR

Reporting clauses

To report what someone says, thinks, believes, etc., you can use a sentence that includes a reporting clause. The use of the word that is optional.

In Turkey, many people agree (that) when someone goes on a journey, you should pour water on the ground behind him or her to bring the person back safely.

In Venezuela, some people say (that) if someone passes a broom over your feet, you will never get married.

The following verbs are often used in reporting clauses.

More formal: argue assert claim report

More conversational: admit agree assume believe doubt explain feel say

GRAMMAR PLUS see page 112

A Look at the Starting Point on page 28 again. Can you find two other sentences that contain reporting clauses? For the sentences that don't, add a reporting clause and rewrite the sentence.

B Rewrite each sentence with a reporting clause. Use a different reporting verb to introduce each one.

- Everyone is superstitious about a few things.
Many people agree that almost everyone is superstitious about a few things.
- It's fine to follow superstitions for fun, but not to really believe in them.
- Superstitions are an important part of our cultural heritage.
- Superstitions are dangerous because they prevent people from thinking scientifically.
- Many holiday rituals are based on ancient beliefs and superstitions.
- Superstitions sometimes contain truths handed down from the past.

C Pair work Share your answers with your partner. Then give your opinions about the statements.

"Many people agree that almost everyone is superstitious about a few things. It's true! When I spill some salt, I always throw a little over my left shoulder so I don't have bad luck."

4 DISCUSSION

Everyday superstitions

A Pair work Do you know any superstitions connected with these things? Describe them to your partner.

- animals and plants
- clothing
- money
- days, dates, or months
- food
- numbers
- household objects
- colors
- weddings

B Group work Join another pair and compare your answers. Ask follow-up questions.

"In parts of Great Britain, people who aren't feeling well sometimes stick coins into the trunk of a tree that has fallen down."

"Why is that?"

"Well, some people believe that if you put a coin in wood, it can make illnesses go away. They call these trees 'wishing trees.'"

9. Do you have a piece of clothing that brings you good luck?	<input type="checkbox"/>	<input type="checkbox"/>
10. Do you avoid having specific items in your house because they might bring bad luck?	<input type="checkbox"/>	<input type="checkbox"/>

SCORE

0–1 Life is not a matter of luck to you!

2–4 You're not very superstitious, but . . .

5–7 You're fairly superstitious, aren't you?

8–10 Wow! You're really superstitious!

B Group work Compare your scores. Then explain some of the things you're superstitious about. Is there anything else that you think brings good or bad luck?

"Well, when I talk about something that's going well, I say 'knock on wood.'"

"Really? Why do you do that?"

"Well, they say that if you knock on something made of wood, your luck will continue."

30 UNIT 4 Superstitions and beliefs

The first paragraph of a composition provides the thesis statement and sometimes gives general examples. The last paragraph restates the thesis statement.

- A Read this composition. Find the thesis statement and a supporting example in the first paragraph. Then look at the last paragraph. Which sentence restates the thesis statement?

SUPERSTITIONS: HARD TO IGNORE

Some people think that certain objects bring them good luck; others avoid certain things or situations that they believe might bring them bad luck. Even people who claim not to believe in superstitions sometimes use phrases such as “knock on wood” when they speak. Superstitions concerning both good and bad luck are part of everyone’s life in the United States – even if you don’t believe in them, they are difficult to ignore.

It’s easy to find superstitions relating to good luck. For example, my friend Irene carries a fake rabbit’s foot in her pocket to bring her good luck. Another friend, who plays baseball, panics whenever his mother washes his “lucky” baseball socks. My mother believes that nine is her lucky number, and even my level-headed father has hung a horseshoe over the entrance of our home to bring us good luck and good fortune.

Superstitions concerning bad luck are just as common. My mother believes that certain days are bad for events like marriages and ceremonies, while my uncle always says “knock on wood” and then looks for something made of wood to knock on with his hand. Then there’s my friend who goes out of his way to avoid black cats. My sister never puts her bag on the floor because she thinks doing so will bring her bad luck.

Personally, I am not very superstitious. I don’t have any lucky socks, and I don’t have any lucky or unlucky numbers. Still, I find myself avoiding black cats, and I knock on wood every now and then. Superstitions are just a part of life, whether you believe them or not.

- B Write a composition about superstitions and good and bad luck in your culture. Do your first and last paragraphs follow the guidelines stated in the box above?
- C Pair work Exchange your composition with a partner, and answer these questions.
1. Does the first paragraph contain a thesis statement and give general examples?
 2. How well do the examples in the middle paragraphs support the thesis? Are there enough examples?
 3. Does the last paragraph restate the thesis?

LESSON B ► Believe it or not

1 STARTING POINT Fact or fiction?

A Three of these news stories are true and one is false. Decide which one is false.

1  A company has produced a device designed to chase away loitering children and teenagers. It was explained that the device emits a sound that irritates young people.

2  It's been confirmed that if an egg is placed directly between two cell phones that are in "talk mode," the egg will be cooked in about an hour.

3  A candy company is selling lollipops with a variety of insects inside, including crickets, ants, and scorpions. It is claimed that the lollipops are actually quite tasty.

4  It was reported that a website broadcast live video of a wheel of cheddar cheese as it ripened. It is said that the video ran for over nine months.

B Pair work Tell your partner your choice and explain why you think it is false. (For the answer, see page 142.)

2 VOCABULARY & SPEAKING That sounds fishy!

A Which of these words describe something likely to be true? Which describe something likely to be fabricated? Divide them into two groups. Then add two more items to each group.

believable	convincing	dubious	fishy	misleading	plausible conceivable	credible	far-fetched	iffy	phony	well-founded

B Use the words in part A to write about each story in the Starting Point.

*The article about the candy company sounds completely phony to me.
It's just not a plausible story.*

C Group work Take turns making statements, some true and some false, about yourself to your group. Respond using the words describing truth and fabrication.

"I have a very good singing voice, and I sing with a band on the weekend."

"Well, your speaking voice is very nice, so that seems pretty believable to me."

VOCABULARY PLUS see page 133

3 GRAMMAR

Reporting clauses in the passive

To report a general claim or opinion, you can use a passive form of a reporting verb and it.
 Notice that the agent is often omitted and understood to be "some people" or "many people."
It was explained (that) the device emits a sound that irritates young people.
It is said (that) the video ran for over nine months.

GRAMMAR PLUS see page 113

A Look at the Starting Point on page 32 again. Can you find other examples of reporting clauses in the passive?

B Rewrite these statements with a reporting clause in the passive with it.

- People estimate that 50 percent of the population believes in ghosts.
It is estimated that 50 percent of the population believes in ghosts.
- Some sources say that the idea of horseshoes being lucky dates back to the ancient Greeks.
- Many claim that some people can communicate with plants.
- People once thought the sun moved around the earth.
- Some sources have reported that practical jokes on April 1 are becoming less common.
- Experts argue that people create Internet hoaxes for a wide variety of reasons.
- Sociologists think that people developed the first superstitions in an attempt to gain control over things they didn't understand.
- People too easily assume that just because something is in print, it's true.

C Pair work Use reporting clauses in the passive to talk about these interesting facts.

- A company makes a bicycle that seats seven people.
- A 33-year-old man married a 104-year-old woman.
- On April 1, 2006, a flight was denied permission to land because the air traffic controller was on a tea break.
- Butterflies can taste with their feet.
- You can send a coconut through the mail in the United States without any wrapping.
- A crocodile measuring over six meters long was found in the Philippines.
- The world's first webcam was used to let staff in a university computer department see the office coffee pot.

"Get this – it's been reported that a company makes a bicycle that seats seven people."

Useful expressions

4 LISTENING

Shocking news

A Look at the map of Belgium. What do you know about this country?

B Listen to a conversation about a journalistic hoax that affected many people in Belgium. What was the hoax?

C Listen again. Which events actually happened? Choose the correct answers.

- ☐ 1. The king and queen left the country.
- ☐ 2. People panicked.
- ☐ 3. A television station website crashed.
- ☐ 4. Foreign ambassadors called the Belgian authorities.

5 DISCUSSION

Internet hoaxes

A Pair work Have you ever read or heard about something on the Internet that was a hoax? Tell your partner about it.

B Pair work Read these claims found on the Internet. Choose the ones you think are hoaxes. Then discuss with a partner. (For the answers, see page 142.)

Website Claims		HOAX?
1. A man offers $10,000 to anyone who can find him a wife.	<input type="checkbox"/>
2. There is a group dedicated to preventing cruelty to insects throughout the world.	<input type="checkbox"/>

7. A new technology allows you to get a suntan from your computer screen.	<input type="checkbox"/>
8. A company can deliver tacos to homes using delivery robots.	<input type="checkbox"/>

C Group work Discuss these questions with your group.

- Which of the website claims seems the most plausible to you? Which seems the most iffy? Why?
- Why do you think people create hoax websites and hoax emails?
- Do you think people who create Internet hoaxes should be punished?

Athletes and their superstitions

A Pair work Research suggests that good luck charms and lucky rituals can actually have an effect on an athlete's performance. Why might this be so? Discuss with a partner. Then read the article.

DO GOOD LUCK CHARMS REALLY WORK IN COMPETITIONS?

To avoid jinxing herself, Canadian hurdler Angela Whyte never carries her podium clothes with her to the track at international competitions. But before the 100-meter hurdle final at the Commonwealth Games in New Delhi, Ms. Whyte faced a dilemma, because her roommate – whom she would usually ask to bring them – was gone for the day.

"I packed the podium clothes in a separate backpack, so they wouldn't touch the competition gear," she laughed, after winning a silver medal. "It's a little psycho, but it worked!"

Ms. Whyte isn't alone in her faith in the power of superstition. Numerous studies have examined the prevalence of "magical thinking" among athletes, finding that the greater the interest in sports, the more superstitious a person is likely to be.

Intrigued by stories about athletes such as Michael Jordan, who wore his old college shorts under his uniform throughout his professional career, Dr. Lysann Damisch led a study in which she found that following a lucky ritual enhances self-confidence. This leads one to set higher goals and be more persistent, ultimately achieving greater success.

Not all athletic rituals work this way, though. Dr. Damisch claims that routines such as bouncing a basketball exactly three times immediately before shooting a foul shot does more than simply boost confidence. This routine actually serves to focus attention and also triggers well-learned motor sequences. Other apparent superstitions may have more to do with creating a relaxed and positive mindset. Ms. Whyte, for example, always travels to competitions with a teddy bear named O.T. – but not because she believes O.T. brings her luck. "I've had him since I was two years old," she explains, "so he reminds me of my home and family when I'm traveling. He's my security blanket."

The effectiveness of superstitious rituals may explain why they have persisted across cultures and eras, Dr. Damisch points out. But there are limits to their power. Following such rituals "doesn't mean you win, because of course winning and losing is something else."

B Read the article again. Are the statements true (T), false (F), or is the information not given (NG) in the article? Write the correct letters and correct the false statements.

- ___ 1. Angela Whyte considers her ritual of not carrying her podium clothes to the track completely rational.
- ___ 2. Those with an avid interest in sports are not likely to be influenced by superstitions.
- ___ 3. Dr. Damisch was fascinated by Michael Jordan's professional career.
- ___ 4. An increase in self-confidence can make people set and reach more challenging goals.
- ___ 5. Some lucky rituals actually help the brain and body prepare for performance.

C Group work Discuss these questions. Then share your answers with the class.

1. What other good luck charms and lucky rituals used in sports do you know about? How do they relate to the findings of the research mentioned in the text?
2. What things do you do to increase confidence and keep a positive mindset? Which is most effective?

MOVIES AND TELEVISION

LESSON A ► Movies

STARTING POINT

Movies today

A Read the statements about some movie trends. Which of these trends have you noticed?

Movie Trends

Unquestionably, studios are interested in producing a lot more movies about superheroes, because these are so popular with audiences! That's good news if you love superhero movies as much as I do! —Maura B., Ireland

For a long time, box office hits were predictably followed by sequels. But nowadays, the production of prequels has become a pretty exciting trend. —Alejandro H., Mexico

Box office profits will possibly continue to fall in the United States. Fortunately, for the movie studios, revenues continue to increase in several overseas markets. —Naomi S., the United States

Independent filmmakers often go into debt producing their movies, so many now turn to crowdsourcing websites for funding. Many fans like me make donations to film projects they support. —Masako N., Japan

Seemingly, there have been more women cast in leading roles in successful movies. Honestly, I hope that having more courageous heroines will be a trend that lasts and not just a passing fad. —Leonard W., Canada

Overall, the animated movies I take my children to see these days are visually spectacular and have sophisticated humor and storylines. Not surprisingly, the other adults I see at the theater also enjoy these movies as much as the kids do. —Lucas M., Brazil

B Pair work What other movie trends have you noticed? Discuss them with your partner.

"It seems to me that quite a few plays and musicals are being made into movies lately."

VOCABULARY

Reacting to movies

A Do these adjectives have a positive or a negative meaning? Mark them + or –.

- | | | |
|-------------------|------------------|--------------------|
| ___ a. clichéd | ___ d. inspiring | ___ g. predictable |
| ___ b. engrossing | ___ e. mediocre | ___ h. riveting |
| ___ c. formulaic | ___ f. moving | ___ i. touching |

B Complete the sentences with the adjectives from part A. Sometimes more than one answer is possible.

- _____ movies affect your emotions or bring tears to your eyes.
- A/An _____ movie completely captures your attention.
- A/An _____ movie isn't very good, and probably not worth watching.
- A movie is _____ if its plot is obvious and you can guess the ending.

VOCABULARY PLUS see page 134

Sentence adverbs

Sentence adverbs modify a whole sentence, not just part of it. Many adverbs can be used in this way. Sentence adverbs express the speaker's attitude, opinion, or reason for speaking.

Certainty: clearly, definitely, obviously, unquestionably

Unquestionably, studios are interested in producing a lot more movies about superheroes.

Less certainty: apparently, seemingly, supposedly

Seemingly, there have been more women cast in leading roles in successful movies.

Possibility and probability: possibly, potentially, probably

Box office profits will possibly continue to fall in the United States.

Talking honestly and directly: frankly, honestly, seriously

Honestly, I hope that having more courageous heroines will be a trend that lasts and not just a passing fad.

Summarizing: basically, essentially, fundamentally, mainly, overall

Overall, the animated movies I take my children to see these days are visually spectacular.

Other attitudes: amazingly, surprisingly, not surprisingly, predictably, fortunately, unfortunately

Not surprisingly, the other adults I see at the theater also enjoy these movies as much as the kids do.

GRAMMAR PLUS see page 114

A Look at the Starting Point on page 36 again. Can you find other sentences with adverbs from the grammar box? What attitude or opinion do they convey?

B Pair work Rewrite each sentence using one of the adverbs from the grammar box. Compare with a partner.

- No one is surprised that movie attendance is declining in the United States due to the many forms of home entertainment available.
Not surprisingly, movie attendance is declining in the United States due to the many forms of home entertainment available.
- It's been said that men prefer action movies while women favor romantic ones.
- It's likely that more and more independent films will win awards in the future.
- In truth, many people enjoy engrossing movies full of action and special effects.
- It's clear that in the future nearly all movies will be shot and projected using digital technology instead of film.
- A potential result is that young filmmakers may never use film.
- It's amazing that studios routinely spend hundreds of millions of dollars to make a movie.
- It's possible that watching violent movies can make some children more aggressive.

C Group work Use sentence adverbs to express your attitude about trends in the areas below, or use your own ideas. Listen to your classmates' reactions.

- shopping
- smartphones
- magazines
- television
- transportation
- video games
- music
- computers
- language learning

"You can supposedly get discounts from stores by indicating you like them on social media sites."

"Really? I'll have to give that a try. Frankly, I hate paying full price for anything."

Behind all good movies . . .

A Pair work Look at the movie genres. What elements do you consider essential for each genre? Discuss with a partner.

animated movies musicals romantic comedies sci-fi movies

B Listen to four people talk about key elements of the movie genres in part A. Complete the chart with the genre each speaker is talking about.

	Movie genre	Key elements
1. Heather
2. Josh
3. Felipe
4. Dana

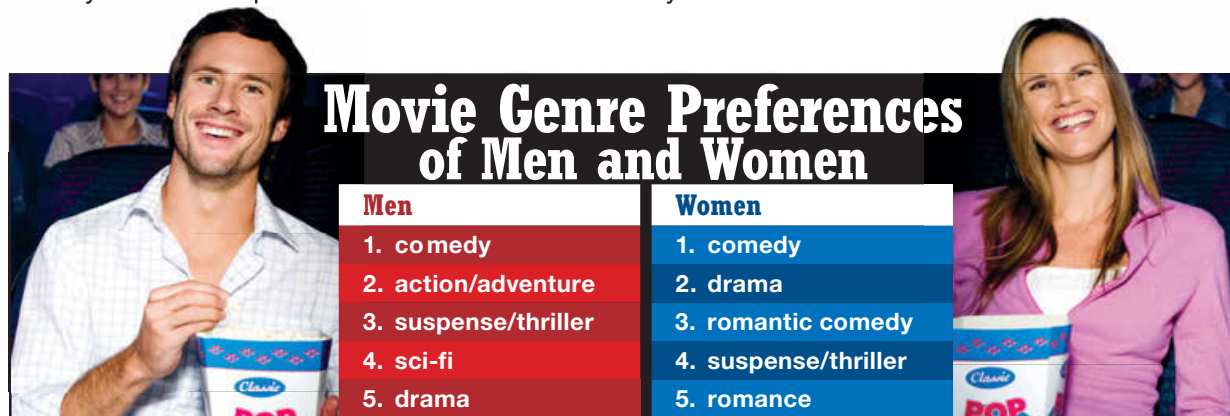

C Listen again. What three elements does each person consider essential for each movie genre? Complete the chart. Are their opinions similar to yours?

DISCUSSION

Movie genre preferences

A Pair work Discuss the results of this survey on movie genre preferences. Do you think the preferences are the same where you live?

Source: "Opening Our Eyes," a study by Northern Alliance and Ipsos MediaCT for the British Film Institute

B Group work Discuss different aspects of each movie genre in the survey. What is it about them that men, women, or both might like?

"Thriller movies often have riveting action scenes. I think that's more of a guy thing."

"I don't agree. I think both genders enjoy thriller movies because of the element of surprise that many of them have."

C Group work Name actors and actresses who have starred in the various movie genres. Discuss their performances and whether the genre suits them.

"I think Will Smith is perfect in sci-fi movies. He can be serious and funny, which makes the movies riveting and entertaining."

"That's true. But I think he's better suited for comedies – when he's not serious at all!"

6 WRITING

Writing a movie review

An effective movie review generally provides information about the movie, summarizes the plot, and offers a recommendation based on the writer's opinion.

A Read the questions and the movie review. Underline the answers to the questions in the review and write the number of the question.

1. What is the title of the movie, and what genre is it?
2. What made you decide to watch the movie? What is your general impression?
3. What is the movie about?
4. Who are the main characters and actors? Who is the director?
5. Would you recommend this movie to others? Why or why not?

MOVIE REVIEW:
Safety Not Guaranteed

I'm a huge fan of both indie films and movies about time travel, so choosing to watch Safety Not Guaranteed was an easy decision to make and a very good one. Safety Not Guaranteed is an offbeat romantic comedy with an original storyline, an excellent cast, and an unexpected ending. It's about time travel, but it's also about why people long to revisit the past and about why some people are willing to believe in the impossible.

Three magazine reporters from Seattle head out on an assignment to interview a guy who placed a classified ad looking for a partner to travel back in time with him. They think it's a joke, but as the movie progresses, they gradually discover that Kenneth (played by Mark Duplass), the would-be time-traveler, actually believes he's built a working time machine. Along the way, Darius (Aubrey Plaza), one of the reporters, falls in love with Kenneth. Meanwhile, Jeff (Jake Johnson), another one of the reporters, does some time-traveling of his own as he takes time off to look up an old girlfriend and teach Arnou (Karan Soni), the third reporter, a little bit about love. In the end, it all comes together in a marvelous way.

Directed by Colin Trevorrow, the movie is charming, likable, and funny. Every line of its clever script either makes you laugh or moves the story in a new direction. Best of all, it's a movie so magical that it might make you want to believe in time travel yourself. Highly recommended.

B Think of a movie you've seen recently, and make notes to answer the questions in part A. Then use your notes to write a movie review.

C Pair work Exchange your movie review with a partner, and answer these questions.

1. Does your partner's review answer all of the questions in part A? Find the answers.
2. Is the information in the review organized effectively? How could it be improved?
3. What else would you like to know about the movie reviewed? Ask at least two questions.
4. Would you follow the recommendation in your partner's review after reading it? Why or why not?

- A Read these posts about TV programs. Which program would you most like to watch? Which one would least interest you? Why?

What's On? A Blog for TV Lovers

Today's Question: What TV shows could you watch over and over again?

Posted at 9:24 by Donna
House is such a riveting show that I could watch it again and again. Frankly, Dr. Gregory House (played by Hugh Laurie) is so foul-tempered that I hated him when I first started watching the show. But the amazing plots combining medical mysteries and detective work really drew me in. It's such a great show that I bought all eight seasons and have watched many episodes more than once.

Posted at 9:03 by Justin
I could watch many sitcoms forever, but my busy schedule leaves me so little TV time that I don't want to waste it watching mediocre sitcoms. So, I watch only the best ones, like The Big Bang Theory. It centers on the hilarious lives of four geeky scientists. The show's intelligent, witty dialogue is packed with so many great jokes that it's nonstop laughs from beginning to end.

Posted at 8:46 by Franco
I never get tired of watching CSI. The unique murder investigations are always thrilling! They include so many scientific details that I always learn something. Plus, I love the humor, and the chemistry between the characters is great! Some of my favorite actors are on CSI New York, so those are the episodes I stream the most.

- B Pair work What are your favorite TV shows of all time? Why do you like them?

"One of my favorite shows is Law and Order, a crime drama series. The plots are always engrossing with lots of surprising twists."

A movie starring everyone

A Pair work How could someone make a movie showing what life is like on a single day in every country on earth? What would a project like that involve? Discuss with a partner. Then read the article.

One Day on Earth:

A Time Capsule of Our Lives

It is considered one of the most audacious documentary film projects ever made: a film shot in every country of the world on the same day, involving 3,000 hours of footage in 70 languages from 19,000 volunteer filmmakers around the world. The 104-minute film, One Day on Earth, is a visual poem starring everyone on the planet. It's about you and me, the times we live in, and our place in the puzzle of humanity.

Director Kyle Ruddick and executive producer Brandon Litman are the two young forces behind One Day on Earth. They met at the University of Southern California, where Ruddick studied film and Litman majored in business. Although both had worked on short-length commercial and broadcast projects, they had never attempted anything like One Day on Earth – their first feature-length film – and neither had anyone else.

Ruddick and Litman came up with the idea for the film in 2008 at a world music festival, where they heard musicians who had never met before play together for the first time. After a few awkward attempts, the musicians soon discovered a way to create a beautiful fusion of music. In a similar way, “the editorial process was a process of discovery,” said Ruddick. “You couldn’t make this sort of film without being completely open to what you receive.”

Common themes arose organically, and the filmmakers structured the documentary around film clips that underscore larger global issues. A sense of communal experience further grounded the wide-ranging film as the grassroots filmmakers worked to painstakingly capture the beauty and tragedy of the human experience.

In one of the more touching moments of One Day on Earth, a man looks into the camera and says, “I want to thank you for recording this story of my life and replaying it for others.” He says he hopes the viewer may find a lesson in it. His words tap into greater truths about this time-capsule art – about how the drive to understand others often derives from a more personal need to understand ourselves.

The film is also about a need to reaffirm just how alike we are despite our outward differences. “The world is a vast spectacle that we indulge and love and also struggle through,” said Ruddick. “We’re born, we’re young, we dance, we sing, and despite all of that, we have incredible challenges.” Yet, “cinema is this universal language that anyone can understand and relate to,” Ruddick said. “It goes beyond borders.”

B Group work Discuss these questions. Then share your answers with the class.

1. What factors do you think had to come together to make One Day on Earth possible?
2. Do you agree with Ruddick that film is a universally understood language? Why or why not?
3. In your opinion, is it true that people all over the world are alike despite our outward differences? Explain.

MUSICIANS AND MUSIC

STARTING POINT

Taste in music

A Read the statements expressing different views on music. Which ones do you agree with?

Overheard on the Streets

1 "I think the more you like to dance, the more you appreciate music with a Latin beat."

2 "At first, I didn't like rap music. But the more I listened to the lyrics, the more I understood its powerful social message."

3 "Some of the greatest music is in movie soundtracks. The more exciting the soundtrack, the better the movie seems."

4 "Radio stations kill music sales by overplaying songs. The more I hear a pop song on the radio, the less I feel like buying it."

5 "I'm interested in how a band plays, not how it looks. The more a band focuses on its appearance, the less interesting the music is."

6 "Classical music has many layers of complexity. The more knowledgeable you are about it, the more you'll be able to enjoy it."

7 "TV commercials often feature a catchy tune – and the catchier the tune, the more likely you are to remember the name of the product."

8 "A lot of my friends like to go to clubs with really loud music, but not me. The louder the music gets, the sooner I feel like leaving."

B Pair work What kinds of things do you look for in new songs or artists? What makes certain songs more successful than others?

"I love sampling. You know, when artists mix older songs with new music and lyrics."

"Me, too. I like recognizable tunes, but with a new twist."

Double comparatives

You can use two comparatives, each preceded by the, in order to show how one quality or amount is linked to another. The first comparative expresses a condition for the second comparative.

The more you like to dance, the more you appreciate music with a Latin beat.

The more I hear a pop song on the radio, the less I feel like buying it.

The more exciting the soundtrack, the better the movie seems.

The louder the music gets, the sooner I feel like leaving.

The less 80s pop music I hear, the better.

A Look at the Starting Point on page 44 again. How many double comparatives can you find?

B Pair work Match the clauses to make logical statements. Then compare answers with a partner. Which statements do you agree with?

- | | |
|--|---|
| 1. The more types of music you try to listen to, c | a. the fewer new musicians will be developed. |
| 2. The more often you go to dance clubs, ____ | b. the more you realize how much influence African music has had on it. |
| 3. The more companies a new artist sends a demo recording to, ____ | c. the more likely you are to enjoy a wide variety of genres. |
| 4. The more you study the history of American popular music, ____ | d. the greater your chance of suffering some hearing loss. |
| 5. The less emphasis schools place on music, ____ | e. the better his or her chances are of getting a recording contract. |

"I agree with the first statement. Listening to lots of different genres naturally leads you to appreciate more of them."

C Complete these sentences with your own ideas. Can you add further information to clarify or support the statements you wrote?

- The earlier children start playing music, . . .
- The more famous a recording artist becomes, . . .
- The catchier the melody of a pop song, . . .
- The more expensive a musical performance is, . . .
- The more thoughtful the song's lyrics are, . . .
- The older I get and the more I listen to music, . . .

D Pair work Compare and discuss the sentences you wrote above. Share your opinions with the class.

"The earlier children start playing music, the better. Research suggests that music improves memory and increases attention."

"I agree. I think that sometimes we just think of math or language classes as being beneficial, but in fact, . . ."

"On the street, I would expect to hear musicians playing catchy or evocative tunes in order to convince passersby to donate some money."

B Group work What are some of the ways that music is or could be used in these fields? Discuss the benefits and drawbacks.

- | | |
|---------------|-----------------|
| • education | • advertising |
| • health care | • entertainment |

"I think music, especially if it's mellow, can be used in the classroom to focus students' attention."

"Yes, but I think people are different, and some require silence to concentrate."

6 WRITING

Compare-and-contrast essays

A compare-and-contrast essay presents the similarities and differences of two or more things. The thesis statement expresses your position on the subject, and it is followed by supporting paragraphs that discuss similarities and differences.

- A Read the essay and circle the thesis statement. Then match each paragraph to the headings below. Underline the words that show comparison or contrast.

___ introduction ___ differences ___ conclusion ___ similarities

THE BEATLES

VS.

THE ROLLING STONES

- 1 Although the Beatles and the Rolling Stones have both been called the “greatest rock ‘n’ roll band of all time,” the prize should go to the Rolling Stones. While both bands have had a huge influence on popular music, the Beatles broke up in 1970, and the Rolling Stones went on recording and performing for over 50 years.
- 2 Both the Beatles and the Rolling Stones began as four-member British bands that first became popular in the 1960s. The two bands released their first records within a year of each other, and both featured a pair of talented songwriters: Paul McCartney and John Lennon for the Beatles, and Mick Jagger and Keith Richards for the Rolling Stones. Like the Rolling Stones, the Beatles were famous for their cutting-edge style at the time of their debut, and both bands were known for their energetic stage performances.
- 3 In the beginning, the Beatles were clean-cut boys with short hair who wore suits. In contrast, the Rolling Stones had a “bad boy” image – they dressed in funky clothes and acted like rebels. One of the Beatles’ first major hits was the catchy love song “I Want to Hold Your Hand,” but the Stones’ first big hit was a rock song called “Satisfaction.” While the Beatles were pop stars, the Rolling Stones were rockers.
- 4 It’s true that the Beatles did amazing things during the short time they were together, and their innovations are still apparent in today’s music. However, the Rolling Stones were the first band to offer the world “real” rock music, and even after all these years, their music still rocks. That says it all.

- B Choose two bands, singers, or musical styles to compare and contrast, and make a list of similarities and differences. Then compose a thesis statement that expresses your view.
- C Write a four-paragraph essay. Make sure it has an introduction with a clear thesis statement, two paragraphs describing similarities and differences, and an effective conclusion.
- D Pair work Take turns reading your essays. Do not read your thesis statement. Can your partner guess your point of view?

LESSON B ► Getting your big break

1 STARTING POINT

Music success stories

- A Read about these three music success stories. Do you know these singers?
Do you know how any other famous singers began their music careers?

Bruno Mars

Bruno Mars, born Peter Gene Bayot Hernández Jr., grew up in a very musical family in Hawaii. At age four, he would play with his family's band five days a week. When he was only 17, he moved to L.A. to write and produce music. At concerts, you'll see this multi-talented musician sing and play the piano or the guitar with ease.

From a very young age, Adele would perform for her mother, impersonating her favorite singers. She went to a performing arts academy in her teens, and, while there, a friend posted some of her songs online. Two years later, recording companies started noticing her. Despite her fame, Adele will still sometimes suffer from stage fright before a performance.

Adele

Rihanna

As a girl in Barbados, Robyn Rihanna Fenty would sell clothes at a street stall. She loved to sing with neighbors and friends. True talent will always be noticed. In 2003, a visiting music producer discovered her. Today, superstar Rihanna will often reinvent her look with startling new hairstyles and clothes.

- B Pair work What qualities and opportunities does a person need to have in order to be a success in the popular music industry? Share your ideas with a partner.

"I think it's important to have an established person in the business take an interest in your talent and help you get your start."

2 VOCABULARY

Breaking into the business

- A Look at these expressions related to show business and fame. Write them in the chart below. Compare with a partner.

be a big hit	make it big	get your big break	break into the business be a has-been	be washed up	make a comeback	make a name for yourself be discovered	pay your dues	be a one-hit wonder	get your foot in the door

Just starting out	Currently successful	No longer successful
	be a big hit

- B Pair work Talk about famous people you know. How did they start out?
Which ones are still successful? Which ones are has-beens?

"Mark Wahlberg has really made a name for himself. He went from singer to model to Oscar-nominated actor."

GRAMMAR

Will and would for habits and general truths

You can use would to express habitual actions in the past. Would is more formal than used to and is frequently used in past narratives. Would needs to be clearly associated with a time in the past.

From a very young age, Adele would perform for her mother.

You can use will to express personal habits or characteristic behavior in the present.

Today, superstar Rihanna will often reinvent her look with startling new hairstyles and clothes.

Will is also used to express facts that are generally true.

True talent will always be noticed.

GRAMMAR PLUS see page 117

A Look at the Starting Point on page 48 again. Which other habitual actions are expressed using would and will?

B Complete these sentences using the verb in parentheses and would or will.

1. In my younger days, I would play (play) in a band at local clubs.
2. I love playing the piano. I _____ (practice) every chance I get.
3. After he went deaf, Beethoven _____ (compose) music in his head.
4. My son loves to play his electric guitar. Whenever he can, he _____ (plug) it in and play a few songs.
5. When she was only 11 years old, Japanese violinist Midori Goto _____ (perform) in front of large audiences with confidence.
6. As a young man in Britain, singer-songwriter James Morrison _____ (gain) valuable experience by performing for people on the street.

C Read these descriptions of people. Then use your own ideas to write sentences describing their habitual actions with would or will.

1. When Ricky was a little boy, he was crazy about his violin.
He would take it with him wherever he went.
2. Evan is really interested in learning all he can about today's top musicians.
3. Our teacher used to have lots of good ideas to pass the time on monotonous school bus trips.
4. The music Helen listened to as a teen was very different from what's popular these days.
5. The key to Jennifer's successful music career is that she teaches and performs.

D Pair work Complete these statements with true information. Then write a follow-up sentence using would or will. Share your answers with a partner.

1. I really enjoy listening to . . .
2. When I was young, I loved . . .
3. It's true that musicians today . . .

"I really enjoy listening to techno music. I'll listen to it when I'm feeling tired or sad, and it will always make me feel better."

4 LISTENING

Guitar blues

A Pair work You are going to listen to Paul, a young musician, talk to Theresa about his career. What do you think some of his concerns might be? Tell your partner.

B Now listen to the conversation between Paul and Theresa. What's Paul's biggest problem?

C Listen again. What advice does Theresa give Paul regarding each of these four areas? Complete the chart.

	Theresa's advice
1. His parents
2. His opinion of himself
3. His appearance
4. The possibility of failure

5 DISCUSSION

The secrets of success

A Group work Discuss the following questions with your group.

1. What are some of the ways that some actors and singers have made it big?
2. What are some of the things that successful people have in common?
3. What is your definition of success?

B Read the advice for success below. Choose the three pieces of advice that you think are most useful.

Advice for Success

- | | |
|---|---|
| <input type="radio"/> 1. Don't be afraid to dream. You don't need to accept limitations others put on you. | <input type="radio"/> 5. Always appear confident – even if you don't always feel that way inside. |
| <input type="radio"/> 2. Don't talk about your plans too much. Spend that energy making things happen. | <input type="radio"/> 6. Think positively. Don't let yourself have negative thoughts for very long. |
| <input type="radio"/> 3. Take yourself seriously. Pursue your dreams with conviction. | <input type="radio"/> 7. Don't be afraid to fail. All successful people will fail – and learn a lot from it. |
| <input type="radio"/> 4. Don't try to do it all alone. Seek out the people and resources you need. | <input type="radio"/> 8. Dress for success. Figure out how you need to look to get what you want. |

C Group work Tell your group which three pieces of advice you chose. Explain why you think they are useful.

6 READING

Famous without knowing it

A Pair work How could a musician possibly become famous without knowing it? Discuss with a partner. Then read the article.

ON THE TRAIL OF SIXTO RODRIGUEZ

Sixto Rodriguez, a Mexican-American construction worker from Detroit, used to perform his songs in the city's small clubs in the late sixties. Known simply as Rodriguez, he would perform with his back to the audience. "There was something mysterious about him," says one local who saw him back then.

During that period, Rodriguez recorded and released two albums – Cold Fact and Coming From Reality. Sales, though, were small, and the albums disappeared without a trace. Since he'd never had a big hit, no one in the United States thought much more about Rodriguez after that.

But in South Africa, a bootleg copy of Cold Fact wound up being distributed on a small South African record label and some songs got played on the radio. Those songs became incredibly popular, and Rodriguez's reputation spread – along with the myths about him.

In those pre-Internet days, there was no information from the United States about this long-forgotten artist. Most people thought he had died, and the mystery surrounding Rodriguez just increased his incredible popularity in South Africa.

Documentary filmmaker Malik Bendjelloul stumbled on the Rodriguez story in 2006 while in Cape Town, where "every other person knew and loved Rodriguez," he recalls. "He was huge there – bigger than the Rolling Stones."

However, a decade earlier, two of his biggest South African fans, Cape Town record store owner Steve Segerman and music journalist Craig Bartholomew, had already set out to find out what had happened to Rodriguez.

The two men studied every Rodriguez lyric to establish where he might have lived and then found the producer of Rodriguez's album Cold Fact. Finally, the truth was revealed: Rodriguez was alive, had three adult daughters, and was still living in the same house in Detroit and doing construction work. Rodriguez knew nothing of his astonishing popularity in South Africa.

Segerman finally spoke with Rodriguez from Cape Town. The next step was for Rodriguez to perform there. He flew from the States with his daughters and was astonished to find a limousine waiting for him. On that first tour, Rodriguez played six sold-out concerts in a 5,000-seat hall. Crowds went wild, and Cold Fact went platinum, selling half a million copies in South Africa.

Footage of those first concerts, and the fan frenzy they inspired, can be seen in Searching for Sugar Man, Bendjelloul's documentary that tells the story of Rodriguez. Finally, his work will be heard widely.

Source: "Sixto Rodriguez: On the Trail of the Dylan of Detroit," by David Gritten, The Telegraph

B Read the article again. Are these statements true (T), false (F), or is the information not given (NG)? Correct the false statements to make them true.

- | | |
|--|--|
| ___ 1. In the United States, Rodriguez's recordings were not commercially successful in the 1960s. | ___ 4. Bendjelloul had heard about Rodriguez before he went to South Africa. |
| ___ 2. Cold Fact sold more copies in the United States than Coming From Reality did. | ___ 5. Rodriguez was not really surprised about how he was greeted in Cape Town. |
| ___ 3. Rodriguez's songs helped Segerman and Bartholomew find the musician. | ___ 6. Tickets for the first Rodriguez tour of South Africa were incredibly expensive. |

C Group work How do you think instant fame affects people? Does age matter? How do you think Rodriguez's life changed after his trip to South Africa? Discuss your answers.

DISCUSSION

My kind of show

A Think of an example of each type of television show. For each show, write at least one good point about it and one change that would improve it.

Type of show	Example	Good points	Changes you'd make game show reality TV show soap opera talk show drama series

B Pair work Compare your ideas with a partner. Use sentence adverbs.

"For me, CSI is unquestionably the best TV show ever."

"I like it, too. Apparently, some of the episodes are based on real crimes. But one thing I'd change is . . ."

DISCUSSION

You have to see this!

A Think about your movie-viewing habits. Give an example for each of these topics.

1. a movie you would recommend
2. the most interesting character you've ever come across in a movie
3. a book you would like to see made, or that has already been made, into a movie
4. a movie that you would rather see in a theater than at home

B Pair work Discuss your ideas with a partner.

"I recommend Life of Pi. It's so moving that it actually made me cry."

CHANGING TIMES

LESSON A ► Lifestyles in transition

STARTING POINT

How we are changing

A People's lifestyles are changing more quickly than ever before. Have you noticed any of these trends in your community?

- 1 Social exercise programs that offer fun group workouts are on the rise. Enrollment in cycling, strength-training, dance, and yoga classes has never been higher.
- 2 Hybrid cars, powered by both gas and electricity, are an option that more people are choosing in order to save money and reduce pollution.
- 3 More professionals whose managers allow it are opting to telecommute, or work from home.
- 4 More and more shoppers are looking for recyclable products that companies can manufacture sustainably.
- 5 Children are learning foreign languages at earlier ages than ever before. Some elementary schools now offer classes for children whom they once considered too young.
- 6 A growing number of people who are concerned with the effects of pesticides on the environment are buying organic produce.
- 7 These days, people who are not happy with their bodies are more likely to resort to cosmetic surgery.
- 8 Tourists whose destinations are foreign countries are taking more trips, traveling greater distances, and spending more money.

B Pair work Discuss the good points and bad points of each trend. Which trends do you think are the most beneficial?

"Social exercise programs are great because they encourage more people to get fit."

"I think many people get a better workout by themselves. They exercise more and socialize less!"

DISCUSSION

Current trends

A Pair work Think of a current trend in your country, community, or among people you know for as many of these areas as you can.

- | | | | |
|------------------------|----------------------|--------------------|------------------------|
| • education / schools | • shopping / stores | • health / fitness | • science / technology |
| • nature / environment | • food / restaurants | • travel / tourism | • appearance / fashion |

B Group work Join another pair. Share your ideas and choose the three most significant trends. Then prepare a short presentation for the class explaining the trends and why you think they are the most important.

"One trend we discussed is that a lot of people are into ecotourism lately. This is certainly an important and beneficial trend because . . ."

Optional and required relative pronouns

In defining relative clauses, when the relative pronoun is the subject of the clause or it shows possession, the relative pronoun is required. When it is the object, it is usually optional.

Subject of clause (relative pronouns that, which, or who required)

People who / that are concerned with the effects of pesticides on the environment are buying organic produce.

Social exercise programs that / which offer fun group workouts are on the rise.

Showing possession (relative pronoun whose required)

More professionals whose managers allow it are opting to telecommute, or work from home.

Object of clause (relative pronouns that, which, who, or whom optional)

Hybrid cars are an option (that / which) more people are choosing.

Some elementary schools now offer classes for children (who / whom / that) they once considered too young.

GRAMMAR PLUS see page 118

A Look at the Starting Point on page 54 again. In which sentences is the relative pronoun required?

B Choose the sentences in which the relative pronoun is optional. Which sentences are true for your community?

- | | |
|---|--|
| <input type="checkbox"/> 1. Young families who dream of owning a house are finding they can't afford one. | <input type="checkbox"/> 5. People are devoting more time to others who are less fortunate. |
| <input type="checkbox"/> 2. The pressure that students feel to succeed in school is increasing. | <input type="checkbox"/> 6. People are recycling many things which they would have thrown away in the past. |
| <input type="checkbox"/> 3. People who used to go to theaters to watch movies now watch them at home. | <input type="checkbox"/> 7. A lot of people who have grown tired of city life are moving to the country. |
| <input type="checkbox"/> 4. People want exercise programs that are designed for their specific age group. | <input type="checkbox"/> 8. More college students are choosing majors that they think will lead to high-paying jobs. |

C Is the relative pronoun in these sentences the subject of the clause (S), the object of the clause (O), or does it show possession (P)? Write the correct letter.

- | | |
|---|---|
| ____ 1. Is the number of young people who opt for cosmetic surgery growing or shrinking? | ____ 4. What brand names that once were very popular are no longer as relevant? |
| ____ 2. Who are some celebrities whose style has affected fashion or other trends? | ____ 5. Are there any alternative therapies that you think are ineffective or even dangerous? |
| ____ 3. How have the foods that fast-food restaurants offer changed in recent years? | ____ 6. Is it becoming more difficult for people who don't speak a foreign language fluently to get a job? |

D Pair work Interview each other using the questions in part C.

4 VOCABULARY & SPEAKING

Antonyms with prefixes

A The antonyms of these adjectives can be formed by adding the prefix il-, im-, in-, or ir-. Write the correct prefix in front of each adjective.

- | | | | |
|---------------------|------------------|----------------|---------------------|
| a. ____ considerate | c. ____ decisive | e. ____ mature | g. ____ responsible |
| b. ____ consistent | d. ____ logical | f. ____ proper | h. ____ tolerant |

B Complete each opinion with one of the antonyms in part A. Write the correct letter.

- "You can be 40 and still be ____ if you refuse to grow up and have the expected behavior for a person your age."
- "People today just don't care about following correct rules or manners. They have such ____ behavior."
- "Today's politicians are so _____. They just change their opinions and statements from one day to the next."
- "Selfish people are often ____ of others and don't care about their feelings."
- "_____ people refuse to accept ideas and behavior different from their own."
- "Many accidents happen when people are ____ and don't give careful thought to the results of their actions."
- "Because young people lack wisdom and reason, they often make ____ decisions."
- "Many young people are ____ about their future and unable to choose a course of action."

5 LISTENING

Generation Y

A Listen to a presentation by a corporate executive about two generations of employees. What audience is the presentation addressed to? What is the purpose?

B Listen again. Write the attitudes Generation Y has regarding each area in the chart. Then write what the company is planning to do to address each attitude.

	Generation Y's attitude	Plan
1. work and free time
2. relationship to boss
3. community involvement

Writing about a personal experience

A personal-experience composition usually begins with an introductory paragraph containing a thesis statement and some observations or comments. The body of the composition provides background information and gives details about what happened. The conclusion usually restates the thesis and presents the writer's feelings.

- A Underline the thesis statement. Then read the composition and answer the questions below. Compare answers with a partner.

	Last month I took a giant step and finally moved to a new apartment. I had been sharing a two-bedroom apartment for two years with a friend who I'd known since childhood, and I decided that it was time to have my own place. In the beginning, I was a little scared because I would be assuming a great deal of financial responsibility. I was also a little concerned about feeling lonely, but I knew it was important to have the experience of being totally on my own. The first thing I wanted to do before making a final decision was to talk things over with my roommate. We had first moved in together because neither of us could afford . . . I looked at many apartments before making up my mind. I finally found one that I liked – an affordable one-bedroom in very good shape, with a lot of light. The apartment is . . . My new apartment is beginning to look like a home now. I've been looking at a lot of interior design websites, and I've managed to decorate my apartment. . . . Looking back, I definitely think that I made the right decision. I feel really good about having a place I can call my own. I feel more independent and responsible. Sometimes I feel a little lonely, but for the most part, I enjoy the privacy.

1. What observations or personal comments does the writer make in the first paragraph?
2. What details and background information does the body of the composition provide?
3. What additional information do you think the writer gives to complete the body paragraphs?

- B Write a composition about something that has happened to you recently. Make sure to include an introductory paragraph, three body paragraphs with details, and a conclusion.

- C Pair work Exchange papers and answer these questions.

1. Does your partner's introductory paragraph have a thesis statement?
2. Do all the details in the body of the composition support the thesis statement?
3. What other points or examples could be added?

LESSON B ► A change for the better

STARTING POINT

Contemplating a change

A Pair work Read about the changes these people are thinking about. Do you think they'd be happy if they made the changes? Why or why not?

My public-relations job is secure and high paying. Still, I feel as though something is missing. My real passion is skiing, and today I saw an ad for a PR consultant at a ski resort. It seems like the job was made for me! I'd have to take a big pay cut, but it might be worth it.

My parents expect me to go to a four-year college the way they did. I'm not really sure that's for me. I mean, why go away for an education when there are so many online courses? It's as if my computer is a university! For some jobs I'm interested in, I only need a professional certificate, which I could earn online in less than a year.

I'm making ends meet thanks to my part-time jobs, but I guess I'm looking for more meaning in my life. I'm thinking of joining a volunteer program to help build houses for the needy as a few of my friends have. I'd get to travel, meet new people, and do something for others.

B Group work Tell your group about a change you are thinking of making. Respond to each other's ideas with advice about the changes and other suggestions.

"I'm thinking about changing careers and getting into fashion design."

"That's cool! Maybe taking online courses in fashion would be a good place to start."

LISTENING

Volunteering for a change

A You are going to listen to Jody speak to Mr. Turner about volunteering in a program called Houses for All. What kind of program do you think it is?

B Now listen to the conversation. Which of these things is Jody concerned about? Choose the correct answers.

- | | | |
|--|-------------------------------------|---|
| <input type="checkbox"/> airfare | <input type="checkbox"/> food | <input type="checkbox"/> making friends |
| <input type="checkbox"/> culture shock | <input type="checkbox"/> job skills | <input type="checkbox"/> visiting home |

C Listen again. Write the three ways that Jody is hoping to benefit from the program.

1. _____
2. _____
3. _____

3 GRAMMAR

As if, as though, as, the way, and like

As if and as though often introduce clauses that describe impressions about feelings or behavior after verbs such as act, behave, feel, look, seem, and talk.

Still, I feel as if / as though something is missing.

As and the way introduce clauses that express a comparison.

I'm thinking of joining a volunteer program to help build houses for the needy as / the way a few of my friends have.

In informal English, the word like can be used instead of as if / as though and as / the way.

It seems as though the job was made for me!

It seems like the job was made for me!

GRAMMAR PLUS see page 119

A Look at the Starting Point on page 58 again. Can you find another expression you can rewrite with like?

B Rewrite these sentences to make them more formal using as if, as though, as, or the way. Compare your answers with a partner. More than one answer is possible.

1. Lately, I'm trying to think more positively, like I did when I was younger.
Lately, I'm trying to think more positively, the way I did when I was younger.
2. My father is trying to exercise more like his doctor advised.
3. Sometimes I feel like the world is changing too fast.
4. To become a better listener, listen to people like everything they say is important.
5. My uncle needs to stop dressing like time has stood still for 20 years.
6. A friend of mine is teaching me to bake bread like they do in France.

C Pair work Complete these sentences so that they are true for you. Add another sentence with your own information, and compare with a partner.

1. I feel as though I don't have enough time to . . .
cook healthy food.
2. I don't feel the need to . . . as so many people do these days.
3. Young people today feel as though . . .
4. I wish I could still . . . the way I used to when I was younger.
5. People today would find it difficult to . . . as was necessary long ago.
6. _____

D Group work Join another pair and share your answers. Ask for more specific information, and give your opinions.

"I really feel as if I don't have enough time to cook healthy food."

"What makes you say that?"

"Well, I'm so busy that there's too little time to go food shopping and make proper meals. It's easier just to grab fast food."

Useful expressions

Asking for more specific information

What makes you say that?

Why do you think that?

In what way(s)?

VOCABULARY & SPEAKING

Collocations with change

A Look at the expressions with change. Match each expression with its definition.

1. anticipate ____
2. avoid ____
3. bring about ____
4. cope with ____
5. go through ____
6. resist ____
7. welcome ____

(a) change

- a. experience a change
- b. expect a change
- c. successfully deal with a change
- d. fight against a change
- e. escape or stay away from a change
- f. cause a change
- g. invite and be happy about a change

B Pair work Use the expressions to discuss with your partner changes you would (not) . . .

1. avoid. 2. be able to cope with. 3. resist. 4. welcome. 5. bring about if you could.

"I'd try to avoid changes to my current lifestyle. I'm really happy with my life right now."

"That's good to hear. But would you also avoid changes that could make your life even better?"

DISCUSSION

How do you cope?

A Complete the survey. How true is each statement for you? Choose a number from 1 to 5. Then discuss the survey with a partner.

DO YOU RESIST OR WELCOME CHANGE?						Not true at all					Very true
1.	I set realistic goals for myself and take steps to achieve them.	1	2	3	4	5
2.	I am a curious person and enjoy new experiences.	1	2	3	4	5
3.	I live in the present, appreciate the past, and focus on the future.	1	2	3	4	5
4.	I listen to others and seek understanding.	1	2	3	4	5
5.	When solving a problem, I seek advice and support from friends and family I trust.	1	2	3	4	5
6.	I am highly flexible and easygoing.	1	2	3	4	5
7.	I am creative and brainstorm solutions to challenges.	1	2	3	4	5
8.	I stand up for myself and say “no” when I need to.	1	2	3	4	5
9.	When I fail at something, I see it as a learning experience.	1	2	3	4	5
10.	I try to find humor in all situations.	1	2	3	4	5
SCORE	10–20 You tend to avoid change. You need to learn to welcome change in your life.		21–30 You often resist change. Friends and family can help you cope with it.		31–40 You respond to change well. However, there is always room for improvement.		41–50 You are exceptionally adaptable. You bring about positive changes in your life.

B Pair work Think of a big change in your life. Tell your partner about your feelings and reactions at the time and how your life today is different because of it.

"Getting my driver's license was a welcome change. I felt independent and was thrilled to finally be able to go where I wanted when I wanted. . . ."

Return to simplicity

A Pair work Would you reduce your income by half in exchange for more free time and less stress? Discuss with a partner. Then read the article.

LEAVING THE Rat Race FOR THE Simple Life

Time is more precious than money for an increasing number of people who are choosing to live more with less – and welcoming the change.

Kay and Charles Giddens, a paralegal and a trial lawyer, respectively, sold their home to start a bed and breakfast. Four years later, the couple was dishing out banana pancake breakfasts, cleaning toilets, and serving homemade chocolate chip cookies to guests in a bed and breakfast surrounded by trees on a mesa known for colorful sunsets.

"Do I miss the freeways? Do I miss the traffic? Do I miss the stress? No," said Ms. Giddens. "This is a phenomenon that's fairly widespread. A lot of people are re-evaluating their lives and figuring out what they want to do."

Simple living ranges from cutting down on weeknight activities to sharing housing, living closer to work and commuting less, avoiding shopping malls, borrowing books from the library instead of buying them, and taking a cut in pay to work at a more pleasurable job.

Vicki Robin, a writer, tells us how she copes with the changes in her budget, now far less than she used to make.

"You become conscious about where your money is going and how valuable it is," Ms. Robin says. "You tend not to use things up. You cook at home rather than eat out. Your life is less frazzled, and you discover your expenses have gone way down."

Janet Luhrs, a lawyer, quit her practice after giving birth and leaving her daughter with a nanny for two weeks. "It was not the way I wanted to raise my kids," she says. "Simplicity is not just about saving money, it's about me sitting down every night with my kids to a candlelit dinner with classical music."

Mrs. Luhrs started editing a magazine called Simple Living and publishing tips on how to buy recycled furniture and shoes, organize potluck dinners instead of fancy receptions, and advocating changes in consumption patterns.

"It's not about poverty or deprivation," Mrs. Luhrs explains. "It's about conscious living and creating the life you want. The less stuff you buy, the less money goes out the door, and the less money you have to earn."

Source: "Living the Simple Life – and Loving It," by Julia Duin, The Washington Times

B Complete the summary of the article. Fill in each blank with words or phrases from the article.

Many people have come to think that time is (1) _____ than money.
The Giddenses gave up their law careers to run a (2) _____, and they are happy they did. Others have chosen to simplify their lives by (3) _____ their activities and expenses. Janet Luhrs quit her job as a lawyer to spend more time with (4) _____. She started editing a (5) _____ called Simple Living. She understands that the less stuff you (6) _____, the less (7) _____ you need to earn.

C Group work Discuss these questions. Then share your answers with the class.

1. Do you think the people in the article have improved their lives? Why?
2. What changes would you make to live more simply? How would these changes simplify your life?

CONSUMER CULTURE

LESSON A ► What's new on the market?

STARTING POINT

Smart shoppers

A Pair work Read about these four ways to find bargains. Which ones have you or your partner tried?

$SMART $HOPPERS

How do you find the best bargains?

Rick, 24

"I'm really into online auctions. Members sell each other all kinds of stuff. I really get excited about the bidding – sometimes there's lots of competition. But sometimes you're the only bidder. See this hat? It only cost me two dollars!"

Carla, 32

"When I go shopping, I use this cool sale-locator app. It provides information about in-store sales to bargain hunters free of charge. The app collects information from thousand of stores, and you can also send information about deals you find to other shoppers."

Norma, 21

"Do you get tired of clothes quickly? Do you always want to buy something new for yourself? Let me give you a tip. I buy secondhand clothes at thrift shops. I can always find something I like – even designer brands – at a greatly reduced price!"

Ling Wei, 43

"For food and everyday items, I recommend wholesale clubs to everyone I know. For a small membership fee, you can go to a big warehouse-like store that sells everything in bulk – in large quantities. The rule there is: the more you buy, the more you save."

B Pair work What other ways do you find bargains? Can you remember an item you bought at a reduced price?

"There are some great discount websites that sell electronics, and you can find some awesome bargains. I got a great camera for half price from one of those sites."

LISTENING

Shopping preferences

A Listen to Ben and Anna talk about shopping online and in stores. Choose their preference and write three positive aspects they mention about it.

	Ben	Anna
Shopping preference	<input type="checkbox"/> online <input type="checkbox"/> in stores	<input type="checkbox"/> online <input type="checkbox"/> in stores
Positive aspects
Negative aspects

B Listen again. Write two negative aspects they mention in the chart.

C Pair work Do you prefer shopping online or in stores? Explain your preference.

3 GRAMMAR

Placement of direct and indirect objects

For most verbs in English, including get, give, lend, offer, sell, send, show, teach, and tell, direct and indirect objects follow these patterns:

Pattern A

direct object + to / for + indirect object

You can send information to other shoppers.

You can send information to them.

You can send it to other shoppers.

You can send it to them.

Pattern B

indirect object + direct object

You can send other shoppers information.

You can send them information.

With verbs such as announce, describe, explain, mention, provide, recommend, return, and say, the indirect object cannot precede the direct object. Sentences follow Pattern A above.

It provides information about in-store sales to bargain hunters free of charge.

It provides it to them free of charge.

With verbs such as allow, ask, cause, and cost, the indirect object precedes the direct object and takes no preposition. Sentences follow Pattern B above.

It only cost Rick two dollars!

It only cost him two dollars!

GRAMMAR PLUS see page 120

A Look at the Starting Point on page 62 again. Find more sentences containing both a direct and an indirect object. Which pattern do they follow?

B Complete these sentences using the words in parentheses. Whenever possible, write the sentence in two different ways.

- Many companies use cartoon characters to sell . . . (products / children) products to children. / children products.
- If I'm not satisfied with a product, I never hesitate to return . . . (it / the store)
- The Internet has made shopping much easier, but delivery costs . . . (more money / people)
- At restaurants, my wife thinks I ask . . . (too many questions / the waiter)
- At discount stores, when they lower prices, they always announce . . . (it / the shoppers)
- When I told the baker the bread smelled good, he gave . . . (a free sample / me)
- In most malls, there is a directory that shows . . . (the locations of all the stores / the shoppers)
- Good salespeople convincingly explain . . . (the benefits of a product / their customers)

C Pair work Use the verbs below to talk about things you've bought recently. Ask follow-up questions.

ask	describe	give	return
cost	explain	recommend	tell

"A friend recommended a new discount store to me, and I finally went there last weekend."

"What kinds of things do they sell?"

"Mainly high-tech electronics and stuff like that."

"Did you buy anything?"

"Yeah. I bought a toy robot for my nephew."

4 VOCABULARY & SPEAKING

Shopping experiences

A Pair work Match each expression with its meaning. Then compare with a partner.

- | | |
|---------------------------------------|--|
| 1. go over your credit limit g | a. have regrets after making an unwise purchase |
| 2. be a bargain hunter ____ | b. be unable to control your need to buy things |
| 3. be a compulsive shopper ____ | c. buy something suddenly without having planned to |
| 4. have buyer's remorse ____ | d. spend lots of money shopping for pleasure |
| 5. make an impulse buy ____ | e. look at goods in stores without buying any |
| 6. bid on an item ____ | f. be a person who looks for low-priced products |
| 7. go on a shopping spree ____ | g. charge more to your credit card than the allowed amount |
| 8. go window-shopping ____ | h. offer money to buy an item at an auction |

B Group work Which of these experiences related to shopping have you had? Share your experiences with the group. Use the expressions in part A where appropriate.

- You made an impulse buy.
- You resisted buying something you wanted.
- You bought something and later wished you hadn't.

"I'm usually a bargain hunter, but this outfit looked so good on the store mannequin that I just had to buy it."

VOCABULARY PLUS see page 137

5 DISCUSSION

Are you a compulsive shopper?

A Pair work Which statements are true for you? Choose yes or no for each statement. Then discuss your answers with a partner.

What Are Your SHOPPING HABITS?	Yes	No
1. I can never go shopping without making an impulse buy.	<input type="radio"/>	<input type="radio"/>
2. I often buy things that I end up never wearing or using.	<input type="radio"/>	<input type="radio"/>
3. At home, I frequently feel tempted to go online and buy something.	<input type="radio"/>	<input type="radio"/>
4. When I visit a new city, I spend most of my free time shopping.	<input type="radio"/>	<input type="radio"/>
5. I always have buyer's remorse after going on a shopping spree.	<input type="radio"/>	<input type="radio"/>
6. I have gone over my credit limit at least once.	<input type="radio"/>	<input type="radio"/>
7. As soon as new fashions appear in the stores, I have to buy them.	<input type="radio"/>	<input type="radio"/>
8. After buying things, I sometimes lie to relatives and friends about the price.	<input type="radio"/>	<input type="radio"/>
9. I sometimes go shopping to forget my troubles.	<input type="radio"/>	<input type="radio"/>

B Group work Discuss these questions. Then share your ideas with the class.

- What are some other characteristics of a compulsive shopper?
- What other problems do compulsive shoppers face?
- What would you do to help a compulsive shopper?

Supporting an opinion

When writing a composition that supports an opinion, first present the opinion in the thesis statement. Then support it in subsequent paragraphs with examples and details.

A Read the composition and discuss your answers to the questions.

1. What is the writer's opinion?
2. What are the reasons given to support the opinion?

Having almost unlimited credit is certainly one of the many advantages of using credit cards. However, this benefit can easily turn into a major problem. With unlimited credit, people spend too much money. I think there should be a limit to the total amount of credit people can have. This way, the total amount of credit on all of their credit cards together could never go over a certain percentage of their income.

Many compulsive shoppers run up such high debts that they go bankrupt, creating problems for their families as well as for the people to whom they owe money. Currently, it is easy for people to accumulate many credit cards. Although the credit cards have limits, the number of credit cards is not limited. People with 10 credit cards, each with a $5,000 limit, have $50,000 of credit, even though they might not be able to pay all of their bills. Such a situation can quickly lead to bankruptcy.

People need to be given an absolute credit limit. If people were not permitted to go over this limit, they would have to be more responsible with their money and evaluate which purchases were most important to them. I think that the actual limit on credit card spending should be based on income so that credit would be based on the ability to pay.

B Complete one of these opinions on shopping or use one of your own. Then present your opinion in a thesis statement.

1. No one under 18 should be allowed to . . .
2. People with a lot of debt should . . .
3. Stores should never give cash refunds for . . .
4. Customers who break an item in a store should . . .
5. Shoplifters should do community service by . . .

C Make a list of details or examples to support your thesis statement. Then write a composition with an introductory paragraph containing your opinion, and at least one paragraph with supporting examples or details.

D Pair work Take turns reading each other's compositions. Can you think of additional examples or details your partner could use to be more persuasive?

LESSON B ► Consumer awareness

1 STARTING POINT

Print advertisements

A Pair work Look at the three advertisements. Which kind do you think is the most effective? Where else do you see advertisements?

magazine ads

company logos

billboards

B Pair work Read these opinions about advertisements. Do you agree with them? What do you think makes a good advertisement?

- "I think consumers need to insist that advertisements be truthful in every respect."
- "It seems to me that a good ad is a memorable ad – one that sticks in your head."
- "I believe it is essential that an ad be clever and witty in order to be effective."
- "Some ads seem to demand that the customer buy the product. I don't like a 'hard-sell' approach."
- "I think it's crucial that an ad clearly communicate the benefits of the product it is selling."

2 LISTENING

Radio ads

A Pair work What types of products or services are typically advertised on the radio? Do you think radio is an effective advertising medium?

B Listen to three radio advertisements. What products are they for? Write the name and type of each product in the chart in part C.

C Listen again. What benefits of the products are highlighted in the ads? Complete the chart.

1.
2.
3.

3 GRAMMAR

Verbs in the subjunctive

Certain expressions and verbs such as demand, insist, propose, recommend, request, and suggest are followed by the subjunctive. The subjunctive uses the base form of the verb. It is generally used in formal language to express a wish or necessity.

I think consumers need to insist (that) advertisements be truthful in every respect.

Some ads seem to demand (that) the customer buy the product.

These expressions are frequently followed by the subjunctive:

it is crucial	it is imperative	it is important
it is essential	it is vital	it is critical

I believe it is essential that an ad be clever and witty in order to be effective.

GRAMMAR PLUS see page 121

A Look at the Starting Point on page 66 again. Which opinion does not use the subjunctive?

B Use verbs followed by the subjunctive instead of should or must to rewrite these sentences without changing the meaning.

- Companies should advertise more to increase sales. (I / suggest)
I suggest that companies advertise more to increase sales.
- Advertising agencies should use humor in their ads. (It is important)
- Cities should tear down billboards that obstruct city views. (I / demand)
- The government must regulate ads on the Internet. (It is essential)
- Viewers should skip the ads that precede online video clips. (I / recommend)
- The advertising of harmful products must stop. (It is crucial)
- False advertising should be treated as a serious crime. (I / propose)
- Public television should remain commercial free. (It is vital)

C Group work Use the verbs and expressions in the box below to give these people advice on their problems.

Do you ever have similar problems?

Ask your group for advice.

insist	it is crucial	it is essential
propose	recommend	suggest

Useful expressions

Asking for advice

What do you think I should do?

What would you do if you were me?

What would you do if you were in my position?

"The fast food in commercials and posters always looks great. It looks so good I can't resist buying some, but what they actually give me looks pretty bad and really unappetizing."

"I saw a clothing store with a big 'Going Out of Business' sign in the window last year, so I went in and bought a lot of clothes. Now, it's a year later, and the sign is still there."

"Several friends told me they have received spam emails from me offering to sell them diet pills. The thing is, I didn't send the emails. Someone must have hacked my email account!"

VOCABULARY

| a. a free sample | d. comparative marketing | g. a loyalty program |
| b. coupon codes | e. search-engine marketing | h. word-of-mouth marketing |
| c. product placement | f. a celebrity endorsement | |

- | | |
|---|--|
| 1. ____ gets attention for products when they are shown in movies or on TV shows. | 5. ____ rewards customers for repeatedly purchasing products from one retailer. |
| 2. ____ links the name and image of a famous person to a product. | 6. ____ occurs when satisfied customers tell others about their positive experience. |
| 3. ____ lets people try a product they weren't planning on buying. | 7. ____ can be obtained at many websites and entitle customers to discounts. |
| 4. ____ promotes a product or service related to your search on the results page. | 8. ____ points out the superiority of a product over its competitors. |

B Pair work With your partner, brainstorm an example from real life for as many of the marketing strategies as you can. How effective do you think they were?

DISCUSSION

The ethics of undercover marketing

A Pair work Look at the expressions in Exercise 4. Which of them describe undercover marketing strategies, in which people are not aware that they are being marketed to? Discuss your answers with your partner.

B Group work Read about undercover marketing. Then discuss the questions below with your group.

Undercover marketers (also called “stealth marketers”) try to find ways to introduce products to people without actually letting them know that they are being marketed to. Here are three actual techniques that have been used for undercover marketing.

The product is a video gaming glove that allows gamers to control games with small finger movements. Unknown actors go into coffee shops and enthusiastically use the glove. This attracts interested people. The actor lets them try it out, never saying who he is.

A top cell phone company sent 60 actors to 10 cities with its latest model. The actors pretended to be tourists and asked people to take their picture with the phone. In this way, they put the new phone in people's hands and let them interact with it.

To attract attention and appear well established, a young firm had fake newspapers printed that had full back-page ads for the company. They then paid people to ride the subways in a major city, pretending to read the newspapers while holding up the ads for all to see.

1. Which of these three marketing techniques seems the most unethical to you? Why?
2. Do you think undercover marketing should be controlled by the government? Why or why not?

A Pair work What influences you most to try a new brand or product?

How likely are you to use the same brands and products your friends use?

Discuss with a partner. Then read the article.

Word-of-Mouth MARKETING

It was close to midnight as one truck after another crept down a quiet street in Laguna Beach, one of the most beautiful, affluent, and expensive communities in Southern California. Considering the time of night, it was unusual to see vehicles on the road. Yet several trucks stood silhouetted in the driveway and along the front curb as workers silently unloaded camera equipment and cardboard boxes, and then carried them inside the Morgenson family home.

What took place over the next eight weeks was inspired by a Hollywood movie called The Joneses about a family of stealth marketers who move into an upper-middle-class neighborhood to peddle their wares to unsuspecting neighbors. The idea was both simple and ambitious: to test the power of word-of-mouth marketing. By filming a “real” family in spontaneous, unscripted situations, my team and I would document how the Morgensons’ circle of friends responded to specific brands and products the Morgensons brought into their lives. Would they want all the things that family has? Would this influence be so powerful as to make them actually go out and buy those things?

With the help of 35 video cameras and 25 microphones tucked away inside the furniture and fixtures, the clandestine operation revealed something shocking. The most powerful hidden persuader of all isn’t in your TV or on the shelves of your supermarket or even lurking in your smartphones. It’s a far more pervasive influence that’s around you virtually every waking moment:

your very own friends and neighbors. There’s nothing quite so persuasive as observing someone we respect or admire using a brand or product.

Our analysis also found that the brands the Morgensons advocated went viral faster. Roughly one third of the Morgensons’ friends began promoting these same brands to their friends and acquaintances. We also found that the brands their peers were most likely to buy at the Morgensons’ subtle suggestion were the bigger and better-known ones. This confirmed my theory that conventional marketing and the more covert variety work well together. The most persuasive advertising strategies become that much more so when amplified by word-of-mouth advertising.

Whenever I meet with company executives, I remind them that the people who hold the real marketing power are hyperconnected, mouse-clicking consumers and their wide circles of virtual and real-life friends and acquaintances. In other words, the people who hold the real power are us.

B Pair work Write the expressions and words in boldface from the article next to their meanings.

- | | |
|-----------------------|----------------------------------|
| 1. undercover _____ | 4. sell _____ |
| 2. strengthened _____ | 5. always online _____ |
| 3. hidden _____ | 6. widespread and invasive _____ |

C Group work Discuss these questions. Then share your answers with the class.

1. In your opinion, what were the most interesting findings of the experiment described in the article?
2. Do you agree that there’s nothing quite as persuasive as seeing people we admire and respect using a brand or product? Why or why not?
3. How ethical do you think covert word-of-mouth marketing is? Does the experiment described in the article present any dilemmas or limitations? Explain.

NATURE

LESSON A ► Animals in our lives

STARTING POINT

Amazing animals

A Read about these three famous animals. Have you heard of any of them before? Which do you think is the most impressive?

Ruby

Ruby was one of many elephants that learned to paint at the Phoenix Zoo. Wherever there are elephants painting, people are fascinated. Ruby was even more intriguing because she chose her own colors when she painted. Her works raised about $500,000 for the zoo.

Bart the Bear

Bart the Bear was a nine-foot Alaskan Kodiak bear. When he was a cub, he was raised by humans and trained to act in films. Whenever actors worked with him, they were always impressed. He worked with stars such as Brad Pitt and Steven Seagal.

Alex

Alex's name is usually mentioned whenever experts talk about language use by animals. It is claimed that this African grey parrot could categorize about 150 words, count numbers, and distinguish colors and shapes. He showed some of his skills on several nature shows on TV.

B Pair work Discuss these questions and share your ideas with the class.

1. Do you think animals should be trained for entertainment? Is it ethical?
2. What other interesting talents or skills do animals have?

"I think it's OK to train animals as performers, provided they don't suffer in any way when trained."

LISTENING

Helping hands

A Listen to these news reports on animals that help people. What kinds of people does each animal help?

B Listen again. How does each animal help the people? Write M for monkey, D for dog, or NG for information not given.

- | | |
|--|---|
| ___ 1. fetching objects | ___ 6. sparking memories of pets |
| ___ 2. picking things up off the floor | ___ 7. giving them something to take care of |
| ___ 3. helping them to cross streets | ___ 8. scratching an itchy nose |
| ___ 4. taking them places | ___ 9. giving them something to look forward to |
| ___ 5. doing tricks to make them laugh | |

3 GRAMMAR

Whenever and wherever contrasted with when and where

Whenever and wherever mean “at any time” and “in any place.” They are used to introduce adverbial clauses. Notice their position in the sentences.

Whenever experts talk about language use by animals, Alex’s name is usually mentioned.

Alex’s name is usually mentioned whenever experts talk about language use by animals.

Wherever there are elephants painting, people are fascinated.

People are fascinated wherever there are elephants painting.

When and where can replace whenever and wherever when they have the sense of “at any time” or “in any place.”

Whenever / When actors worked with Bart the Bear, they were always impressed.

Wherever / Where there are elephants painting, people are fascinated.

Whenever and wherever cannot be used if the sentence refers to a specific time or location.

In these cases, when and where are used.

Whenever actors worked with him, they were always impressed. (any time)

When Brad Pitt worked with Bart in Legends of the Fall, he was very impressed. (specific time)

Wherever there are elephants painting, people are fascinated. (any place)

There were a lot of people where the elephants were painting today. (specific place)

GRAMMAR PLUS see page 122

A Look at the Starting Point on page 70 again. In which sentences can whenever and wherever be used interchangeably with when and where?

B Complete the sentences with whenever or wherever.

If the time or place is specific, use when or where.

- Large animals, like tigers and bears, need to be trained _____ they are still very young.
- Though large, trained elephants are obedient. They will usually go _____ they are led.
- _____ someone has an unusual pet, serious problems can arise.
- _____ you see a cat flatten its ears, you should assume it’s upset.
- _____ my sister and her family live now, tenants aren’t allowed to have pets.
- _____ a messenger pigeon is taken somewhere and released, it almost always find its way home.

C Match the clauses on the left with clauses on the right. Make logical sentences using when, whenever, where, or wherever.

- | | |
|---|--|
| 1. We were very startled last night ____c____ | a. the traffic light is red. |
| 2. Parrots become very sad ____ | b. cars can’t conveniently go. |
| 3. The sheep population grows quickly ____ | c. a bat flew into the window. |
| 4. A guide dog always stops ____ | d. there is plenty of grass to eat. |
| 5. Police officers ride horses ____ | e. the sun comes up in the morning. |
| 6. Our helper monkey wakes us up ____ | f. they are separated from their owners. |

We were very startled last night when a bat flew into the window.

VOCABULARY

Physical features of animals

A Pair work Look at this list of animal features. Which type(s) of animal do they belong to? Write them in the correct column(s) in the chart.

beaks claws	fangs feathers	fins fur	gills hooves	horns paws	scales tails	tusks wings

Birds		Fish		Reptiles		Mammals

B Pair work Which animal features in part A do people make use of? Which animals do they come from, and what are the uses?

"Feathers are used in various ways. For example, many pillows are stuffed with duck or goose feathers."

DISCUSSION

Is it right to do that?

A Look at these ways humans use animals. How acceptable do you think they are? Add one idea of your own, and complete the chart.

ANIMAL ETHICS	I'm against it.	It depends.	I'm OK with it.
1. using ivory from elephant tusks in jewelry	<input type="checkbox"/>	<input type="checkbox"/>	<input type="checkbox"/>
2. using rhinoceros horns for medicines	<input type="checkbox"/>	<input type="checkbox"/>	<input type="checkbox"/>
3. using animals for medical research	<input type="checkbox"/>	<input type="checkbox"/>	<input type="checkbox"/>
4. wearing animal fur and leather	<input type="checkbox"/>	<input type="checkbox"/>	<input type="checkbox"/>
5. serving wild animal meat in restaurants	<input type="checkbox"/>	<input type="checkbox"/>	<input type="checkbox"/>
6. using animals to test cosmetics	<input type="checkbox"/>	<input type="checkbox"/>	<input type="checkbox"/>
7. training animals to perform in circuses	<input type="checkbox"/>	<input type="checkbox"/>	<input type="checkbox"/>
8. _____	<input type="checkbox"/>	<input type="checkbox"/>	<input type="checkbox"/>

B Group work Share your answers with the group, and explain your reasons. Who in your group seems to be the most "animal-friendly"?

"For me, using ivory from elephant tusks in jewelry depends on whether or not the ivory was taken from elephants that were killed illegally."

Classification essay

A classification essay organizes information into categories. The first paragraph introduces the overall topic of the essay, includes a thesis statement, and gives an overview of the categories the writer will focus on. Each subsequent paragraph provides detailed information about one of the categories. A conclusion gives an additional perspective on the overall topic.

- A Read this classification essay. What special kind of dog is the main topic of the essay? What three categories of this type of dog does the writer provide more information about?

Although most dogs offer their owners little more than companionship, assistance dogs are specially trained to assist people with disabilities or special needs. These dogs devote themselves to helping their owners live more independent lives. There are several types of assistance dogs, but the most common are guide dogs, hearing dogs, and service dogs.

Guide dogs help blind or visually impaired people get around their homes and communities. Most guide dogs are large breeds like Labrador retrievers and German shepherds, which wear a harness with a U-shaped handle to allow the dog and its human partner to communicate. The owner gives directional commands, and the dog's role is to ensure the human's safety, even if it means disobeying an unsafe command.

Hearing dogs alert a person who is deaf or hearing-impaired to sounds like doorbells, a baby's cries, and smoke alarms. They're trained to make physical contact and lead their owner to the source of the sound. Hearing dogs may be any size or breed, but they tend to be small to medium-sized mixed breeds because they are rescued from shelters. Hearing dogs can all be identified by their orange collar and vest.

Service dogs usually assist people who are confined to a wheelchair. The dogs are trained to pick up dropped objects, open and close doors, help in getting a person into or out of a wheelchair, and find help when needed. Because many of these tasks require strength, most service dogs are large breeds such as golden or Labrador retrievers. These dogs usually wear a backpack, harness, or vest.

Guide dogs, hearing dogs, and service dogs have one thing in common, however. Before being matched with a human partner, each type of assistance dog undergoes a one- to two-year training program. Once the dog and owner are matched, they begin to form a bond of trust with each other and often become an inseparable team.

- B Choose one of these topics or one of your own. Brainstorm ways to classify your topic into at least three categories, and make a list of ideas for each.
- types of cats • types of pets • types of pet owners • people who work with animals
- C Write a classification essay that includes an introduction, three or more paragraphs – each one about a different category – and a conclusion.
- D Pair work Read your partner's essay. Is the thesis statement clear? Are the categories distinct? Is each category described adequately? What other information would you want to have included?

LESSON B ► In touch with nature

1 STARTING POINT Careers in nature

A Read the job postings on this website. Do you know anyone who has one of these jobs? What else do you know about the jobs?

The screenshot shows a website titled 'Careers in Nature' with a navigation bar containing 'about us', 'jobs', 'testimonials', and 'search'. On the left, there is a vertical image of a forest path with the text 'You'll find whatever you need to start a career in nature right here!'. The main content area is a table with two columns: 'Job title' and 'Description'. The table lists five job openings, each with a 'Details' link.

Job title	Description
Nature photographer	Photograph wildflowers in national parks for an exciting catalog project. Camera equipment is not provided; candidates must bring whatever they need. . . . Details
Diving instructor	Scuba diving instructors are needed at a world-class resort to lead underwater tours. Extra consideration will be given to whoever can start immediately. . . . Details
Landscape architect	Join our team and help design and implement landscape plans on university campuses. Whoever applies should have at least five years of experience. . . . Details
Wildlife rehabilitator	Be ready to do whatever is required to return injured animals to the wild. Take care of orphaned animals and assist veterinarians with post-operative care. . . . Details
Naturalist	Lead children on educational nature walks. Whoever enjoys explaining things and has a love for the outdoors might be right for this position. . . . Details

B Pair work Choose one of the jobs on the website or another nature-related job you might be interested in trying. Tell your partner what interests you about it.

2 LISTENING An eco-resort

A Listen to a conversation with the manager of an eco-resort. Who is the manager speaking with? Choose the correct answer.

- ☐ a guest ☐ a job applicant ☐ a journalist ☐ a nature guide

B Listen again. What is special about these features of the eco-resort? Complete the chart.

Eco-resort feature	Reasons it is special
1. Resort design
2. Nature guides
3. Spa
4. Zip lines

C Pair work If you were designing an eco-resort, which of the features in part B would you include in your resort? Why? What other features would you include?

3 GRAMMAR

Noun clauses with whoever and whatever

Whoever and whatever can begin noun clauses and function as either the subject or object of the clause.

Whoever = the person who / anyone who / everyone who

Whoever applies should have at least five years of experience.

Extra consideration will be given to whoever can start immediately.

Whatever = anything that / everything that

Be ready to do whatever is required to return injured animals to the wild.

You'll find whatever you need to start a career in nature right here!

GRAMMAR PLUS see page 123

A Look at the Starting Point on page 74 again. In which sentences are whoever or whatever used as the subject of a clause? In which are they the object of a clause?

B Complete the sentences with whoever or whatever.

Then compare your answers with a partner.

- Here's a warning to _____ is thinking about becoming a beekeeper: You will be stung!
- The birds on that island are curious about people and approach _____ they see coming.
- Nature photographers take pictures of landscapes and _____ they see in the wild.
- It's a forest ranger's duty to immediately report _____ looks like smoke or fire.
- _____ took this photo of Mount Everest is a talented nature photographer.

DISCUSSION

The importance of nature

A How in touch with nature are you? Complete the survey to find out.

Are You in Touch with Nature?		Agree	↔	Disagree
1.	Human beings are a part of nature, and therefore must interact frequently with nature to be healthy.	2	1	0
2.	It's important to work or study in a space with indoor plants and large windows that let in sunlight.	2	1	0
3.	Everyone needs at least one hobby, such as horseback riding or gardening, to keep in touch with nature.	2	1	0
4.	When it comes to clothing and body care, it's best to wear natural fibers and use natural soaps and shampoos.	2	1	0
5.	When I'm under the weather, I prefer to use all-natural treatments instead of synthetic drugs.	2	1	0
6.	I would have been happier living in harmony with nature in a time before industry and technology.	2	1	0
7.	Given a choice, I'd buy free-range poultry and meat products. I'd also buy wild fish instead of farmed varieties.	2	1	0
8.	I recycle everything I can. Although my efforts might be just a drop in the ocean, I think I'm helping to preserve our natural resources.	2	1	0

SCORE	0-4 Like much of modern society, you may be out of touch with the natural world.	9-12 You see nature as an important part of your life and necessary for your well-being.
	5-8 While nature isn't a priority for you, you do appreciate it when you experience it.	13-16 You're a nature lover who needs to be in constant contact with the natural world.

B Group work Discuss your answers to the survey. Talk about the reasons for your choices and whether or not you agree with your score.

Urban park rangers

A Pair work What are some of the daily tasks a park ranger might have to do in a city park? Discuss with a partner. Then read the article.

A SUMMER JOB that's a walk in the park

Every summer, curious creatures infiltrate New York City's biggest parks. They number in the dozens, walk on their hind legs, are khaki in color, and exceedingly amiable by nature. Their most distinguished markings are their wide-brimmed Smokey Bear hats.

They are Urban Park Ranger fellows, possessors of what may be the best, if not the most unusual, summer jobs in New York. "It's pretty laid back – kind of therapeutic," said Mohammed Alomeri, 22, who is from Midwood, Brooklyn, and works as a summer ranger at Fort Greene Park. "Every day, literally, is a walk in the park."

The summer fellows supplement the corps of year-round Urban Park Rangers – who also wear the Smokey Bear hats, but also carry nightsticks and can issue summonses – during the parks' busiest season. ...

Daily tasks can include, but are not limited to, giving nature walks, history talks, and children's craft classes; guiding people who have gotten lost; asking people to leash their dogs; getting outdoor chefs to move their barbecue grills away from trees; talking about why feeding chicken nuggets to birds is unhealthy; explaining that, yes, they are rangers, just like the ones in national parks; and posing for tourists' cameras. ...

Rangers field hundreds of calls from park visitors who are concerned about the behavior of wildlife, often when the animals in question are behaving naturally. They get reports from people who are unnerved by the sight of raccoons, or who mistakenly assume that pigeons sunning themselves have broken wings, or who grow vexed whenever an animal wanders onto a jogging path. The sight of hawks hunting smaller birds will invariably yield dozens of concerned calls.

"They call and say, 'You gotta get in there and get that pigeon out,'" said Richard Simon, who is citywide ranger captain and oversees the fellowship program. "That's when we explain, 'This is the food chain.'" ...

The rangers also get reports about animals that truly are hurt or in the wrong place. They are handed injured baby birds, alerted to exotic animals that have been dumped by their owners, or led to stunned squirrels that have fallen from trees. "They fall out of trees all the time," said Kathy Vasquez, a full-time, year-round ranger. "They usually land on their feet, but sometimes not so much." ...

The summer rangers program ends on Saturday, which means a return to a life indoors for most of the five dozen fellows. Mr. Alomeri, however, plans to apply for a position as a full-time ranger. He has only one semester left at Brooklyn College, where he is studying physics, and wants to put off graduate school. He has fallen in love with being a ranger, and delights at the way he can now identify trees and birds. ...

B Pair work Find the words in the article that match the meanings below.

- | | |
|-----------------------------------|----------------------------------|
| 1. friendly (paragraph 1) _____ | 4. agitated (paragraph 5) _____ |
| 2. healing (paragraph 2) _____ | 5. lead to (paragraph 5) _____ |
| 3. respond to (paragraph 5) _____ | 6. abandoned (paragraph 7) _____ |

C Group work Discuss these questions. Then share your answers with the class.

- How do the Urban Park Ranger fellows help park visitors connect with nature?
- What evidence from the article might lead you to assume that many park visitors are not familiar with nature? Is the same true about city dwellers where you're from? Explain.
- Do you agree that being an Urban Park Ranger fellow would be laid back and therapeutic? Why?

COMMUNICATION REVIEW

UNITS 7–9

SELF-ASSESSMENT

How well can you do these things? Choose the best answer.

I can ...	Very well	OK	A little
▶ Take part in a discussion about recent trends and life choices (Ex. 1)	<input type="checkbox"/>	<input type="checkbox"/>	<input type="checkbox"/>
▶ Take part in a decision-making discussion about marketing a new product or service (Ex. 2)	<input type="checkbox"/>	<input type="checkbox"/>	<input type="checkbox"/>
▶ Give a persuasive presentation about a new product or service (Ex. 2)	<input type="checkbox"/>	<input type="checkbox"/>	<input type="checkbox"/>
▶ Take part in a discussion about animals as pets (Ex. 3)	<input type="checkbox"/>	<input type="checkbox"/>	<input type="checkbox"/>
▶ Understand an interview about animal caretaking (Ex. 4)	<input type="checkbox"/>	<input type="checkbox"/>	<input type="checkbox"/>

Now do the corresponding exercises. Was your assessment correct?

DISCUSSION

Trends and attitudes

A Pair work Read what these people have to say about some trends. Who do you agree with the most, and who do you agree with the least? Discuss your ideas with a partner, and give reasons for them.

"I think it's great that so many companies allow employees to telecommute. It's illogical, even irresponsible, for companies to require employees who don't live nearby to come in to work every day."

HUI LIN

"Something that worries me is the way people risk their health by experimenting with alternative medicines and therapies that haven't been properly tested. No one really knows how safe they are."

STEPHANIE

"I'm hoping attitudes toward consumption – like constantly buying new clothes – are changing. Celebrities like actors, musicians, and athletes, whom young people look up to, need to set the right example and help bring about change."

"I disagree with Hui Lin. I don't think alternative medicines are dangerous. Many of them are traditional medicines that have been used for years. However, I agree with . . ."

B Group work Discuss how you feel about these life choices. Then share your answers with the class.

- adult children returning home to live with their parents
- people choosing to get married at a later age
- people socializing more online than they do in person
- senior citizens going back to school to earn degrees
- people choosing to spend more of their free time doing volunteer work

2 DISCUSSION

New products and marketing plans

A Group work Think of a new product or service you think would be successful. What is it? Who is it for? How does it work? What's the best way to advertise and promote it?

"Well, I'm thinking about a concierge service for people who are new in town. The concierge could provide the same services as a concierge in a hotel."

"I suggest we offer information and advice to help them cope with all the changes."

"Good idea. I recommend we advertise on the town's website. . . ."

B Class activity Present your product or service and marketing plans to the class. Which group has the best ideas?

3 SPEAKING

Suitable pets?

A Would you consider having any of these animals as pets? Why or why not?

tropical fish

boa constrictor

chimpanzee

B Pair work Compare your ideas with a partner. Explain your reasons.

"I really love tropical fish. Whenever I get the chance, I go snorkeling. I wouldn't have them as pets, though. I would rather see them in the ocean than in an aquarium."

4 LISTENING

Bird talk

A Listen to an interview with a parrot expert. She mentions three things that are important for a person to have before getting an African grey parrot. Choose the three basic requirements she mentions.

10 LANGUAGE

LESSON A ► Communication skills

STARTING POINT

Effective communicators

A Read about these effective communicators. What else do you know about them?

Steve Jobs, the former CEO of Apple, is remembered for his contributions to communications technologies, such as smartphones and music players. Many of his design innovations are still being imitated by competitors. Jobs will also be remembered as an inspiring public speaker, as when he told Stanford University graduates: "Your time is limited, so don't waste it living someone else's life." Business presentations have been forever transformed by his simple but engaging style.

No one should have been surprised when Nelson Mandela was awarded the Nobel Peace Prize in 1993. Even while in prison for 27 years, his fight to end apartheid in South Africa was being kept alive by activists around the world. Mandela is always going to be remembered for his great speeches and eloquent quotations, such as, "Education is the most powerful weapon which you can use to change the world." In 2005, for his contribution to international understanding, he was designated Goodwill Ambassador by UNESCO.

B Pair work Who are some effective communicators you know? What qualities make them effective?

DISCUSSION

Fear of public speaking

A Studies have shown that public speaking is many people's biggest fear. Do you share this fear? Complete the survey. Add a statement of your own.

Are you AFRAID to talk?

	Always true	Sometimes true	Never true
1 I can't sleep the night before a presentation.	<input type="checkbox"/>	<input type="checkbox"/>	<input type="checkbox"/>
2 I rarely participate in discussions at work or in class.	<input type="checkbox"/>	<input type="checkbox"/>	<input type="checkbox"/>
3 I avoid situations in which I might have to give an impromptu speech.	<input type="checkbox"/>	<input type="checkbox"/>	<input type="checkbox"/>
4 When talking to others, I find it hard to look people in the eye.	<input type="checkbox"/>	<input type="checkbox"/>	<input type="checkbox"/>
5 I can speak only from a prepared speech.	<input type="checkbox"/>	<input type="checkbox"/>	<input type="checkbox"/>
6 I am intimidated by job interviews.	<input type="checkbox"/>	<input type="checkbox"/>	<input type="checkbox"/>
7 I'd rather go to the dentist, pay taxes, or clean closets than give a presentation.	<input type="checkbox"/>	<input type="checkbox"/>	<input type="checkbox"/>
8 _____	<input type="checkbox"/>	<input type="checkbox"/>	<input type="checkbox"/>

Source: Schaum's Quick Guide to Great Presentation Skills

B Pair work Compare and explain your answers using examples from your life whenever possible. What do you have in common? How are you different?

Overview of passives

Passive sentences focus on the receiver of the action by making it the subject of the sentence. The agent that performs the action can be omitted or follow by after the verb.

Passive = subject + form of be + past participle (+ by + agent)

Simple present: Steve Jobs is remembered for his contributions to communications technologies.

Present continuous: Many of his design innovations are still being imitated (by competitors).

Present perfect: Business presentations have been forever transformed by his simple but engaging style.

Simple past: Nelson Mandela was awarded the Nobel Peace Prize in 1993.

Past continuous: Mandela's fight was being kept alive (by activists) around the world.

Future with going to: Mandela is always going to be remembered for his great speeches.

Modals: Jobs will also be remembered as an inspiring public speaker.

Past modals: No one should have been surprised.

GRAMMAR PLUS see page 124

A Look at the Starting Point on page 80 again. Can you find another example of the passive? What verb form is it in?

B Change these active sentences to the passive. Keep or omit the agent as appropriate.

1. The Internet has changed the way the world communicates.

The way the world communicates has been changed by the Internet.

2. People should deliver presentations confidently and cheerfully.

3. Someone should have told the students to speak louder during their speeches.

4. Counselors are advising married couples to communicate more openly.

5. Long ago, people used smoke signals to send simple messages in China.

6. After the ceremony, the president is announcing the scholarship recipients.

7. Translators are going to translate the president's speech into 35 languages.

8. The principal was making an announcement when the microphone went dead.

C Complete these sentences with information about language that is true for you. Then add another sentence of your own using a passive verb form.

1. I've been told by many people that . . .
my English sounds quite formal.

2. My classmates and I are encouraged to . . .

3. I hope that someday I will be complimented on . . .

4. Students should / shouldn't be forced to . . .

5. Languages should be taught . . .

6. I've been advised . . .

7. Not long ago, I was told that . . .

8. _____

B Pair work Complete each sentence with an expression from part A. Sometimes more than one answer is possible.

(1) _____, let me thank everyone for your interest and attention as I speak on the topic of petroleum dependency – our dependency on oil for our energy needs.

There are important reasons why we should be concerned about our dependency on petroleum. (2) _____, petroleum-based fuels contribute to both air pollution and global warming, two very serious problems today. (3) _____, there is a limited supply of oil in the world; therefore, we must reduce fuel consumption and be prepared to replace petroleum with other sources of energy.

There are many ways in which to do this on a large scale. First, we must produce fuel-efficient cars; (4) _____, we must encourage the use of public transportation. Finally, tax breaks could be offered to businesses that conserve fuel.

(5) _____, homeowners could also be offered tax incentives for fuel conservation. It's true that cutting down on consumption is beneficial to the environment;

(6) _____, we should keep in mind that cutting down too quickly could have a negative effect on the economy.

(7) _____, this problem has no simple answers, but if the government, corporations, and private citizens all work together, I feel we can solve the problem.

Persuasive writing

In persuasive writing, you take a position on an issue and try to convince the reader that your position is correct. To do so, you present both sides of the issue, providing arguments, reasons, and examples that support your point of view and show weaknesses of the opposing point of view.

- A Read the article. What is the writer's position? What are the arguments for the opposing view? What arguments, reasons, and examples does the writer give to support his position and to show the weakness of the opposing viewpoint?

Every Student Should Be Required to Study a Foreign Language

by Leo Fernández

Recently, a student organization at our university proposed that we do away with our foreign language requirement, which mandates that all students complete two years of foreign language study. The main reason for this proposal seems to be to eliminate unnecessary courses; however, the proponents of this change are overlooking the great benefits foreign language study provides to students of any major.

Students who oppose the language requirement argue that university study should be more career focused. They feel that the language requirement steals time that could be spent on courses directly related to a student's major. This is a shortsighted position. Statistics suggest that candidates proficient in two languages have an increased chance of finding work. For example, . . .

Another point often made by the proponents of the change is that a large number of students who study a language for two years rarely use it again in their lives. While this may be true in some cases, study of a foreign language has been shown to further develop native language skills. In addition, the understanding of oneself and one's own culture is increased through contact with another language and its culture. Students who . . .

In conclusion, it is crucial that we keep the foreign language requirement. To eliminate it would be doing a great disservice to our university and its students. Foreign language learning benefits us in concrete and subtle ways as it broadens our minds and expands our opportunities.

- B Pair work With a partner, take a position on one of these issues related to language, or use your own idea. Then brainstorm reasons supporting your position and weaknesses of the opposing view. Which reasons are the strongest?

- Schools should teach a second language starting in kindergarten.
- Every foreign language student should be required to study abroad.
- Institutions should be created to preserve dying languages.

- C Write an article of at least four paragraphs supporting your position. Use the best reasons you have brainstormed to support your position. Make sure you argue against the opposing view.

- D Pair work Exchange articles. Discuss ways the writing could be made more persuasive and the arguments stronger.

LESSON B ► Natural language

STARTING POINT

What's correct language?

A Read these statements about language. Choose the statements you agree with.

Proper English

- ☐ 1. Most people don't need to write well. Speaking is more important.
- ☐ 2. The majority of teenagers use too much slang.
- ☐ 3. Three-quarters of email messages contain grammar errors.
- ☐ 4. No one expects email to be correct.
- ☐ 5. There are plenty of people with foreign accents who speak English well.
- ☐ 6. None of us has the right to correct other people's grammar.
- ☐ 7. All varieties of English are equally valid. Every variety is correct.
- ☐ 8. A lot of advanced grammar is complicated even for native speakers.
- ☐ 9. Only a minority of my friends cares about speaking correctly.

B Pair work Discuss your opinions with a partner.

"I disagree with the first sentence. A lot of people need to write well for their jobs."

DISCUSSION

Text speak

A Pair work Read about "text speak." Then try to figure out what the six examples of text speak mean, and write the meanings. (For the answers, see page 142.)

"Text speak"

refers to shortened forms of words commonly used in text messaging. When texting began, telephone companies would charge by the word, so fewer words and letters meant cheaper messages. These days, many people find text speak convenient and cool, and it is creeping into less informal types of writing. See some examples of text speak in the box.

b4	_____ before _____
ruok?	_____
cul8r	_____
xlnt	_____
gr8	_____
2nite	_____

B Group work Read these opinions about text speak. Which one do you most agree with? Discuss your opinions about text speak with the group.

I try not to use text speak – except when I'm online or texting, of course – because it's annoying. I think people who use it in schoolwork and formal emails look idiotic and immature. — Raphael

I really feel old when my kids – and even my wife! – write to me using text speak. Nevertheless, I know that language always evolves. Just think of the difference between our English and Shakespeare's! — Rob

Txt spk is gr8! It's much easier and quicker, and u can use it for email, taking notes in class, and even in some homework assignments. — Wendy

People are free to use text speak if they think it's more convenient – after all, it's a free country. But I do hope it remains an alternative style, and that grammar is maintained. — Su-jin

Subject-verb agreement with quantifiers

All (of), a lot of, lots of, plenty of, some (of), most (of), and fractions take a singular verb if the noun they modify is uncountable or singular. They take a plural verb if the noun they modify is plural.

A lot of advanced grammar is complicated.

Most people don't need to write well.

Three-quarters of email messages contain grammar errors.

Each of, every one of, none of, and collective nouns, such as majority (of) and minority (of), typically take a singular verb, but often take a plural verb after a plural noun in informal speech.

None of us has / have the right to correct other people's grammar.

The majority of teenagers use / uses too much slang.

A minority of my friends care / cares about speaking correctly.

Everyone, someone, anyone, no one, each + noun, and every + noun are followed by a singular verb.

Every variety is correct.

No one expects email to be correct.

GRAMMAR PLUS see page 125

A Look at the Starting Point on page 84 again. Can you find other quantifiers?
Are they followed by a singular or plural verb?

B Complete these sentences with the correct form of the verb in parentheses.
Use the simple present.

1. A lot of people agree (agree) that spelling and grammar shouldn't change.
2. All of the students in my class _____ (attend) English club meetings.
3. Most of the faculty at school _____ (speak) at least three languages.
4. A quarter of my classmates _____ (be) going to study abroad next semester.
5. The majority of people _____ (use) text speak in their emails.
6. None of the information in the email _____ (be) correct.
7. Every letter I receive usually _____ (contain) one or two spelling mistakes.
8. Over four-fifths of the world population _____ (be) able to read and write.

C Group work Complete these sentences with information about how people use language in different situations. Then discuss your answers.

1. Lots of the slang people use these days . . .
2. The majority of people my age . . .
3. Some of the language older people use . . .
4. None of my friends . . .
5. Most of the news anchors you see on TV . . .
6. Every one of my teachers . . .

"Lots of the slang people use these days comes from words they hear in popular music."

"That's true. In hip-hop slang, 'crib' means home, and 'bling' means flashy jewelry."

LISTENING & SPEAKING

Assert yourself!

A Listen to three one-sided conversations. Write the number of the conversation next to the correct description.

- ____ a. One person is talking the other person's ear off.
 ____ b. One person is trying to talk the other person into doing something.
 ____ c. One person isn't sticking to the point.

B Listen again. Which expressions do you hear used in the conversations? Write the number of the conversation next to the correct expression.

- | | |
|--------------------------------------|--|
| ____ a. Could I say something? | ____ d. That's nice, but we really need to . . . |
| ____ b. Thanks for asking, but . . . | ____ e. That's really nice of you, but . . . |
| ____ c. I just wanted to say . . . | ____ f. Getting back to what we were talking about . . . |

C Pair work Prepare a conversation similar to those from the listening. Use the expressions in part B. Then perform the scene for the class.

6 READING

English varieties

A Pair work Read the quote in the first line of the article. What do you think it means? Then read the article to compare your ideas to the author's.

SLANG Abroad

George Bernard Shaw said, "England and America are two countries separated by a common language." I never really understood the meaning of this quote until a friend and I stopped at a London convenience store. We had some trash to throw away, so I, in as polite a manner as I could muster, asked the clerk for a trash can. Then I asked him again, thinking he didn't hear me. And then I asked again, only this time while speaking the international language (loudly and slowly while pointing to the object I wanted to throw away). After this horribly rude display, he politely asked me what a trash can was. So I told him it was a place for my garbage. I guess this weak explanation worked. The clerk then produced a small trash can from behind the counter and in the most you-must-not-be-from-around-here tone he could muster said, "rubbish bin."

Different names for objects, however, are not the main problem. Anyone can learn a language. But to really be a speaker of the language, you need to understand its idioms and its slang. There is a distinct difference between someone who learned a language in a classroom and someone who is a native speaker. Using slang proves that the speaker has been in a country long enough to learn it, and that offers a benefit greater than just being able to converse on a casual level. It allows the two speakers to get much closer much more quickly.

Eventually, after living somewhere for a while you pick up a few things, and this new language education gives a credibility that just pronouncing a city address cannot. It shows a belonging and membership in the club of permanent residents and that one is not just a mere extended tourist. I know it sounds superficial, that by being able to understand words that may or may not be in a dictionary, we can fool people into thinking we belong, but it isn't. What knowing and using slang shows is a basic understanding of a culture. It offers both members of the conversation a common ground.

And that's the point. Britain and America are two countries separated by a common language, but then again so are Mexico and Spain, Brazil and Portugal, and France and Haiti. While these countries' languages may all seem the same on paper, they're not. Really learning the languages can only be done on the ground. And once that learning is done, something far greater is achieved than just not sounding like a fool.

Source: "Slang Abroad," by Ben Falk, The Daily Colonial

B Which of these statements would the author probably agree with? Compare and discuss your answers.

1. It's impossible for anyone learning a foreign language to ever sound like a native speaker.
2. Studying books about slang is an effective way to learn how it's used.
3. Despite how connected the world is, slang and idioms remain very local.
4. Really learning a language means knowing how people actually use it.

C Group work Discuss these questions. Then share your answers with the class.

1. Do you agree with the author's idea that one can only really learn a language by living in a country where it's spoken? Why or why not?
2. Have you or anyone you know ever had any experiences like the one in the first paragraph? What happened? Do you think such misunderstandings are common?

EXCEPTIONAL PEOPLE

LESSON A ► High achievers

STARTING POINT

They've had an impact!

- A Read about the exceptional people below. Have you heard of any of them? What sort of impact have they had on other people?

MAHATMA GANDHI

(1869–1948) Gandhi was a great political and spiritual leader in India. Although he was educated in England, Gandhi is best remembered for his struggle for Indian independence, which had far-reaching effects. His epoch-making victories through peaceful means later inspired other great leaders, like Martin Luther King Jr. and Aung San Suu Kyi.

NATALIA VODIANOVA

(1982–) Born in Russia, this blue-eyed, brown-haired beauty was working at a fruit stand by age 11. At 17, she moved to Paris and soon after signed with a well-known modeling agency. She was well received and quickly became a popular fashion model. A kind-hearted superstar, she created the Naked Heart Foundation to build playgrounds for underprivileged children in Russia.

ANDRE AGASSI

(1970–) Andre Agassi's hard-driving father always planned to make him a tennis star. Intensely coached, he was practicing with pros by age five. During his career, Agassi won every important tournament at least once and earned over 100 million dollars. Now retired but socially engaged, he built a free school for youth in one of Las Vegas's poorest neighborhoods.

- B Group work Think of people who have had an impact on the world. Discuss their achievements, and then choose the person who has had the biggest impact.

DISCUSSION

Exceptional values

- A Group work Think about the people you talked about in the Starting Point. What values do you think were most important to each of them? Why?

"I think Gandhi valued patience. He had patience with people and patience to achieve his goal through nonviolent measures."

- B Look at this list of life values. Choose the three that are the most important in your life. If your top values aren't here, add them to the list.

- | | | |
|--------------------------------------|---|---------------------------------------|
| <input type="checkbox"/> achievement | <input type="checkbox"/> environmentalism | <input type="checkbox"/> spirituality |
| <input type="checkbox"/> compassion | <input type="checkbox"/> health | <input type="checkbox"/> wealth |
| <input type="checkbox"/> cooperation | <input type="checkbox"/> independence | <input type="checkbox"/> _____ |
| <input type="checkbox"/> creativity | <input type="checkbox"/> responsibility | <input type="checkbox"/> _____ |

- C Group work Explain your choices to the members of your group. Then make a list of the three life values that are the most important to your group as a whole.

3 GRAMMAR

Compound adjectives

Compound adjectives are modifying phrases made up of two or more words. They can be joined by a hyphen, appear as a single word, or appear as two separate words. Always check a dictionary before using compound adjectives in writing.

Three common patterns for compound adjectives in English are:

a. adjective + noun + -ed (absent-minded, high-spirited, long-winded, soft-hearted)

When preceding a noun, these compounds are usually written with a hyphen unless they are one word.

b. adverb + past participle (much-loved, well-dressed, highly acclaimed, widely respected)

Compounds with adverbs ending in -ly are never hyphenated.

Other adverbs are usually hyphenated before but not after the noun.

c. adjective, adverb, or noun + present participle (easygoing, forward-thinking, thought-provoking)

When preceding a noun, these compounds are usually written with a hyphen unless they are one word.

GRAMMAR PLUS see page 126

A Look at the Starting Point on page 88 again. Can you find more compound adjectives? Which patterns from the grammar box do they follow?

B Rewrite these sentences using the compound adjectives from the Starting Point to replace the words in boldface. Sometimes more than one answer is possible.

- Roger Federer is an athlete everybody knows.
Roger Federer is a well-known athlete.
- The play was praised by most theater critics.
- Many charities are set up to help children who are poor.
- The very generous celebrity gave money to the homeless.
- The work of Gandhi had effects that reached around the world.
- The child with blue eyes was adopted by a celebrity.

4 VOCABULARY

Compound adjectives related to the body

A Combine the words from both boxes to create compound adjectives and match them with their synonyms below. Sometimes more than one answer is possible.

absent	cool	hard	narrow	soft	blooded	hearted
cold	empty	hot	open	warm	headed	minded

- silly and brainless empty-headed
- quick to anger _____
- uncaring or unkind _____
- sweet and loving _____
- stubborn and unyielding _____
- tolerant and unbiased _____
- intolerant and disapproving _____
- forgetful _____
- calm and unexcitable _____
- friendly and kind _____

B Pair work Use the compound adjectives in part A and others you can create to describe exceptional people or characters from movies, television, or books.

"Sherlock Holmes is an open-minded detective who uses his powers of observation to catch cold-blooded killers."

businessman and TV personality

"If you're going to be thinking anyway, you might as well think big!"

c

Useful expressions

Describing what something means

What this means to me is that . . .

My understanding of this is that . . .

I interpret this to mean . . .

- B Group work Which of the quotations in part A might be useful for the following kinds of people? Do you know any other sayings or quotations that might be helpful?

- someone who wants to get rich in business
- someone who wants success but worries about how much work or time it will take
- someone who wants to study abroad but is afraid of not fitting in somewhere new
- someone who is only working part-time and putting off starting a real career
- someone who is hesitant to register for a class because of self-doubt

Biographical profile

A biographical profile usually begins with an introduction that includes a thesis statement about what makes the person interesting or special. The subsequent paragraphs are then usually arranged in chronological order.

- A The paragraphs in this biographical profile about J. K. Rowling have been scrambled. Read the composition and put the paragraphs in order.

Rowling finished the book in 1995, but it was rejected by 12 publishers before a then-small company called Bloomsbury published it in 1997. In 1998, the book was published in the United States as Harry Potter and the Sorcerer's Stone. It wasn't long before the book was winning awards and rising to the top of the bestsellers lists. Rowling went on to write and publish the second book in the series in 1999, and then several more in the seven-book series between then and 2007. Today, she's one of the bestselling authors of all time.

Born in Gloucestershire, England, in 1965, Rowling was a good student who wanted to study English in college, yet after graduating from high school, she followed her parents' wishes and studied French at Exeter University. Following her graduation from Exeter, Rowling worked as a bilingual secretary. On a train trip during this time, Rowling got the idea for a book about a boy named Harry Potter, an orphan who learns he is a wizard and enters a school of wizardry and witchcraft. Rowling began writing the book whenever she found time, before quitting her job at age 26 and moving to Portugal to work as an English teacher.

If you don't know who J. K. Rowling is, you must be from another planet. Her Harry Potter books have been translated into over 70 languages and are sold in about 200 countries. They have been turned into popular movies. Although Rowling has earned over one billion dollars for her work and has been called a genius by many, life wasn't always easy for her.

In Portugal, Rowling continued working on the book. While there, she married a Portuguese journalist. However, after the birth of their daughter, Rowling moved to Edinburgh, Scotland, where she continued to write. She lived off social security, and went to a café with her daughter every day to work on her Harry Potter book.

- B Choose a famous person you know a lot about. Make notes and list key events from this person's life in chronological order. Then use your notes to write a biographical profile.

- C Pair work Exchange profiles with a partner, and answer these questions.

1. Does your partner's profile begin with an introduction and include a thesis statement?
2. Is the information in the profile arranged in chronological order?
3. Can you suggest any improvements to make the profile more interesting or effective?
4. What else would you like to know about the person your partner wrote about?

LESSON B ► People we admire

1 STARTING POINT Role models

A Read these online posts about role models. What life values are reflected in each post?

YOUR SPACE TO SHARE FEELINGS AND IDEAS

Up for Discussion: Tell us about the people you respect and admire. + new post

RobertD They may not be the smartest or the best-looking people in the world, but I'd say my friends are the people I most admire. We stick together and watch out for each other – and learn a lot from each other, too.

Alena92 I've always looked up to my father. He's the hardest-working and the least narrow-minded man I know. He's always taught me that hard work is the surest way to be successful.

OwnDrummer I'm not sure I have a role model. I mostly like to do my own thing. I think it's because I'm not the most easily impressed person when I meet someone new, and I'm pretty slow to trust people.

Sporty_girl One person I really respect is my soccer coach. He's a tough competitor, and he's the best-trained soccer player I know. He's also one of the most warm-hearted.

Thoughtful2 My philosophy professor is my role model, definitely. Her class is the most thought-provoking one I've ever attended. Someday, I'd like to be as well respected as she is.

Amber334 I've always wanted to be more like my sister Tonya. While I tend to worry a lot, Tonya is the most easygoing person in our family. She never lets little problems bother her.

B Pair work Tell your partner about someone you consider a role model. Explain why you respect and admire that person. Your partner will then tell the class about the person.

"Bruno has an enormous amount of respect for his grandfather. He started his own business when he was 18 years old . . ."

2 LISTENING People who make a difference

 A Listen to Luisa talk about her grandmother and Chu Lan talk about his tennis coach. How do Luisa and Chu Lan feel about the people they are describing?

 B Listen again. In what ways did these people influence Luisa and Chu Lan? Write two ways for each.

	How did Luisa's grandmother influence her?	How did Chu Lan's coach influence him?
2.

Superlative compound adjectives

Superlative compound adjectives generally follow the same hyphenation rules as compound adjectives.

The superlative form of compound adjectives is most often formed by adding the most and the least. There is never a hyphen after most or least.

I'm not the most easily impressed person.

Tonya is the most easygoing person in our family.

He's the least narrow-minded man I know.

When the first word of a compound adjective is an adjective or adverb of one or sometimes two syllables, the superlative can also be formed by adding the and using the superlative form of the first word.

He is the hardest-working man I know.

They may not be the smartest or the best-looking people in the world.

Compound adjectives in their superlative form can also occur after the verb be without a noun.

Of all the men I know, he's the hardest working.

A Look at the Starting Point on page 92 again. How many superlative compound adjectives can you find?

B Rewrite these phrases using the superlative form of the compound adjective.

1. an awe-inspiring place the most awe-inspiring place
2. a widely read book
3. a good-looking man
4. a thirst-quenching beverage
5. a highly developed mind
6. a warm-hearted friend
7. a far-reaching plan
8. a thought-provoking novel
9. a well-defined project
10. a bad-intentioned person

C Complete these sentences with the superlative compound adjectives you wrote in part B and your own ideas. Share your answers with a partner.

1. . . . natural place I've ever been to is . . .
The most awe-inspiring natural place I've ever been to is the Grand Canyon.
2. . . . magazine in the country is probably . . .
3. In my opinion, . . . actor / actress in the world is . . .
4. On a hot day, . . . drink is . . .
5. . . . movie I've ever seen is . . .
6. . . . person I know is . . .
7. . . . leader my country has ever had is / was . . .

DISCUSSION

Everyday heroism

A Pair work Read what Farah says about heroic behavior. What is her definition of a hero? Do you agree with the definition? Do you have other examples?

To me, heroes often aren't the most widely recognized people, and on the surface, their actions don't necessarily seem to be the most awe inspiring. A hero could be a parent who, after an exhausting day, helps a child with a difficult homework assignment. It could be a person on the street who picks up and returns something you didn't realize you'd dropped, someone who stops by to check on you when you're ill, someone who sides with you when you've been wronged, or someone who takes time out of a busy schedule to help you with a problem. A hero is not just a person who has the courage to take a risk; he or she is also a person who has the courage to always be kind to people no matter what they're going through.

Farah, 26

B Group work Discuss these situations. What would you do to make a difference?

a

Your next-door neighbor fell and broke her leg. She lives by herself.

b

The condition of your neighborhood park has deteriorated, and fewer and fewer people are using it.

c

Children in a nearby low-income neighborhood seem to have few opportunities for academic success.

d

A friend of yours has lost his or her job and can't seem to find another one.

"I would check on my neighbor from time to time and help her with some of her daily chores."

A champion for women in Africa

A Pair work Do you know any nongovernmental organizations (NGOs)? Discuss some of the ways they are making a change. Then read the article.

ANN COTTON,

SOCIAL ENTREPRENEUR

The following is an interview with Ann Cotton, founder and chief executive of the Campaign for Female Education (Camfed), an NGO whose programs invest in the education of girls and young women and have benefited over two million children in the poorest areas of Africa.

How do you define a social entrepreneur? Someone who witnesses the pain and struggle in the lives of others and is compelled to act and to work with them.

What skills are needed to be a social entrepreneur? You need to be absolutely dogged. You need to listen to the people experiencing the problems, and their ideas need to crowd out the words of the “can’t be done-ers.”

How did your work as a former teacher and head of children’s assessment help in setting up Camfed? There will always be children who don’t fit the institution and whose sense of exclusion is reinforced day by day. Their experience shaped my approach to children and young people in Africa.

How did you learn how to run a successful charity? I learned by doing, and from others who were encouraging and generous in their help. I belonged to a community of activists that was inspirational.

How did you manage the growth of Camfed from supporting 32 girls, with £2,000 raised from selling your homemade cakes, to a £3,000,000 NGO? Lucy Lake [currently chief executive officer] and I built the whole model from the grassroots up. Donors could see it was working and began to get behind us in increasing numbers. We attract and retain outstanding individuals. In Africa, the early beneficiaries head the programs – young women who share a background of rural poverty, transformation through education, and the courage to bring about change.

What has been the key to the success of Camfed? Never take your eye off the ball. Always remember that you and everyone on the team are the servant of the cause – in our case, girls’ education and young women’s leadership in Africa.

What advice would you give tomorrow’s social entrepreneurs? Be greedy for social change, and your life will be endlessly enriched. The only failure lies in not trying, or giving up.

What is the best piece of management advice you have received? Have faith in your intuition and listen to your gut feeling.

B Are these statements about the reading true (T), false (F), or is the information not given (NG) in the interview? Write the correct letters.

- | | |
|--|---|
| ___ 1. According to Ann Cotton, a social entrepreneur feels driven to help those who suffer in life. | ___ 4. Camfed’s programs are run only by the most highly trained experts in management. |
| ___ 2. Ann Cotton’s experience of being excluded in school has guided her approach to setting up Camfed. | ___ 5. Camfed’s cause is to educate young women in Africa and encourage them to become leaders. |
| ___ 3. Today, Camfed continues to fund its programs through cake sales. | ___ 6. Ann Cotton thinks managers should trust their instincts. |

C Group work Discuss these questions with your group.

- How does Ann Cotton explain the success of Camfed? Which of the factors mentioned do you think were the most important?
- Do you think Ann Cotton is an exceptional individual, or could anyone have done what she did? Explain your answer.

STARTING POINT

Success stories

A Match these descriptions of successful companies with the company name.

___ 1. The Body Shop ___ 2. Google ___ 3. Sanrio

a. Larry Page and Sergey Brin started this innovative company in a dorm room at Stanford University. They didn't get along at first, and had they been unable to work together, the most widely used Internet search engine might never have been created. Should you ask about their company's goal, they'll probably smile and tell you it's to organize all of the world's information in order to make it accessible and useful.

b. Should you want to buy natural skin and hair care products, this company offers over 1,200 choices. Anita Roddick started the company to support her family. Had she been wealthy, she might not have gone into business. These stores communicate a message about human rights and environmental issues. The company is famous for its fair trade practices in impoverished communities.

c. In 1960, Shintaro Tsuji created a line of character-branded lifestyle products centered around gift-giving occasions. However, had this Tokyo-based company not created Hello Kitty, it wouldn't have become nearly so successful. Hello Kitty goods are in demand all over the world. They include purses, wastebaskets, pads and pens, erasers, cell phone holders, and much, much more.

B Pair work Discuss these questions.

1. What might be some reasons for the success of these companies?
2. Can you think of other successful companies? What do they offer?

LISTENING

Unsuccessful endeavors

A Group work Brainstorm some of the factors that can make a new business fail.

- B Listen to two people discuss their unsuccessful attempts to start a business. What types of business did they try to get into? Why did they choose those types? Complete the chart.

	Type of business	Reason for choosing it
2.

- C Listen again. Write the main reasons why each attempt failed.

1. _____
2. _____

Subject-verb inversion in conditional sentences

In past unreal conditional sentences, people sometimes replace if by inverting the subject and the auxiliary had. This occurs mainly in more formal speech and writing.

If they had been unable to work together, the search engine might never have been created.

Had they been unable to work together, the search engine might never have been created.

The same construction is possible for negative sentences. Notice that negative forms are not contracted and not is separated from had in these sentences.

If this company hadn't created Hello Kitty, it wouldn't have become nearly so successful.

Had this company not created Hello Kitty, it wouldn't have become nearly so successful.

In present and future real conditionals, people often replace if by putting should at the beginning of the sentence. Note that this use of should does not express obligation.

If you want to buy natural skin care products, this company offers over 1,200 choices.

Should you want to buy natural skin care products, this company offers over 1,200 choices.

GRAMMAR PLUS see page 128

A Look at the Starting Point on page 96 again. Can you find other conditional sentences with subject-verb inversion?

B Combine these pairs of sentences using conditional clauses and subject-verb inversion. Then compare with a partner. Sometimes more than one answer is possible.

- | | |
|--|---|
| 1. That company didn't take the competition into consideration. It went out of business.
Had that company taken the competition into consideration, it wouldn't have gone out of business. | 5. The government doesn't encourage international business. The economy is slowing down. |
| 2. That fast-food chain hasn't offered any healthy food options. Its sales are down. | 6. My friends and I didn't know enough about the potential of the Internet. We didn't start an online business. |
| 3. Terry didn't develop a serious business plan. She missed a number of opportunities. | 7. I knew it would take 10 years to pay off my college loans. I chose an affordable school. |
| 4. I decided to go to business school. I started my own business. | 8. I thought my friend's business idea would fail. I didn't lend her any money. |

"In my opinion, the most believable one is number three. I read that companies pay people to write positive posts about their products. The one I found hardest to believe is . . ."

B Group work Discuss the questions with your group.

- What would probably happen if you replied to an ad like one of those above?
- What are some other examples of hard-to-believe advertisements?
- Who do you think is attracted to these types of messages? Why?

Formal letters don't include personal information that is irrelevant to the topic. Unlike personal letters, formal letters tend to avoid contractions and idioms.

A Read this formal letter. Then label the five parts listed in the box.

- 1 The heading includes your address and the date. It typically goes in the top left corner. If you use letterhead stationery with an address, only the date is added.
- 2 The inside address is below the heading. It contains the addressee's name, title (if you know it), and address.
- 3 For the greeting, you should write "Dear" and "Mr." or "Ms." along with the person's family name. If you don't have a specific person to contact, write "Dear Sir or Madam." The greeting is usually followed by a colon (:).
- 4 The body of the letter follows. The first paragraph is used to state the reason for the letter. The paragraphs that follow should each focus on only one point. The letter generally concludes by thanking the reader in some way.
- 5 The closing includes a closing phrase, your signature, and your name and title (if you have one).

DONNA MALNICK

Mr. Jonathan Hayes, Director
Institute for Study Abroad
1472 Park Avenue
Summit, NJ 07091

Dear Mr. Hayes:

I am writing to request more information concerning your study abroad programs. Your programs sound extremely interesting, and I hope to participate in one of them next year. Your Study Abroad in Paris program sounds particularly fascinating.

I would like to sign up for the Paris program beginning in June. I'm still trying to decide whether to choose the homestay option or the dormitory option. Would it be possible to send me further information about those two choices in order to help me make a decision?

I realize that all the spaces in your Paris program may already be filled. In that case, my second choice would be the Study Abroad in Toulouse program. My third choice would be your Study Abroad in Strasbourg program.

Thank you very much for your help. I look forward to receiving the information.

Sincerely,

Donna Malnick

LESSON B ► The new worker

1 STARTING POINT

Attitudes at work

A What kinds of working conditions would you like at your job? Choose the statements you agree with.

What are you looking for in a JOB?

- ☐ 1 I would be happier and more productive if my workspace were neat and organized.
- ☐ 2 I would take almost any job provided that there were opportunities to learn.
- ☐ 3 I wouldn't care about a high salary if a job allowed me to balance my work, family, and social life.
- ☐ 4 I wouldn't mind working in an office, assuming that I had the freedom to be creative.
- ☐ 5 If the company I worked for dealt fairly with me, I would be loyal to it.
- ☐ 6 I would only take a job on the condition that it offered long-term security.
- ☐ 7 I would quit a job that required me to be dishonest, whether or not it were high paying.
- ☐ 8 Supposing I had the choice, I would prefer to work with a group rather than by myself.

B Group work Compare your answers with the members of your group. How are you different? Do you think you would make a harmonious group of co-workers?

2 DISCUSSION

The dream job

A Look at this checklist of considerations in choosing a job. Add two more items to the list. Then choose the three items that are the most important to you.

The ideal job . . .

- | | |
|---|---|
| <input type="checkbox"/> allows me to travel often. | <input type="checkbox"/> lets me wear casual clothes. |
| <input type="checkbox"/> offers me a high salary. | <input type="checkbox"/> has an excellent health plan and benefits. |
| <input type="checkbox"/> isn't stressful at all. | <input type="checkbox"/> has lots of opportunity for advancement. |
| <input type="checkbox"/> doesn't require long hours. | <input type="checkbox"/> is close to my home or school. |
| <input type="checkbox"/> gives me the freedom to be creative. | <input type="checkbox"/> _____. |
| <input type="checkbox"/> has a flexible schedule. | <input type="checkbox"/> _____. |

B Pair work Share your ideas with a partner. Explain and compare your choices.

"For me, the ideal job should have a flexible schedule so that I always have time for family and a social life . . ."

3 GRAMMAR

Adverb clauses of condition

Conditional sentences do not necessarily use if. The following expressions are also used. The tense agreement in the clauses is the same as in conditional sentences with if.

Provided (that) and on the condition (that) introduce a condition on which another situation depends.

I would take almost any job provided that there were opportunities to learn.

I would only take a job on the condition that it offered long-term security.

Whether or not introduces a condition that does not influence another situation.

I would quit a job that required me to be dishonest, whether or not it were high paying.

Assuming (that) introduces an assumption upon which another condition depends.

I wouldn't mind working in an office, assuming that I had the freedom to be creative.

Supposing (that) introduces a possible condition that could influence another situation.

Supposing I had the choice, I would prefer to work with a group rather than by myself.

GRAMMAR PLUS see page 129

A Look at the Starting Point on page 100 again. Can you replace the sentences with if with another expression?

B Match the items to make logical sentences.

- | | |
|---|--|
| 1. Whether or not you have a clear job description, ____ | a. you might be able to start a successful business. |
| 2. Assuming that you have an original idea, ____ | b. I would be willing to travel on business. |
| 3. On the condition that I didn't have to be away for more than two or three days, ____ | c. would you jump at the opportunity? |
| 4. Provided that I could find extra time, ____ | d. I felt the interview process was a valuable experience. |
| 5. Supposing a close friend wanted to start a business with you, ____ | e. you need to be flexible and cooperative. |
| 6. Whether or not I actually get the job, ____ | f. I'd like to do some volunteer work. |

C Pair work Complete these sentences with your own information. Then discuss them with a partner.

- I would enjoy managing an office, assuming . . .
I had responsible people working for me.
- Provided a company paid for my commute, I . . .
- Whether or not I have enough money in the bank, I . . .
- I would take a reduction in salary on the condition that . . .
- Supposing that I couldn't find a job, I . . .
- I would agree to work overtime, assuming that . . .
- On the condition that I were guaranteed two weeks' vacation a year, . . .

LISTENING

Can you really learn that?

A Listen to three people who participated in workshops for their jobs. What type of workshop did each person attend?

1. Anne: _____ 2. Thomas: _____ 3. Paulina: _____

B Listen again. What did each person learn from his or her workshop experience?

Anne: _____

Thomas: _____

Paulina: _____

C Pair work Would you like to take part in such workshops? Why or why not? Discuss your reasons.

Working with others

- A Pair work Do your friends tend to have similar values and temperaments?
Read the article and make a list of three categories that your friends would fit into.

— THE VALUE OF — DIFFERENCE

Every person is unique. We work with many people who are different from us. It is important to realize that differences are good and to appreciate that not all people are like us. On a team, the strengths of one worker can overcome the weaknesses of another. The balance created by such variety makes a team stronger. There are three basic ways that people differ from one another: values, temperament, and individual diversity (gender, age, etc.).

Values are the importance that we give to ideas, things, or people. While our values may be quite different, organizational behavior expert Stephen Robbins suggests that people fall into one of three general categories:

Traditionalists: People in this category value hard work, doing things the way they've always been done, loyalty to the organization, and the authority of leaders.

Humanists: People in this category value quality of life, autonomy, loyalty to self, and leaders who are attentive to workers' needs.

Pragmatists: People in this category value success, achievement, loyalty to career, and leaders who reward people for hard work.

Another important way in which people differ is temperament. Your temperament is the distinctive way you think, feel, and react to the world. All of us have our own individual temperament. However, experts have found that it is easier to understand the differences in temperament by classifying people into four categories:

Optimists: People with this temperament must be free and not tied down. They're impulsive, they enjoy the immediate, and they like working with things. The optimist is generous and cheerful and enjoys action for action's sake.

Realists: People with this temperament like to belong to groups. They have a strong sense of obligation and are committed to society's standards. The realist is serious, likes order, and finds traditions important.

Futurists: People with this temperament like to control things and are also self-critical. They strive for excellence and live for work. The futurist focuses on the future and is highly creative.

Idealists: People with this temperament want to know the meaning of things. They appreciate others and get along well with people of all temperaments. The idealist is romantic, writes fluently, and values integrity.

- B Match the categories from the article with the descriptions.

- | | |
|------------------------|--|
| 1. traditionalist ____ | a. generous and cheerful; enjoys action for action's sake |
| 2. humanist ____ | b. serious and likes order; has a strong sense of obligation |
| 3. pragmatist ____ | c. values quality of life; attentive to workers' needs |
| 4. optimist ____ | d. strives for excellence; focuses on the future |
| 5. realist ____ | e. values doing things the way they've always been done |
| 6. futurist ____ | f. romantic; writes fluently; values integrity |
| 7. idealist ____ | g. values loyalty to career, success, and achievement |

- C Group work Discuss these questions. Then share your answers with the class.

- How would you categorize your own values and temperament? Give examples.
- Which category of people would you prefer to work with on a challenging project? Explain.

COMMUNICATION REVIEW

UNITS 10–12

SELF-ASSESSMENT

How well can you do these things? Choose the best answer.

I can ...	Very well	OK	A little
▶ Take part in a discussion about what people have to do to succeed in difficult situations (Ex. 1)	<input type="checkbox"/>	<input type="checkbox"/>	<input type="checkbox"/>
▶ Understand a lecture about language learning (Ex. 2)	<input type="checkbox"/>	<input type="checkbox"/>	<input type="checkbox"/>

▶ Describe and evaluate my own personal qualities (Ex. 4)	<input type="checkbox"/>	<input type="checkbox"/>	<input type="checkbox"/>

Now do the corresponding exercises. Was your assessment correct?

SPEAKING

Speaking tips

A Pair work What would each person have to do to succeed? Think of several conditions that would work for each situation.

1. Mary has been asked to give a formal talk on a topic she knows little about.
2. Julia has been asked to give a short speech at a friend's wedding.
3. Hal is too timid to join in the group's conversation after class.
4. Tom had some bad experiences at job interviews, and now he gets really nervous before them.

B Group work Discuss your ideas with another pair. Do you have similar suggestions?

"Providing Mary spends time reading about the topic, she shouldn't have a problem."

"That's true, assuming she has time to do plenty of research and rehearse first."

LISTENING

Good language learners

A Listen to a lecture about good language learning. Who is the lecture for?
Choose the correct answer.

- ☐ a. people who are learning another language
- ☐ b. people who are going to travel abroad
- ☐ c. people who want to be language teachers

B Listen again. Choose the compound adjectives that are used to describe good language learners.

- | | | |

DISCUSSION

The most and the best

A Complete the sentences with your own information. Add reasons for your opinions, and compare with a partner.

1. One of the most open-minded people in my family is . . .
2. I imagine that a lot of the most hardworking people . . .
3. The most forward-thinking person I've ever met is . . .
4. The majority of my friends would agree that the best-dressed celebrities include . . .
5. The most easygoing person I've ever known is . . .
6. Some of the most well-informed people I can think of are . . .

"One of the most open-minded people in my family is my uncle John. He's always willing to go to new places and try new things."

B Pair work Who are some people you both admire? Use the superlative form of these compound adjectives to write sentences about them. Give reasons.

1. good-looking
2. thought-provoking
3. widely respected
4. kind-hearted

SPEAKING

Personal qualities

A Which of these people is most similar to you, and which is least similar?

Rita

"I've been told that I'm a charismatic person. The truth is that I'm a people person, and I'm not afraid to share my ideas with others."

Su Lyn

"I'm very optimistic. I try to look at the good side of things, and I'm always confident that even the worst situations will turn out to be fine."

Alberto

"I've lived in three different countries and have attended six different schools. Yet I've never had problems adapting to new situations."

B Pair work Which of these are your strongest qualities? Which do you feel are most necessary to realize your own personal and professional goals?

- adaptability
- charisma
- conscientiousness
- determination
- honesty
- initiative
- optimism
- self-confidence
- self-control

"I think I'm very adaptable. Since I'd like to be an actor, and the work is unpredictable, I think that's an important quality."

1A Phrasal verbs

Additional phrasal verbs

Separable: call off, count out, cut off, get across, hand over, pass up, take back

Inseparable: go over, hang around, live up to, look after, pick on, run out of, touch on

Intransitive: catch on, come along, come over, fall apart, show up, turn out

Certain intransitive two-word phrasal verbs, when followed by a preposition, can then take an object.

back down (from)	cut back (on)	drop out (of)	give in (to) catch up (to)	cut down (on)	get along (with)	give up (on) check out (of)	drop in (on)	get away (with)	look back (on)

When confronted with an argument, Mark never backs down.

Mark never backs down from an argument.

- 1 Underline the phrasal verb in each sentence. Is the verb separable (S) or inseparable (I)? Is it transitive (T) or intransitive (NT)? Write the correct letters.

S, T 1. The referees called the soccer match off due to heavy rain.

___ 2. Jessica asked me to come over to her house for dinner.

___ 3. Sometimes I find it hard to live up to my parents' expectations.

___ 4. Sally insulted me yesterday, but today she took back her remark.

___ 5. When entertaining, there's nothing worse than running out of food at your party.

___ 6. When Jim gave me the chance to share his apartment, I couldn't pass up the opportunity.

- 2 Complete the sentences with intransitive phrasal verbs and a preposition from the grammar box. Be sure to use the correct form of the verb.

1. When my grandfather and I go jogging together, I sometimes need to stop and wait for him to catch up to me.

2. I didn't want to try bungee jumping, but I finally _____ the pressure from my friends and tried it. It was fun!

3. Even when you fail, a true friend will never _____ you.

4. My friends and I are trying to _____ the money we spend, so on Fridays we just watch TV at my house.

5. Mia's father is successful, even though he _____ college.

6. There's a long line of people waiting to _____ the hotel.

7. I insist on honesty; I won't let anyone _____ lying to me.

1B Gerund and infinitive constructions

The verbs forget, mean, and regret can be followed by either an infinitive or a gerund. However, the meaning is significantly different in each case.

Forget followed by an infinitive refers to something you didn't actually do. Forget followed by a gerund refers to an action that you in fact did earlier.

Marcello forgot to meet his best friend at the train station.

Marcello never forgot meeting his favorite actor.

Mean followed by an infinitive means "intend." In this case, mean is usually used in the negative or in the past tense. Mean followed by a gerund means "involve or necessitate."

I meant to visit Sheila while I was in Hawaii, but I didn't have the chance.

Inviting Emile to the party means inviting Eva, too. She'd be so insulted if we didn't.

Regret followed by infinitives such as inform, announce, and say is a polite way of introducing bad news in official communication. Regret followed by a gerund means "be sorry for/about."

The corporation regrets to inform you that all job vacancies have been filled.

Donna really regretted missing her best friend's wedding.

Be + adjective expressions are often followed by an infinitive.

be amazed	be determined	be happy	be lucky
be ashamed	be eager	be hesitant	be ready

Be + adjective + preposition and verb + preposition expressions are often followed by a gerund.

be bored with	be convinced of	be good at	be used to	be worried about apologize for	complain about	object to	participate in	take part in think of

1 Choose the correct form of the verb.

- Manny forgot to do / (doing) his homework for English class because he had completed it over a month ago.
- Mina didn't mean to frighten / frightening the baby with the doll.
- Though she didn't have much, Wendy never regretted to spend / spending money on her friends.
- I always forget to call / calling my parents, and they get really mad at me.
- Attending my high school reunion means to see / seeing old friends as well as people I didn't like very much.
- We regret to announce / announcing that Flight 54 has been delayed.

2 Complete the sentences with the infinitive or gerund form of the verb in parentheses.

- Gil is really eager to rekindle (rekindle) his relationship with Lana.
- I've been worried about _____ (meet) my new college roommate.
- I think you're really lucky _____ (have) so many close friends.
- Have you thought of _____ (send) an e-card instead of mailing a card?
- I'm ashamed _____ (say) that my college roommate and I never reconnected.
- I would like to apologize for _____ (rehash) all these old issues.

Here are some verbs that are used with each pattern.

a. verb + infinitive

afford, fail, hasten, learn, prepare, proceed, seek, strive
I really strive to wear the latest styles and trends.

b. verb + object + infinitive advise, allow, authorize, cause, convince, encourage, instruct, permit, persuade, urge

The salesperson convinced me to buy a dress I knew I didn't need.

c. verb + gerund

can't help, can't see, can't stand, enjoy, get through, keep on, (not) mind, miss, postpone, risk
I can't see paying high prices for clothes that will be out of style in a year.

d. verb + object + preposition + gerund/noun blame (for), dissuade (from), forgive (for), interest (in), keep (from), suspect (of), thank (for)

Can I interest you in going on a shopping spree with me?

- 1 Label the words in boldface in the text below with the correct verb pattern above.

A famous saying goes, "Clothes make the man." My mother used to say that to me because I was a sloppy dresser, and she (1) b urged me to look my best. She'd coax me to dress better, but nothing could (2) _____ keep me from wearing jeans. At my high school, students never (3) _____ failed to wear jeans to school, and my mother always sighed and tried to (4) _____ dissuade me from leaving the house in my old, torn jeans. On my graduation from high school, my parents gave me my first suit and (5) _____ advised me to "dress for success."

Since then, I've changed quite a bit. I really (6) _____ enjoy dressing fashionably. I can (7) _____ afford to wear stylish slacks and shirts, with well-polished shoes. It's funny, but I (8) _____ don't miss wearing jeans one bit.

- 2 Complete the sentences by putting the words in parentheses in the correct order and by choosing the correct verb form. Write the letter of the pattern from the grammar box next to each sentence.

- d 1. I forgave my sister for giving away my old laptop. (my sister / forgive / give away / for)

- _____ 5. Lydia's dad _____ him a necktie for Father's Day. (get / her / thank / for)
- _____ 6. The man stole the sneakers, and then _____ them in the mall. (wear / proceeded)

2B Cleft sentences with what

To emphasize the whole sentence rather than just the part following the main verb, use a cleft sentence with what and a form of the verb do.

I try to project a positive attitude.

What I try to project is a positive attitude. (emphasizes a positive attitude)

What I do is try to project a positive attitude. (emphasizes the whole sentence)

She complained to the waiter about the quality of the food.

What she complained about to the waiter was the quality of the food.

What she did was complain to the waiter about the quality of the food.

Cleft structures can include expressions like the reason why, the thing that, the place where, and the person who. These structures are typically used with the verb be.

I'm wearing sunglasses to protect my eyes.

The reason why I'm wearing sunglasses is to protect my eyes.

I do all my shopping at the mall.

The place where I do all my shopping is (at) the mall.

1 Rewrite these sentences as cleft sentences with what to emphasize the whole sentence.

- The candidate showed the voters he was a trustworthy man.

What the candidate did was show the voters he was a trustworthy man.

- My mother shouldn't have made me wear my sister's old clothes.
- I'm going to send all my shirts out to be dry-cleaned.
- My friends call me at work all the time.

- Eleanor wore her mother's wedding dress at her own wedding.
- Martin spilled spaghetti sauce on his shirt.
- Sam bought a whole new wardrobe.
- Mary is going to wear her diamond necklace to the party.

2 Rewrite these sentences as cleft sentences by starting them with the expressions in parentheses.

- I'm wearing a tie to impress my boss. (the reason why)

The reason why I'm wearing a tie is to impress my boss.

- I lost my watch in the park. (the place where)
- The office dress code changed last Friday. (the day when)
- My dog wears a sweater because his fur is short. (the reason why)
- I remember the intense expression on his face. (the thing that)
- Lori keeps her jewelry under her bed. (the place where)

3A

Indefinite and definite articles

In completely general statements with uncountable nouns, do not use an article before the noun. However, the is required when the noun is made more specific by a modifying phrase following it.

Ethics is becoming an important part of the field of genetics.

The ethics of cloning should be addressed by experts in the field.

Image is an important part of success.

The image she projected did not serve her well in court.

With certain exceptions, do not use the before:

countries (exceptions: the Philippines, the United Arab Emirates, the United Kingdom, the United States)

streets and cities (exception: the Hague)

individual lakes, bays, islands, continents, mountain peaks (exception: the Matterhorn)

Do use the before:

rivers, oceans, seas, gulfs, mountain ranges, peninsulas, deserts, forests

1 Do the nouns in these sentences require a definite article? Write the, or X if none is needed.

1. A large number of oil wells have been drilled in the Gulf of Mexico.
2. There is no room for ____ frivolity when discussing ____ safety of nuclear power.
3. ____ United States utilizes more genetically modified food than ____ Europe does.
4. You shouldn't expect ____ confidentiality when you upload anything to the Internet.

6. Many people do not believe that ____ rights of animals should be protected.
7. A global warming monitoring station is located on top of ____ Mount Rutherford.
8. I think ____ human error is to blame for the majority of aircraft accidents.

2 Review the rules for articles on page 19. Then fill in the blanks with a definite article, an indefinite article, or X if none is needed. Sometimes more than one answer is possible.

(1) X Energy seems to be on everyone's mind these days. (2) ____ people are worried because they know that petroleum reserves are not infinite. It's also alarming that (3) ____ temperature of the earth seems to be rising year by year. Many scientists blame (4) ____ warming of the earth on (5) ____ burning of petroleum-based fuels.

However, there is no reason to give up (6) ____ hope, as (7) ____ alternatives are available. One example is (8) ____ wind farm, a collection of wind turbines that turn wind energy into electric power. Another example is (9) ____ hydroelectric facilities, which change (10) ____ energy created by moving water into electric power. (11) ____ hydroelectric facility on (12) ____ Paraná River in Brazil generates about 20 percent of the power used in the country. A final example is (13) ____ solar power. It is one of (14) ____ cleanest sources of energy and is attracting (15) ____ attention as well. Many countries, including (16) ____ United Arab Emirates, (17) ____ Spain, and (18) ____ India have built large solar power plants.

Lastly, it's important that we all conserve energy. Take (19) ____ moment to shut off and unplug any electrical items when you leave (20) ____ room.

3B -ing clauses

When -ing clauses begin a sentence, the agent of the -ing clause must be the subject of the main clause that follows.

Incorrect: Trying hard to fix my computer, ~~the dog~~ kept staring at me.

(The agent of the -ing clause seems to be the dog.)

Correct: Trying hard to fix my computer, I noticed the dog staring at me.

(The agent of the -ing clause and the subject of the main clause are the same.)

Incorrect: Doing yard work, ~~his clothes~~ got very dirty.

(The agent of the -ing clause seems to be his clothes.)

Correct: Doing yard work, he got dirt all over his clothes.

(The agent of the -ing clause and the subject of the main clause are the same.)

In addition to starting a sentence, -ing clauses can also follow these expressions:

have a good time	have an easy time	have fun	spend time have a hard time	have difficulty	have problems	waste time

1 Choose the main clause that makes sense with the -ing clause.

- | | |
|---|---|
| 1. Making strange noises,  b  | a. I knew that my computer would crash. |
| | b. my computer stopped working. |

- Norah was writing a genetic technology lecture. She spent a lot of time on it.
- The guard used the video surveillance camera to identify the intruder.
He had an easy time.
- We were trying to follow what the scientist was saying. We were having problems.

4A Reporting clauses

In reporting clauses, verbs such as admit, agree, announce, comment, complain, confess, disclose, explain, inform, and reveal are frequently followed by an indirect object. In this case, that should be retained for clarity.

Several people agreed with me that logic, not superstition, is the best way to make decisions.

Max explained to the teacher that a black cat never means bad luck in his country.

The following nouns are also often used in reporting clauses. Here, too, that is helpful in making the meaning clear and should be retained.

accusation	assertion	comment	explanation	response
argument	claim	decision	remark	suggestion

Bill made the assertion that he'd have no luck at all if it weren't for bad luck.

Liliana repeated her argument that only foolish people believe in magic.

The class rejected Niran's suggestion that we cancel class on Friday the 13th.

- 1 Using the words in parentheses, rewrite these sentences with reporting clauses in the simple past.

 7. Patrick remarked that Tanya probably shouldn't push her luck. Tanya ignored what he said.
 8. Mr. Wang responded that actions speak louder than words. I understood him.

4B Reporting clauses in the passive

The following verbs can be used in reporting clauses in the passive.

announce deny maintain reveal suggest confirm estimate observe rumor understand

Reporting clauses in the passive are commonly used with a variety of structures.

Simple present: It is suggested that passengers report anything suspicious to the driver.

Simple past: It was flatly denied that a nuclear submarine had been lost in the Arctic Ocean.

Present perfect: It has been estimated that the construction of Stonehenge took over 20 million hours.

Past perfect: It had been rumored that a monster was living in the lake.

With modals: It couldn't be denied that many mysteries elude scientific understanding.

With past modals: It should have been confirmed that the flight would be delayed.

Reporting clauses in the passive are used in written and formal English and are not common in conversation.

- 1 Add a reporting clause in the passive with it to these statements. Use the verb and the suggested structure in parentheses.
 1. The lost city of Atlantis had been discovered on April Fool's Day, 1980. (announce, simple past)
It was announced that the lost city of Atlantis had been discovered on April Fool's Day, 1980.

 4. People can't deny that ancient civilizations possessed knowledge lost to us today.
 5. A newspaper has confirmed that a pack of 400 wolves was terrifying a town in Siberia.
 6. The authorities have announced that 10 people on the ship got sick.

To express the speaker's attitude about the entire sentence, sentence adverbs are most often located at the beginning of the sentence and set off by a comma.

Predictably, the hero of the movie won the heart of the girl.

Sentence adverbs can be used in place of longer clauses that modify a sentence.

People were amazed that the movie sold 26 million tickets on its opening weekend.

Amazingly, the movie sold 26 million tickets on its opening weekend.

Nobody was surprised that the sequel was also extremely popular.

Not surprisingly, the sequel was also extremely popular.

The following conjunctive adverbs link a sentence with a preceding idea.

accordingly consequently hence indeed meanwhile otherwise thus

The coming attractions ended and the movie began; accordingly, the audience fell silent.

- 1 Rewrite the sentences using sentence adverbs to replace the boldfaced words.
 1. It's apparent to me that movies with clichéd storylines are still very popular.
Apparently, movies with clichéd storylines are still very popular.
 2. It's fortunate that there were good movies available on the 13-hour plane ride.

 4. The most popular movie stars demand extremely high salaries; _____ the cost of producing movies with "big names" has risen.
 5. It's recommended that you buy tickets in advance; _____, you might not get a seat.

5B Such . . . that and so . . . that

In written English, so and such are most often followed by a that clause. However, in conversation, so and such are frequently used alone to express emphatic stress.

The host on that game show is so funny!

That actress plays her role so convincingly!

The writers of that new sitcom show such originality!

That was such a great documentary!

So much, so little, so many, and so few can also be used without a that clause and for emphatic stress.

There are so many reality TV shows these days!

That game show gives away so much money!

In conversation, much and little can be used as adverbs following so.

Why do you watch TV so much? (much = “frequently”)

That actor is featured so little that I sometimes forget he’s on the show. (little = “infrequently”)

Much, little, many, and few can also serve as pronouns for nouns.

TV can be bad for your health. I sometimes watch so much (TV) my eyes hurt.

He needs more free time. He has so little (free time) he can’t keep up with the latest TV shows.

I don’t watch soap operas anymore. I’ve seen so many (soap operas) that I’m tired of them.

TV news requires reporters, but there are so few (reporters) that many stories aren’t covered.

1 Complete these sentences with so, such, so much, so little, so many, or so few.

1. You should see the Beyoncé documentary. It’s so interesting!
2. It’s a good night for watching TV. There are _____ new shows on!

4. Turn off that program right now! I’ve never heard _____ language!
5. _____ TV shows interest Jon that he rarely watches TV.
6. Shelby works long hours. He has _____ time for TV.

2 Complete the text with so, such, so much, so little, so many, or so few.

I’ve spent (1) such a lot of time watching reality TV that I guess I’m sort of an expert. There are (2) _____ genres of reality TV shows that it’s confusing, and the list of individual shows is (3) _____ long nobody can remember them all.

A very popular one is about fishermen in Alaska. Those guys catch (4) _____ seafood they fill up the boat! They catch a lot of viewers, too, with consistently high ratings and more than a few important awards. One low-rated show is about home renovations. In fact, (5) _____ people watch it that it’s going to be canceled. My favorite is about pet cloning. It’s quite popular. However, it’s (6) _____ a strange show that I’m really surprised (7) _____ people like it.

I’m really glad there are channels dedicated entirely to reality TV. Honestly, I have (8) _____ interest in other TV genres that reality TV is all I watch!

These structures are commonly used in double comparatives.

The + more / less + clause

The more I listen to classical music, the more I appreciate it.

The + comparative form of adjective + clause

The more romantic a song is, the less my brother wants to listen to it.

The + comparative form of adverb + clause

The louder Mario plays his stereo, the more his neighbors complain.

The + more / less / fewer + noun / gerund + clause

The more dancing you do, the more natural you'll feel on the dance floor.

Short double comparatives without verbs are common in conversation.

Many of them end in the better.

The more, the merrier!

The bigger, the better!

The sooner, the better!

- 1 Fill in the blanks to create appropriate double comparatives. For comparatives with adjectives or adverbs, more than one answer is possible.

- Ricky seems to play his music loud in his car in order to get attention.
The louder the music is, the more people turn their heads.

B: _____!
- A: How many people do you think we should invite to the party?
B: _____!
- A: What would you like your new house to be like?
B: _____!

6B Will and would for habits and general truths

Used to and would are both used to express habits in the past.

Before he became a big star, Mark used to play music on the street for money.

Before he became a big star, Mark would play music on the street for money.

However, would cannot be used with stative verbs such as be, have, like, live, love, mean, and own.

Correct: When I was young, I used to have a clarinet.

Incorrect: When I was young, I would have a clarinet.

- 1 Complete the sentences using would wherever possible. If would is not possible, use used to.

 8. In high school, Madonna _____ love to dance and _____ always get excellent grades.
 9. Although my family wasn't wealthy, we _____ own a concert-quality grand piano.
- 2 Complete the paragraph using the correct form of the verb in parentheses. Use would or will for habits and general truths wherever possible.

Music has played an important role in my life since I was very young. When I was a boy, our family (1) would sit (sit) on the green lawn in the center of town on Saturday nights listening to the town band. Between songs, I (2) _____ (like) to talk to the musicians about their instruments, which fascinated me. I (3) _____ (ask) them if I could play their trumpets and clarinets, and they (4) _____ (say) no in as gentle a way as they could. Who could have imagined that I would become an instrument maker? I've got my own family now. On warm Saturdays, I (5) _____ (take) them down to the center of town to listen to the town band. And, every time we go, my own son (6) _____ (bother) the musicians with questions and requests. After all, like father, like son!

When the relative pronoun is the complement (or object) of a preposition, whom is required (not who).

No one can live on that land now except indigenous people to whom special permits have been given.

Similarly, which is required (not that) when the preposition precedes the relative pronoun.

My parents' generation stood for certain principles against which my generation has rebelled.

The relative pronoun whose is not only used for people. It can also represent animals or things. This relative pronoun is required.

By encountering animals (7) _____ are real, not just pictures, children learn the important lesson that these are living creatures (8) _____ are worthy of respect, just like us.

7B As if, as though, as, the way, and like

When as introduces a clause expressing a comparison, subject-verb inversion can occur in affirmative sentences.

With do: Marissa has a lot of trouble accepting change, as does Trina.

With auxiliary verbs: Mitt has coped well with changes at work, as have his co-workers.

With modals: Grandma would tell us stories of the old days, as would Grandpa.

With be: Marcel is wary of technology, as is his whole family.

When both clauses have the same subject, as if and as though clauses with adjectives or past participles are frequently shortened by removing the subject and be.

Bill is talking about quitting his job, as though (he were) single and carefree.

Marvin sat motionless in front of his new media center, as if (he were) glued to the chair.

Notice that we use a past form of a verb after as if and as though when these phrases are followed by a hypothetical or unreal situation.

Bill is talking about quitting his job as though he were carefree. (He has responsibilities.)

Some young people replace their gadgets every year as if they had all the money in the world.

- 1 Combine these sentences using a clause expressing comparison with as. Use subject-verb inversion.

 4. That kid's clothes looked too big for him, as though borrowed from an older brother.
 5. My grandmother looks odd in that photo, as if she were annoyed.

The following verbs are commonly used with both a direct and indirect object.

bring	hand	order	pay	serve
give	make	owe	promise	throw

When the direct object is a pronoun, it goes before the indirect object.

When the indirect object is a pronoun, it can go before or after the direct object.

The boss owes it to Sid. (it = direct object)

The boss owes him a month's salary. (him = indirect object)

The boss owes a month's salary to him. (him = indirect object)

When both objects are pronouns, only one pattern is possible:

direct object + to / for + indirect object.

The boss owes it to him.

The boss ordered it for him.

- 1 Complete the sentences using the words in parentheses. Write each sentence in two different ways.
 1. Finally, the waiter brought . . . (our dinners / us)

6. Over the course of the year, _____ I visited her apartment, she seemed to have added another cat. By spring, she had at least five.

9B Noun clauses with whoever and whatever

In formal speech and writing, whoever is used for the subject and whomever is used for the object of a clause. Whomever is rare in conversation.

Whoever wants a unique experience should try scuba diving in a coral reef.
I'll take whomever the instructor chooses for my rock-climbing partner.

When referring to a known and limited group of items, whichever can be used to mean "whatever one" or "whatever ones."

For your birthday, I'll pay for kayaking or skydiving lessons. You can choose whichever you want.

10A Overview of passives

The passive voice with a modal can be used in short answers.

A: Why wasn't that author awarded the Nobel Prize for literature?

B: I don't know, but he should have been. (He should have been awarded the Nobel Prize for literature.)

The verb get can also serve as an auxiliary to form the passive voice. It is less formal and primarily used in spoken English. Get always indicates a change (with a meaning close to become), while be can indicate an unchanging state or a dynamic one.

Larry and Natalie got married in 2006. (Their wedding occurred in 2006.)

Larry and Natalie were married in 2006 when they went to Greece. (Their wedding may have occurred before 2006.)

The verb get is also commonly used in expressions such as get acquainted, get arrested, get dressed, get excited, get married, and get scared.

- 1 Complete the short answers with the appropriate modal in the passive voice. Sometimes more than one answer is possible.

10B Subject-verb agreement with quantifiers

A (large / small / great) number of always modifies a plural noun. The resulting expression takes a plural verb.

A (large) number of students in my English class were absent on Friday.

When certain collective nouns, such as majority or minority, act as a whole unit or a single group, they take a singular verb.

All students can express their opinions, but the majority rules.

In the United States, Spanish speakers constitute a linguistic minority that is growing rapidly.

Majority and minority are followed by the plural form of be when the complement is a plural noun.

If you ask my father about young people today, he'll tell you that the majority are slackers.

Of people who are concerned with using language correctly, only a small minority are linguists.

- 1 Review the rules for quantifiers on page 85. Choose the correct form of the verb. If both forms are possible, choose both.
 1. A minority of American English speakers understand / understands Australian slang.
 2. A great number of my friends has / have sharp tongues.

11A Compound adjectives

The following compound adjectives follow the pattern: noun + past participle.

awestruck frostbitten handwritten homemade store-bought waterlogged bloodstained handmade heartbroken moth-eaten sunburned windswept

The following compound adjectives are found written as one word in many dictionaries.

airborne barefooted downhearted lightweight painstaking airsick daylong hardheaded newfound seaworthy

In the comparative form of compound adjectives, more and less are not followed by hyphens.

a more forward-looking plan a less easygoing person a more highly trained applicant

1 Use one-word adjectives from the grammar box to rewrite the sentences.

- The flight attendant helped the passengers who felt sick on the airplane.
The flight attendant helped the airsick passengers.
- We attended a meeting that lasted from 9:00 in the morning to 6:00 in the evening.
- The passengers boarded the vessel that was worthy of making an ocean voyage.
- The sailors stopped at an island that had only recently been discovered.
- The star was overwhelmed by the fans who showed their admiration for her.
- Jason caught a virus that was carried through the air.

2 Combine the words from both boxes to create compound adjectives and complete the sentences. Check a dictionary for meaning and hyphen use.

forward	hand	home	tender	broken	hearted	made	winded
frost	heart	long	widely	bitten	thinking	respected	written

- The short handwritten message on this photo of Marilyn Monroe makes it very valuable.

11B Superlative compound adjectives

The following adjectives and adverbs have irregular comparative and superlative forms. They are frequently used in comparative and superlative compound adjectives.

Adjective	Comparative	Superlative	Adverb	Comparative	Superlative
good	better	best	well	better	best bad	worse	worst	badly	worse	worst far	farther / further	farthest / furthest	little	less (lesser)	least much	more	most
			far	farther / further	farthest / furthest

As with other superlative adjectives, the article the is not used when the noun is preceded by a possessive.

Venezuela's best-known poet will be reading one of his works at the public library this week.

- Write sentences as in the example using the information and the superlative form of the comparative adjective. Sometimes more than one answer is possible.
 - Charlize Theron is / good-looking actress / I've ever seen Charlize Theron is the best-looking actress I've ever seen.
 - My company president is / well-dressed executive / I've ever worked for
 - Last year, I went on one of / badly planned vacations / I've ever taken
 - Our chief of police is / little-appreciated public servant / our town has ever had
 - Mr. Fredericks is / well-loved teacher / our class has ever had
 - That player is / bad-tempered guy / our basketball team has ever hired
 - Professor Vargas is / much-honored academic / our college has ever invited to speak
 - That movie was filmed at / far-flung location / the studio has ever used
- Write sentences using the superlative form of the compound adjective. Be careful to use hyphens and the correctly.
 - That company's (lightweight) camera is the Photoflash X25.
That company's most lightweight camera is the Photoflash X25.
That company's lightest-weight camera is the Photoflash X25.
 - My uncle's face looks (awestruck) in the photograph on the right.
 - Henry was (broad-minded) when it came to questions of cultural difference.
 - I take after my father, who is (hardheaded) man I know.

 - To me, Japan's (awe-inspiring) sight is probably Mount Fuji.
 - Perhaps (widely recognized) actress from Malaysia is Michelle Yeoh.
 - One of the (low-lying) countries in Europe is Holland.

12A Subject-verb inversion in conditional sentences

When present or future real conditionals are expressed with should at the beginning of the sentence, the base form of the verb is used.

If you're looking for a competent employee, Ted is your man.

Should you be looking for a competent employee, Ted is your man.

Subject-verb inversion in conditional sentences occurs rarely with could and might, usually in literary or archaic contexts, and often with adverbs such as but or just.

Could he but win her love, the world would be his.

Might I just see my country once more, my heart would find peace.

In formal situations, people sometimes replace if by putting the past subjunctive were at the beginning of unreal conditional sentences.

If she found enough investors, she could form a startup company.

Were she to find enough investors, she could form a startup company.

If she had been wealthy, she might not have gone into business.

Were she to have been wealthy, she might not have gone into business.

- 1 Rewrite these sentences using should at the beginning of the sentence and the base form of the verb.

1. If Sven goes into business for himself, I'm sure he'll do very well.

Should Sven go into business for himself, I'm sure he'll do very well.

2. If Annie gets a raise, she'll be able to pay her college debts.

3. If Shin is sick tomorrow, would you be able to work in his place?

4. If you find yourself swamped by work, hire an assistant.

5. If a business is set up in a good location, customers will naturally come.

6. If a problem arises, you need to find a way to work around it.

7. If there's a chance of failure, I'd rather not take the risk.

8. If there's a lot of demand for a product, the price naturally rises.

- 2 Review the grammar rules on page 97 and in the grammar box. Then rewrite the sentences using subject-verb inversion.

1. If you asked him, he'd tell you the secret of his success.

Were you to ask him, he'd tell you the secret of his success.

2. If the board approved the measure, the president would surely not veto it.

3. If his boss hadn't been working against him, Jake would have been promoted.

4. If I had looked at my calendar, I would have known about the meeting.

5. If I could just win the gold medal, I'd be happier than the richest man.

6. If we received adequate funding, our program could be a great success.

7. If they were aware of the risk, they would quickly patent their idea.

8. If Tamara hadn't spoken out, the boss would have ignored her.

12B Adverb clauses of condition

In the event (that) and (just) in case also introduce a condition on which another situation depends. In the event (that) is more formal.

In the event that a replacement cannot be found, you'll have to take on extra responsibilities.
Here's a number to call just in case the copy machine breaks down.

Whether or not is used instead of if to introduce a condition on which another situation depends.

Or not is placed directly after whether or at the end of the clause.

Whether or not it involves travel, I'm going to have to take this job.

Whether it involves travel or not, I'm going to have to take this job.

Even if introduces a condition which, if it is true, doesn't affect the outcome of a situation.

It is frequently used with still.

I'm (still) going to call in sick tomorrow even if I'm not actually sick.

If only introduces a condition that the speaker strongly wishes to be true.

If only I had known about that job opening, I would have applied for it immediately.

1 Match the clauses to make logical conditional sentences.

- | | |
|--|---|
| 1. If only I hadn't insulted my boss, e | a. here's a copy for your files. |
| 2. Whether you feel happy inside or not, ____ | b. I wouldn't have to spend so much money on suits. |
| 3. Even if you have great leadership skills, ____ | c. you'll likely be promoted to fill her position. |
| 4. Just in case you didn't get the memo, ____ | d. I'm still going to take a job with another firm. |
| 5. If only I could wear casual clothes to work, ____ | e. I'm sure he wouldn't have fired me. |
| 6. Whether or not the schedule is flexible, ____ | f. the manager wants you to smile for the customers. |
| 7. Even if my company offers me a raise, ____ | g. you can't be forced to work more than 40 hours a week. |
| 8. In the event that the manager retires, ____ | h. you still have to earn the workers' respect. |

2 Choose the expression that best completes the sentence.

- Just in case / If only I have to go on a business trip this week, I've kept my schedule open.
- Even if / Assuming that the weather is nice, this weekend's company picnic should be fun.
- In the event that / Whether or not I receive training, I'm still not confident in my abilities.
- Even if / If only I were in charge of hiring people, I'd give everybody a pay raise.
- Provided that / Just in case employees do what is required, salaries are increased every year.

3A

Adjectives to discuss technology-related issues

Choose the best words to complete the text.

Technology does amazing things to improve our lives, but there are some things that we should keep in mind. We love all the cool things our smartphones can do, but do you think it's (1) unethical / hazardous / (prudent) to upgrade our phones every six months just to get a few more features? Aren't there more worthwhile ways to spend our money? Also, phones are made of plastic, metal, chemicals, and other potentially (2) audacious / confidential / hazardous materials, so we have to recycle or dispose of old devices carefully.

Another concern is electronic banking. It's certainly convenient to pay bills online, but many people worry about keeping financial information (3) confidential / problematic / unethical. It seems like no matter how complex our passwords are, (4) frivolous / audacious / confidential hackers are always able to break into our accounts – and they rarely get caught. We should track down these (5) unethical / prudent / frivolous tech wizards and hire them to be our security experts!

Choose the correct words to complete the conversation.

Marla: Why are you reading that silly magazine?
You know that most of those stories are
(1) conceivable / dubious / credible at best.

Chad: But I enjoy making fun of the articles! Look at this crazy story about a man who saw an upside-down rainbow. Everyone knows that a rainbow's arc is at the top. It sounds pretty
(2) fishy / plausible / conceivable to me.

Marla: Well, actually, I recently read in a science journal that an upside-down rainbow can occur. There's even a scientific name for it.
So I think that story is (3) iffy / misleading / well-founded after all.

Chad: Really? Well, OK, here's a story about glowing green mushrooms. It's reported that if you put one on a newspaper in a dark room, it would give off so much light that you could read the words! This story sounds (4) credible / phony / convincing to me.
I've never heard of anything like that.

Marla: But jellyfish and fireflies give off light, so why do you think it's (5) far-fetched / convincing / misleading for mushrooms to glow?

Chad: Well, I haven't see any (6) fishy / convincing / dubious evidence that glowing plants exist. But now that you say that, it does make me wonder.

Marla: Yeah, maybe that "silly magazine" isn't so silly!

5A

Adjectives to describe movies

Cross out the word that does not fit the meaning of each sentence.

<http://www.cup.org/bigcitycritic>

Learn about its business goals, products and services, and financial health. (2) Next / Nevertheless / Second, anticipate the questions the interviewer may ask you – and think of good answers! (3) Yet / In addition / Furthermore, it's a good idea to jot down your own questions about job responsibilities and opportunities for growth. At this point, you may feel totally ready for your interview. (4) Likewise / Yet / Nevertheless, there's one more step you should take: role-play an interview with a trusted friend or relative. That will increase your ability to communicate with self-assurance. (5) In conclusion / To sum up / Similarly, it may feel like all this preparation is a lot of work, but it'll be worth it when you walk confidently into that interview room.

Choose the best words to complete the email.

Hello Mark,

Thank you for agreeing to write the job description for our new position. Here are my thoughts on what to include when you write it. Since this is an entrepreneurial company, we should put a high priority on finding someone who has original ideas and (1) is innovative / has charisma / has influence. We need a person who (2) has specialized training / has initiative / has influence and doesn't wait to be told what to do. In addition, since our company works in close-knit teams, the new hire should (3) have good communication skills / have self-discipline / be optimistic and be good at explaining ideas. We also want a candidate who (4) has specialized training / is conscientious / has leadership ability and can inspire others to do their best work. Finally, since we deal with a lot of internal and external change, the person we hire must (5) be adaptable / be trustworthy / be conscientious and able to cope with some degree of uncertainty.

I look forward to reading the job description.

Regards,

Laura
